THANKSGIVING 1931

BLIZZARD TRAPS 1,000 INDIANS; 4 KNOWN DEAD

Gallup, N. M., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Three dead Indians were found tonight by the first rescue crew to reach some of the thousand or more Navajo and Zuni Indians snowbound atop high barren mesas seventy miles south of Gallup. Previously the frozen body of another Zuni had been found.

A party of horsemen, part of a rescue expedition of 200 riders, who reached a Zuni village after hours of struggle through deeply drifted snow, said a family of three Indians, including a baby, were frozen to death. The family was found in the vicinity of Atarque.

No report was made of fourteen other families supposed to be in the same camp.

The snow still was falling tonight. The depth here was 24 inches.

THROAT ILLNESS HITS ADDISON'S DISEASE VICTIM

Mrs. Andrew Nelson, 4103 North Overhill avenue, who was saved from death two months ago by a serum for Addison's disease brought by airplane from Buffalo, last night was seriously ill with a new ailment.

The woman, who is the mother of six children, has a severe throat infection, the exact nature of which has not been determined, according to physicians at the Billings Memorial hospital. She was said to be on the way to recovery from the attack of Addison's disease, an affliction marked by extreme anemia, when the throat infection was discovered two days ago.

Alarmed because of her weakened conditon, the physicians called the husband and six children to her bedside yesterday. The family had been hopeful of having her home for Thanksgiving.

IDEAL WEATHER IS PROMISED FOR THANKSGIVING

Ideal Thanksgiving day weather for today was predicted last night by J. R. Lloyd, government forecaster. The holiday outlook for the nation is generally fair, but cold.

In Chicago and the middle west, skies will be clear, and the temperature will rise to between 40 and 45 degrees, Mr. Lloyd said. Rain is likely tomorrow. There is apparently no prospect of an immediate recurrence of the moderate cold snap which dropped the mercury to 24 degrees above zero at 8 a. m. yesterday.

Turkey Dinner for 21 Cts. Is Record Price at Tampa

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 25.—(AP)—A turkey dinner with dressing and usual trimmings will cost 21 cents here tomorrow at a leading downtown restaurant. The price was said to be the lowest on record here.

Second Bandit Is Killed in Store Holdup

Policeman George O'Brien shot and killed one robber and wounded and captured another late yesterday when they tried to hold up Doran's hat shop at 1661 East 79th street. The slain bandit was the second killed by police within twenty-four hours. Also it was the second robber shot to death this year by Policeman O'Brien.

The bandit killed yesterday was John Smalley, 25 years old, of 5345 La Salle street. His captured confederate was Quinton Paige, 21, a baker, of the same address. Paige was wounded in the left leg.

Policeman on Guard.

Both walked into Doran's shop yesterday, unaware that O'Brien was on guard in the rear. As they commanded Bernard Doran, the owner, to submit to robbery, O'Brien rushed forward. Smalley tried to shoot O'Brien, but his pistol jammed. O'Brien, after dropping Paige, killed Smalley with two bullets. Incidentally, O'Brien ruined one of his own hats with a bullet, the hat being pierced as it lay on a counter.

Police superiors commended O'Brien for his bravery. Records show he shot and killed a robber named Robert Saunders, alias Swanson, on March 16 when Saunders tried to hold up Doran's store. O'Brien is attached to the South Chicago station.

Bandit Slain in Holdup.

The bandit shot to death Tuesday night was Thomas Messina, 17 years old, of 1122 Polk street. He was shot by Policeman John Freichel of the Maxwell street station in an attempted holdup of a drug store at 1500 West 13th street.

Three of Messina's companions escaped, but two were believed to have been wounded by Freichel while escaping. One of them, police said, might be August Cantinelli, 1118 Harrison street. From Dr. Eugene Cresrow they learned he had treated a man of that name for a gunshot wound in the back. The physician reported Cantinelli had fled through a rear door of the Harrison street place, and described his as a drug addict and a "dangerous man."

For his heroism Policeman Freichel was promoted to the detective bureau, where he will begin work this morning, and was promised extra compensation by Mayor Cermak.

Four Seized as Robbers.

Four alleged robbers were seized last night. They are Patsy D'Angelo, 21 years old, 1430 Congress street; Sam Surdo, 21, of 1030 Cypress street; Philip Spangnola, 18, of 1853 Taylor street, and Bennie Maioni, 19, of 839 Garibaldi place. Police said they are members of the "42" gang.

They were arrested by Lieut. Harry O'Connell and his squad when they fled from a hallway at 1235 Harrison street with $225 worth of merchandise from La Klein department store.

Two men were in custody yesterday through the alertness of Miss Julia Engleson, 22 years old, a nurse at the Henrotin hospital. The men are Sam Gandusa, 22, 821 Cambridge avenue, and Samuel Garofola, 26, 823 Cambridge avenue. Both entered the hospital, asking for medical aid. Gandusa was suffering from a bullet wound, received, he said, from a bandit gun. Miss Engleson telephoned police.

When Policeman Barney Toner of the Grand Crossing station stopped to question two men at 76th street and Cottage Grove avenue last night a third man, unseen by him, crept behind him and jabbed a revolver in his back. Risking death, Toner reached for his revolver beneath his winter service coat. The weapon was jolted from his hand by the men, however, and seized. The policeman refused to surrender. He knocked one man down and the three fled, carrying with them his gun.

Baby Is Born in Patrol Wagon in Race to Hospital

An emergency call from Leslie Lynn sent Policemen John Burns and Barney McGovern of the Sheffield avenue station in their motor patrol to the Lynn home at 2527 Burling street late last night. A moment later Burns, at the wheel, was racing toward the county hospital. Inside the patrol were Policeman McGovern, Lynn, and Mrs. Marion Lynn, 30 years old, Lynn's wife. At Ogden and Chicago avenues McGovern heard the wail of a newly born infant. The trip to the county hospital was continued. At the hospital physicians pronounced the mother and baby, a boy, in good condition. Police suggested that the eight pound baby be named Paddy.

U. S. JOINS WITH LEAGUE ACTION ON MANCHURIA

Endorses Plan Aimed to Stop War.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 25.—The United States today definitely committed itself to support the resolution being drafted by the league of nations council for a settlement of the Sino-Japanese quarrel in Manchuria. The decision was announced tonight in a short statement by Ambassador Dawes, American observer. The statement said:

"The United States government approves the general plan of settlement embodied in the proposed resolution of the council and has so informed both the Chinese and Japanese. It urged upon them to acquiesce in the general plan embodied in the proposed resolution."

The league resolution was thus approved in advance by the United States, although it has not yet been finally approved by the council and has been disapproved, in part at least, by both parties to the dispute. In many important details the resolution is still in a formative stage and it is understood a lively row has been going on under cover for the last two days.

Little Nations in Mutiny.

The little powers are threatening to mutiny and the big five are having a hard time to muzzle them. The small nations, who rely on the league and its paper ramparts as their main protection, protest bitterly that the resolution lacks teeth.

Whether Gen. Dawes knew that the resolution which America is supporting is one on which the council is divided against itself is not known. Indications here are that Dawes merely acted on instructions from Washington and is not personally responsible for Washington's action in instructing its ministers in Nanking and Tokio to urge acceptance of the league's resolution on the two quarreling governments. It is understood these instructions were sent before the council officially was presented with the unexpected American support.

League circles now believe that, despite the somewhat nebulous wording of the Dawes statement, the United States is committed to support the league's action to the bitter end.

What U. S. Is Committed To.

The general plan of the league resolution, as officially published tonight, contains the following points:

1. Japan and China are invited to take all steps necessary to assure execution of the resolution of Sept. 30, so that withdrawal of the Japanese troops from occupied areas in Manchuria may be effected "as speedily as possible."

2. Japan and China are asked to give the commanders of their respective forces strict orders to refrain from any initiative which may lead to further fighting.

3. The members of the council are invited to furnish the council with information received from their representatives on the spot.

4. It is proposed to appoint an investigating commission, which will report to the council any circumstance which threatens to disturb peace between China and Japan.

China's Proposal Spurned.

The council today efficiently dealt with the new Chinese proposal wired from Nanking last night, which was handed to Aristide Briand, French foreign minister and council chairman, today, but which the other neutral council members are not officially supposed to know anything about.

Well, they never will know anything about it officially. They unofficially handed it back to Alfred Sze, Chinese delegate, and gave him 24 hours to get from his government a proposal "reasonable enough to consider."

The Chinese proposition contained seven points. The chief one specified evacuation by the Japanese within 15 days under neutral supervision.

Send New Telegrams.

That settled, the council had to deal with an S O S from Dr. Sze declaring that despite Japanese promises, an attack on Chinchow is imminent. Dr. Sze called on the council to create a neutral zone, patrolled by an international police force, between the two armies. If the league is willing to make this step, Dr. Sze declared China would show its good faith by withdrawing all its forces within the Great Wall.

In response to this the council decided that all members would send individual telegrams to the two belligerents, strenuously urging them to "stop their disastrous conflict before it was too late." It was also de-

This Story 'Broke' 'Way Back in 1621

Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart is a professor emeritus of Harvard university, a noted authority on George Washington and American history, and is the historian of the George Washington bicentennial commission.

BY ALBERT B. HART.
[Copyright: 1931: By the Associated Press.]

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Some people think that these are hard times this year. Some people have given up hopes of a turkey for Thanksgiving, or even a chicken or a piece of beefsteak or a ham sandwich.

Nevertheless, there is hardly a town within the limits of the United States that is as poor and seems to have as little to be thankful for as the community of Plymouth 310 years ago this Thanksgiving.

There would have been no Plymouth colony and no colony of Virginia or of Pennsylvania had it not been for the grit and the energy and the perseverance of the earliest colonists in all the little groups that developed into the thirteen united colonies and then the thirteen united states and then the 48 united states.

The Dark Days of 1621.

In October, 1621, Plymouth had been through very hard times—cold and hunger and disease. Nothing but backbone and unwillingness to give up their enterprise held them together.

Bradford in his immortal "History of Plymouth Plantation" tells about the first landing on Cape Cod, Nov. 15, 1620, going "well armed, under the conduct of Capt. Standish," and how they had the luck to find "diverce faire Indean baskets filled with corne."

Defy Disease and Death.

Then came troublous mes with disease and bitter cold and death, but in September, 1621, they were in whatever corresponds to clover in the New England winter. "For besides water foule, ther was great store of wild turkies, of which they tooke many, besides venson, etc. Besides they had about a pecke of meale a weeke to a person, since the harvest."

They also felt thankful because of "King Massasoit, with some ninetie men for whom for three days we entertained and feasted, and they went out and killed five deere, which they brought to the plantation and bestowed on our governor." That was the first Thanksgiving.

Winslow says: "And thus they found the Lord to deliver them in all their ways, and to bless their outgoings and in-comings; for which that His holy name have the praise forever."

They Heard a Sermon.

There is no record of the sermon which must have been a part of that first Thanksgiving, either on the day of feasting or on the nearest Sabbath, for sermons were the only thing in that period that corresponded to the modern movies. There are authenticated cases of a minister turning the hour-glass "so that the congregation might have an extra 60 minutes of religious exhilaration."

Hard times were still before the Pilgrims, disease and death and ungoldly neighbors and Indians that brought them no fat deer and much danger. A year later there was a difficulty not about Thanksgiving celebrations but a labor union question of the "day called Christmasday."

Matter of Conscience.

"The most of this new-company excused themselves and said it wente against their consciences to work on that day. So the govr tould them that if they made it mater of conscience, he would spare them till they were better informed. So he led away the rest and left them; but when they came home at noone from their worke he found them in the streets at play, openly; some pitching the barr and some at stolle-ball, and such like sports. So he went to them, and tooke away their implements, and tould them that was against his conscience, that they should play and others worke."

Hides in Woman's Auto; Robs Her of $500 in Cash

A patient bandit concealed himself last night in the rear seat of the automobile of Mrs. Loretta Klingel, wife of Ernest Klingel, owner of a butcher shop at 6040 West North avenue. Just before the store was closed she took $500, taken in yesterday as pre-Thanksgiving day receipts, and drove away in the car. In the rear of her home at 6142 North avenue the robber unwrapped himself from a blanket and prodded her with a gun. He took the $500 and escaped with a confederate who was waiting near the Klingel garage.

MONEY WILL BE GONE IN WEEK, ALDERMEN TOLD

26,000 Workers to Be Affected.

City Hall Warnings

Warnings came from the city hall yesterday that the city's financial plight, desperate as it is, is likely to get worse before it gets better.

1. Controller Szymczak told aldermen there will be no money for city salaries after Dec. 1.

2. Mayor Cermak said that he could see no hope of immediate financial relief and that drastic economy is the only remedy.

3. J. L. Jacobs, the mayor's efficiency expert, submitted draft of tentative budget, cutting nearly $10,000,000 from next year's expenditures.

City employés, including those of the public library and municipal tuberculosis sanitarium, will join the payless ranks of school teachers and other board of education help after Dec. 1, City Controller Szymczak said yesterday.

There are nearly 26,000 municipal employés, including approximately 7,000 policemen and 3,000 firemen. About 12,300 are on the city proper pay rolls in addition to the policemen and firemen, the remainder of the 26,000 being employed by the election commissioners, the library and the tuberculosis sanitarium.

Mr. Szymczak made a gloomy report on the city's financial condition to a special council committee appointed to seek buyers for tax anticipation warrants.

Not only will pay roll funds be exhausted after the present month, Mr. Szymczak said, but there are no buyers in sight for $5,998,000 worth of refunding bonds which the city is trying to sell, to meet an equal sum of bonds falling due Jan. 1.

Bond Issue Critical.

The refunding of that bond issue is considered of vital importance to the city's credit. If there is a default on the bonds, all of the obligations of the city of Chicago will be barred for terms ranging from five to twenty-five years as investments for savings banks and trust estates in various states.

Such a bar to an important part of the investment market would cost the city large sums in additional interest on any future bond issues. Their interest would have to be raised materially to make them salable.

Mr. Szymczak informed the special council committee, consisting of Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], James B. Waller [43d], and Barnet Hodes [7th], of the state of his own extended negotiations with bankers regarding tax warrant and bond sales. His conclusion as a result of those negotiations, he said, is that there is no purchaser in sight, Chicago or elsewhere, for tax warrants or bonds of any description issued by the city.

Will Be Last Pay.

Police and firemen will get their pay for the last half of November next week, and other employés paid from the corporate fund will get their pay for that period on their regular pay-days. But those will be the last pay rolls. There is no money available for November pay rolls of the tuberculosis sanitarium and library board.

When the council a month ago authorized the purchase of $9,660,000 worth of tax warrants with cash drawn from the city's aggregate of funds the sale provided November pay roll funds for city corporate fund employés. The sum apportioned to library and sanitarium employés served only to bring their pay rolls up to date, and the school board's share, of course, gave its employés only one month's pay out of the five months the board was in arrears on salaries.

Warning Given by Bankers.

Bankers, it was learned, pointed out to city officials when the proposal to withdraw cash from the aggregate of funds for pay roll purposes was advanced by City Treasurer Kearns, that such a withdrawal would leave the city without cash to protect its credit by redeeming the bonds due Jan. 1, but the warning was disregarded.

CERMAK IS GLOOMY

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Mayor Cermak yesterday portrayed a gloomy view of the financial difficulties of the local governments.

He pointed out the possibility—after reading a letter from Hayden Bell, county tax attorney—of an unfavorable decision by Judge Jarecki in the tax suit of Mrs. Lillian Clear. Backed by the Oak Park Real Estate board, Mrs. Clear, a widow, charges that the 1928 and 1929 tax assessments are illegal and invalid because of the omission of billions in personal property from the levy.

If Judge Jarecki accepts that view—as informed public officials, banks and investment houses fear he may—the Cook county taxes for 1928 and 1929 will be declared void. Indirectly the 1930 taxes, not yet spread, will also be void, because that assessment has been made by the same method as those of 1928 and 1929.

No Money for Long Time.

If that happens the mayor saw no hope of getting any cash from taxes for six or seven months at least. In addition he was pessimistic about the chances of borrowing money in the meantime. It has been impossible for the city, county, schools, and other governmental agencies to borrow any money during 1931 except from their own trust funds.

"Suppose the legislature grants the right to issue bonds to care for the emergency," went on Mayor Cermak. "Where can we sell the bonds? The county, sanitary district, and south parks have been offering bonds, without bidders, for some time. Is it reasonable to suppose we can sell bonds which the legislature may authorize when the bonds of these bodies cannot be disposed of?

"The only hope I can see is for all of the spending bodies to cut expenses drastically. That may regain the confidence of the people and aid in restoring the credit of the local governments, but that is not now certain or definite."

Will Go to Assembly.

So alarming is the situation that Mayor Cermak will go to Springfield next week to give his view to the legislators. President Melvin A. Traylor of the First National bank has also been invited to appear.

In considering the possibility of an adverse decision by Judge Jarecki, the mayor has been informed that the state Appellate court had given an opinion that the 1928 and 1929 taxes are fraudulent. That was in the case of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers. However, they failed to make any progress in the Appellate court because it decided they had proceeded improperly.

The mayor has also been informed that these taxes were held fraudulent by the United States District court. That was the insurance company case of which the attorneys are Roy D. Keehn and Morris Schaffer. But at the same time that court held that the lawyers had not exhausted their remedy in the state courts and sent them back to the state tribunals.

These same two lawyers are now prosecuting the Clear case before County Judge Jarecki.

In addition the mayor has been informed that the state Supreme court in the Aldrich case of October, 1930, favors the contentions of Mrs. Clear before Judge Jarecki, and also follows the trend of decisions in the federal courts. From these court decisions Mayor Cermak fears that Judge Jarecki may hold the 1928 and 1929 tax assessments fraudulent.

It has also been currently reported for several months that the fear of a decision declaring the 1928 and 1929 taxes invalid is one reason why investment houses have not submitted bids for several local bond issues offered, and have also refrained from buying tax anticipation warrants.

Attorney Bell told the mayor that the first opportunity for an appeal to the state Supreme court in case the levies are held void will be at the February term.

Suggests Two Ways Out.

Mr. Bell suggested two ways out, but both require several months to consummate. His first suggestion is that a legal tax roll be prepared for the tax year of 1931, then have this revert back as the taxes for 1930, 1929 and 1928. He believes this is legally possible under the state constitution. Each property owner, who has paid his taxes, would have them adjusted to the new base.

Mr. Bell's second plan is to have the real estate assessments for 1928, 1929, 1930 stand as made and then have a reassessment of the personal property for 1928, 1929 and 1930. That also would involve adjustments to property owners who have already paid the 1928 and 1929 taxes.

Mayor Cermak, as president of the county board, it is recalled, foresaw trouble over inequalities in tax assessments and put the joint commission on real estate valuations in the field four years ago. That commission, headed by George O. Fairweather, fathered a plan which resulted in the reappraisal of all of the real estate in Cook county under Harry S. Cutmore.

Mr. Bell informed the mayor that this was a legal assessment, as to real estate, and is the only valid real estate assessment the county has had in years. Mr. Bell asserted that no serious charges of fraud have been made against it.

Can Be Defended.

That real estate assessment, in the opinion of lawyers, can be successfully defended in court. On defense of the personal property assessment, they are silent.

The validity of tax anticipation warrants would not be affected by a decision invalidating a tax assessment in the opinion of Mr. Bell. They are a lien on all the taxes and revenues of the issuing government and would eventually be paid.

The mayor settled the question, raised Tuesday on the floor of the state senate, as to whether he signed the report of the governor's revenue commission, of which he was appointed a member.

"My name appears, probably, as one of the fifty odd members of the conference," he said. "I was never asked to sign the report and I never signed it."

BOSTON CARPENTERS AGREE TO WAGE CUT OF 20 CENTS HOUR

Boston, Mass., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The Carpenters' District council of Boston, representing 5,000 men, or approximately one-third of the building trades mechanics of greater Boston, has agreed to take a cut in wages of 20 cents an hour, or $1.60 a day, according to a joint statement issued tonight by representatives of the council and the Building Trades Employers' association. The cut amounts to about 15 per cent of the present wages.

The cut becomes effective on Jan. 1, 1932, and remains in effect to April 1, 1933. Under the three year contract entered into between the carpenters and employers on April 1 of this year union carpenters were paid $1.37½ an hour for a five day week of forty hours. The reduced wage will be $1.17½ per hour. The mill, or shop carpenters, also have accepted a voluntary cut of 20 cents an hour, which reduces their hourly rate of wages from $1.12½ per hour to 92½ cents per hour.

According to the joint statement the carpenters are the first and largest union of the twenty odd major unions in the building industry here to accept the voluntary wage reduction suggested by the Building Trades Employers' association in a letter sent to all building trades unions on Oct. 22.

ASKS OUSTER OF TOWER SHELTER FROM OLD JAIL

A summons was served yesterday on Mrs. Margaret Collins, head of the Tower Town Food and Shelter Fund, Inc., to appear before Municipal Judge John F. Haas in Renter's court tomorrow to show cause why her organization should not be evicted from the lodging house her organization has been operating in the old county jail.

Some weeks ago, it is understood, health authorities complained of alleged unsanitary conditions in the shelter. It is said that Mrs. Collins agreed to relinquish the management to some person designated by the joint emergency relief committee, preferably Mrs. Elizabeth Conkey, commissioner of public welfare.

Later, it is said, Mrs. Collins changed her mind. Thereafter Corporation Counsel Sexton started suit to force her organization out. Mrs. Collins says she has spent two years' time and considerable of her own money installing beds, plumbing, and kitchen equipment. The shelter has fed as many as 5,000 men daily and provides beds for several hundred nightly. The lease of the organization from the city has expired.

CITY BUDGET PUT AT $57,905,466; DECREASE OF 14%

Tentative Draft Work of Efficiency Expert.

A projected city budget of $57,905,466 for 1932 was completed last night and turned over to the printer for publication by City Controller Szymczak. This is $9,647,496 less than the appropriations for the current year, which total $67,552,962.

The proposed 1932 total, which is 14 per cent less than this year's, is within the estimate of 1932 revenues prepared by the controller. He estimated the city's revenues for next year at $57,995,466, of which $42,895,129 is to come from taxes, $13,788,200 from miscellaneous fees, licenses and compensations, and $1,314,079 is listed as an excess of assets over liabilities as of Dec. 31, 1931.

Work of Efficiency Expert.

The tentative budget is chiefly the work of J. L. Jacobs, efficiency expert, assigned by the mayor to draft it. He has not completed the estimates for all the departments and the $57,905,466 total is obtained by using the estimates of the department heads in such cases. The city controller, as required by law, also submitted a budget draft to the city council finance committee. It varies from Jacobs' draft in many details.

Mayor Cermak has stated in public that the city expenditures for 1932 will be reduced $12,000,000 under the appropriations for 1931. As the $9,647,496 reduction is in the corporate fund alone, it is believed that the remainder will be cut from expenditures out of the water, bond and vehicle budgets, for which no figures were available last night.

Inasmuch as wages and salaries constitute the major items of expense the reduction, if concurred in by the council, will eliminate many present city hall jobs.

Figures in 1932 Budget.

The figures for the departments showing the 1931 appropriations and Jacobs' recommendations are as follows:

	1931.	Jacobs.
City council	$ 288,780	$ 283,500
Council committee	286,905	15,410
City clerk	184,579	90,585
Controller	489,537	382,145
General government	963,544	1,063,400
Debt service	9,200,882	7,270,493
Treasurer	126,780	92,680
Collector	284,050	150,700
License	196,230	135,412
Compensation	34,385	19,500
Civil service commission	133,650	128,140
Police	17,897,800	17,303,533
Fire	8,246,040	7,843,892
Gas and electricity	4,214,405	3,716,138
Public service	159,980	94,980
Buildings	471,393	504,620
Boiler inspection	138,409	122,870
Weights, measures	85,700	57,200
Smoke abatement	68,320	45,003
House of correction	795,121	666,466
Health	2,569,782	2,129,873
Board local improv	1,213,618	719,924
Dept public works	12,852,647	10,890,236

The departments for which Jacobs has made no recommendation, their 1931 expenditures, and the departmental requests are as follows:

	1931.	Request.
Election commissioners	$1,200,700	$1,070,840
Municipal courts	2,716,900	2,764,020
Corporation counsel	671,920	643,980
Prosecutor	70,740	88,600
Attorney	102,420	91,520
City physician	54,300	49,700
Public welfare	31,180	28,450
Finance committee	101,366	84,060

The mayor's office did not submit a request for an appropriation. It was given $36,820, the same amount as for 1931.

The department hardest hit was that of public works where Jacobs recommended a reduction of $1,962,411 under the 1931 appropriation. However, a larger proportional slash was made in the appropriations for the council committees. The reduction of $271,495 in these appropriations, which are spent directly by the aldermen, is one of 94 per cent. In cutting the appropriation for the city council, itself, Jacobs has taken away from each alderman the $50 month automobile maintenance that has withstood previous efforts at retrenchment.

Despite the number of tax suits filed in the courts the controller figured on only 9 per cent for loss and cost in the collection of taxes. The amount set aside thus for loss and cost is $7,360,281.

Other news regarding taxation and the legislative moves in Springfield with respect to revenue problems will be found on pages 18 and 19.

ASKS COUNTY ROAD FROM EDISON PARK TO LOOP DISTRICT

County Commissioner Walter J. La Buy yesterday introduced a resolution before the county board directing the superintendent of highways to prepare plans and specifications for the development of Avondale avenue from Edison Park to a point in or near the loop. The resolution proposed payment for the project from the motor fuel fund. It was referred to the roads and bridges committee.

Commissioner La Buy said the improvement might be developed along both sides of the Chicago and North Western railroad. He said the area is inadequately served by traffic arteries, having only Milwaukee and Elston avenues. The improvement would provide a through artery of 13 miles and could be built in sections.

Fire Sweeps One Floor of Weber Wagon Plant

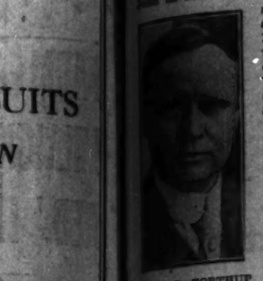
STATE TO CALL 1,000 WITNESSES IN CANAL TRIAL

Judges Uphold 3 Counts of Indictment.



JOHN E. NORTHUP

First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup yesterday afternoon started to issue approximately 1,000 subpoenas for witnesses he expects to call in the trial of the sanitary district graft conspiracy case. Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the sanitary district during the whoopee era of 1927-1928, and eight other defendants are named in the conspiracy indictment. The case has been pending for nearly three years.

Despite the fact that Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court, in a formal decision rendered yesterday morning, allowed only three of the ten conspiracy counts in the indictment to stand, Prosecutor Northup said he was hopeful of proving much of his evidence under the counts which were not quashed. He will be prepared to give testimony if Judge Fisher and his two associates, Judges John Prystalski and James J. Kelly, will allow them to testify under the three counts.

Trial to Start Dec. 7.

The actual trial will start on Dec. 7. The defendants will waive a jury and submit the case to the three judges sitting en banc.

The three counts left to the prosecution are general in their nature and the amount of proof which the state can produce will depend on the rulings of the judges. The counts on which Crowe and his co-defendants must stand trial are:

1. A general count charging that $1,000,000 of the funds of the district were obtained by the defendants by false pretenses.

2. A count charging diversion of $1,000,000 by the false pretense that certain persons were working for the sanitary district when in fact they were not so employed.

Graft Conspiracy Charged.

3. The general count of conspiracy in all sanitary district work, naming specifically the west side sewage treatment works, the north side works, the $1,000,000 bridle cinder path and the $750,000 ornamental lighting system on the north shore channel road. The count is limited to the charge that contracts for these projects were let "at an exorbitant, extortive, unreasonable, high and excessive price without the proper competitive bidding and thereby defrauding the district."

In the first two counts, attorneys pointed out, the term "false pretenses" sets a limitation on the evidence which may be presented by the prosecution.

May Hamper State Case.

Some lawyers believe the false pretenses limitation will prevent almost entirely the presentation by the state of any evidences of consequence concerning the cinder bridle path or ornamental lighting system. STATE TO CALL 1,000 WITNESSES IN CANAL TRIAL

Judges Uphold 3 Counts of Indictment.

Assistant State's Attorney Northup yesterday afternoon started to issue approximately 1,000 subpoenas for witnesses he expects to call in the trial of the sanitary district graft conspiracy case. Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the sanitary district during the whoopee era of 1927-1928, and eight other defendants are named in the conspiracy indictment. The case has been pending [illegible] years.

Despite the fact that Chief Justice Fisher of the Criminal court, in a recent decision rendered yesterday, allowed only three of the conspiracy counts in the indictment to stand, Prosecutor Northup said he was hopeful of proving enough of the evidence under the counts which were not quashed. He will call all of his witnesses to court and is prepared to give testimony if Judge Fisher and his two associates, Judge John Prystalski and James Hoffman, will allow them to testify under the three counts.

Trial to Start Dec. 7.

The actual trial will start on Dec. 7. The defendants will waive a jury and submit the case to the three judges sitting en banc.

The three counts left to the prosecution are general in their nature as to the amount of proof which the state can produce will depend on the rulings of the judges. The counts against Crowe and his co-defendants to stand trial are:

1. A general count charging that $1,000,000 of the funds of the district were obtained by the defendants by the false pretenses.

2. A count charging diversion of $1,000,000 by the false pretense that certain persons were working for the sanitary district when in fact they were not employed.

Grill Conspiracy Charged.

The general count of conspiracy to defraud sanitary district work, naming specifically the west side sewage treatment works, the north side works, the $1,000,000 bridle cinder path and the $750,000 ornamental lighting system on the north shore channel road. The count is limited to the charge that contracts for these projects were awarded "at an exorbitant, extortive, unreasonable, high and excessive price without the proper competitive bidding and thereby defrauding the district."

As the first two counts, attorneys pointed out, the term "false pretenses" sets a limitation on the evidence which may be presented by the prosecution.

Say Hamper State Case.

Some lawyers believe the false pretenses limitation will prevent almost entirely the presentation by the state of any evidence of consequence concerning the cinder bridle path or ornamental lighting system. Under the counts the state may be limited, it is pointed out, to showing only evidence of a conspiracy in which money was obtained by a false pretense. This would exclude testimony on a diversion of money which might ultimately have found its way into the bank accounts of some of the defendants.

The bank account testimony, it was pointed out, would be contingent on the prosecution's first establishing proof of a conspiracy and then producing evidence which would link up the testimony with the conspiracy.

The third count charges a conspiracy with George L. Chamberlain, president of the U. S. A. Electrical Contracting company, and others not known to the grand jury. Chamberlain, it has been charged, made unusually large cash withdrawals from bank accounts during the progress of some of these contracts at about the same time the bank accounts of Crowe and others showed large cash deposits.

A Puzzle to Prosecutors.

However, just how far the prosecution will be able to proceed in the presentation of evidence under this count is not clear, even to the prosecutors. The specific counts as to the diversion of large amounts of the taxpayers' money on the bridle path and the ornamental lighting system were quashed by the judges.

On the pay roll testimony the judges allowed the prosecution "half a loaf," as one of the prosecutors put it. They allowed the diversion count on this subject to stand, but quashed the accompanying count charging that $3,000,000 was taken from the treasury by persons "pretending to be rendering service" to the district.

Another important series of counts quashed embraced those dealing with the spending of millions of dollars on sanitary district contracts in sums of less than $500. The state had charged that this subterfuge was adopted by the trustees in order to prevent competitive bidding and so to give to favored contractors and friends of the trustees as well as to dummy companies operated by the officials of the district the business of the district.

The judges in their decision announced their intention to give the state every opportunity to prove corruption, but not to allow the prosecution unlimited freedom to inquire by means of indictment into the validity of the acts of public officers in their official capacity.

"Our decision is to allow the state the greatest possible latitude in its effort to prove corruption [this word is underscored in the decision], but to hold it closely within the limits prescribed by law in its effort to prevail against the defendants for merely exceeding their powers or for acting upon questionable authority," reads the decision.

The judges pointed out that to allow the prosecution to go further than prove corruption would give a prosecutor the power to intimidate any governing group.

Three Counts Upheld.

"The motion to quash is overruled as to counts one, three, and seven of the indictment," says the decision.

As to the third and seventh counts, the judges say that they doubt if, under a strict application of the technical rules of common law pleading, even these could be sustained. They do not mention these counts specifically, but make this general statement on the counts from the third to tenth, inclusive. However, they allowed the third and seventh to stand. The judges say the counts are "inartistically drawn."

The indictment was drawn by Attorney Edwin J. Raber, who is considered one of the outstanding indictment experts of the city. Prosecutor Northup assisted him.

Defense Ready for Trial.

Attorneys Albert Fink and John McInerney, representing the defendants, announced themselves as ready for trial at once. This is the first time the defense has signified a willingness to face the three year old graft charges.

It was announced that the defendants, none of whom was in court, would plead not guilty and would waive a jury. Because Judges Kelly and Prystalski are busy with other court work at present the trial date was set for Dec. 7. In the meantime the lawyers for the state and defense will get together and try to stipulate certain documentary evidence in order to save time. Prosecutor Northup indicated that his testimony would take at least a month.

The other defendants in the case besides Crowe are James M. Whalen and John J. Touhy, present trustees; Frank J. Link, John K. Lawler, and August W. Miller, former trustees; John Miller, former manager of the permanent plants and structures departments, and Martin Edelstein, former real estate agent for the district. Timothy Connelly, former purchasing agent for the district is also named as a defendant, but he has been a fugitive from justice for several years.

NEW PLEA FOR BELL, SENTENCED TO DIE TONIGHT

Attorney to Raise Point of Law Today.

A last-minute effort to save Frank H. Bell, convicted murderer, from death in the electric chair will be made this morning by Ralph J. Sharp, his attorney. The execution is scheduled for a few minutes after midnight tonight.

Harold C. Bonham, who was sentenced to die with Bell, won a delay yesterday when Justice Frederic R. De Young of the Illinois Supreme court granted a writ of supersedeas.

The move in behalf of Bell will be made before a judge whose name was not revealed last night and it will be based, according to Attorney Sharp, on the statute governing the manner of carrying out executions. The law provides that "the day set [date of execution] shall not occur before the tenth day of the term of the Supreme court occurring next after the pronouncing of judgment."

Calls Early Date Illegal.

According to Attorney Sharp, the Supreme court does not convene until Dec. 1 and the order that Bell be executed Nov. 27 is faulty. The date should have been after Dec. 10, he holds.

Meanwhile, Bell has another hope, that of a commutation from Gov. Emmerson. Warden David Moneypenny of the county jail and others have pleaded for mercy for him.

Warden Moneypenny has interested himself in Bell's case since the condemned slayer prevented a wholesale break from the county jail. Bell's bandit companion, Richard Sullivan, who was convicted with him for the murder of Chris Patras, north side restaurant owner, was executed on Oct. 16, bitter at Bell and thinking that Bell had preceded him in death. Bell was saved at the last minute by an insanity petition, but a jury found him sane.

Court to Review Case.

Justice De Young announced that the basis for granting the writ for Bonham was that in the defendant's trial the prosecution had restricted the evidence of a material witness. The Bonham case will be reviewed by the Supreme court in the January term. His execution date was continued indefinitely. Attorneys Harold Levy and Elwyn Long represented Bonham.

Bonham was found guilty by a jury on July 16 of the murder of Paul Tulupan, proprietor of the restaurant in the Claridge hotel, at 1234 North Dearborn street on the night of Dec. 13, 1930.

Two other men were sentenced yesterday to die in the electric chair on Dec. 18. They were Ben Norsingle, 19 years old, and John Reed, Negroes, who lived at 4547 Prairie avenue. Judge George Fred Rush read the sentence. The two were found guilty by a jury two weeks ago of the murder of John Marten, owner of the General Market house at 213 East 47th street. Marten was killed during an attempted robbery.

DIVORCEE SUES HARRY CHANNON, ASKING $100,000

Harry Channon II., wealthy member of a pioneer Chicago family, has been named defendant in a $100,000 suit filed in Superior court by Mrs. Margaret I. Pierrelee, divorcee, it was disclosed yesterday. Only the praecipe of the suit was filed. Frank E. Cantwell, attorney for Mrs. Pierrelee, refused to comment on the nature of the action or to reveal any information concerning his client.

The action is the second in which Mr. Channon has been involved recently. On Oct. 22 he filed a bill for divorce in the Circuit court, charging that his wife, Mrs. Vesta Westover Channon, patroness of education and a society matron, deserted him on March 1, 1925. Mrs. Channon is contesting the suit.

14 GOATS DIE IN FIRE ON FARM OF MRS. J. A. PATTEN

Fourteen goats were burned to death yesterday in a fire which razed a large barn on the farm of Mrs. James A. Patten on Golf road, one mile north of Des Plaines. Mrs. Patten, widow of the grain operator, lives at 1426 Ridge avenue, Evanston, but is now in Santa Barbara, Cal.

The blaze spread quickly because of nine tons of hay, which probably caught afire first. Edwin Quinn, caretaker, summoned firemen from Des Plaines and Wheeling, but efforts were handicapped by shortage of water. The farm is operated partly as a goat farm from which goat milk is given free to poor children.

2 MORE KILLINGS BY DENVER DRY AGENTS BARED

One Under Sentence in New Mexico.

Denver, Col., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Two additional cases of deaths of private citizens at hands of employés of the federal prohibition department were being studied today by state officials, because of their similarity to the Henry Dierks killing.

Dierks, suspended federal dry agent, has been charged with murder. He is accused of clubbing Milford Smith, a defenseless youth, with the butt of his revolver in an effort to obtain three ounces of wine as evidence.

The two new cases in both of which murder charges have been filed, are in New Mexico, which is in the same prohibition enforcement district as Colorado. In one C. W. Eskildson has been convicted of murder in the New Mexico courts and has been sentenced to serve six to ten years in the state penitentiary. Eskildson now is at liberty on a ten thousand dollar bond pending decision on an appeal.

Eskildson is Suspended.

John F. Vivian federal prohibition administrator for this district, said Eskildson was suspended after he was convicted. The agent was found guilty of murdering Uvalde Martinez under circumstances similar to those present in the Dierk's case.

The other New Mexico case still is pending in courts of that state. Charges of murder were filed against Juan Valles after the death of Apolinaro Lucero. Valles was an informer for Vivian's New Mexico agent.

Vivian admitted today that while he was familiar with details of the Eskildson case, he knew nothing either of the character of Valles or the circumstances of the Valles case. He said no record of informers nor blood pigeons is kept except by the agents, who include them as of the informers, pay them from their expense account.

U. S. Jurisdiction Denied.

The federal district attorney in New Mexico tried to take the Eskildson case from the state court, but Federal District Judge Colin Neblett of Santa Fe, denied his petition for a transfer.

In the Eskildson case District Judge Milton J. Helmick ruled in Albuquerque that the trial was "an ugly spectacle of the law officers of New Mexico arrayed against the law officers of the United States," and barred the federal district attorney from representing Eskildson in his court.

District Attorney Joel B. Stone, who will prosecute Dierks, believes that the decision of Federal Judge Neblett in Santa Fe, bears out his contention that the state should be allowed to try Dierks. The Dierks case was transfered from the state court to the Federal court by Federal Judge J. Foster Symes. A hearing on a petition of Stone to remand the case back to the state court will be heard Friday.

6 POLICE AIDING DRYS ORDERED TO STAY INSIDE LAW

Mayor Lets U. S. Keep Them as Economy.

Six city policemen assigned to federal dry headquarters in Chicago will be kept there, but under strict orders to participate in no prohibition lawlessness, Mayor Cermak said yesterday.

His announcement followed an investigation of police aid furnished to prohibition agents, which was precipitated by the arrest of Charles L. Wiley, world war veteran, after Wiley had attempted to intercede in the court of Federal Judge John P. Barnes for Boleslaw Lidikewicz, a janitor charged with making home brew.

It was charged that Lidikewicz was arrested without a search warrant, and that city police assigned to the dry bureau had taken part in the raid.

An Economy, Cermak Says.

The six policemen will be kept at prohibition headquarters as a matter of manpower economy, Mayor Cermak said, to prevent the time of a larger number of members of the force being usurped by the demands of the dry raiders.

Before the six man detail was assigned it was the custom of prohibition agents when they made a raid to call on the police for patrol wagons to handle prisoners. Three men are assigned to each patrol wagon, and frequently the wagon crews were subpoenaed later to testify in federal court against the prohibition law violators.

Thus it happened, according to police officials, that on some days as many as a score of policemen were withdrawn from crime fighting activities to assist the dry agents, on raids and in court.

Duties of Dry Policemen.

"The policemen assigned to the prohibition bureau are under strict orders not to take part in illegal raids or in the destruction of property," Mayor Cermak said. "They don't go on raids unless the government has a search warrant. They are there to see that things are done in an orderly manner."

Ald. James C. Moreland [41st] offered a resolution to the police committee of the city council last week, calling on the mayor and Police Commissioner Allman to abolish the police detail at the prohibition bureau.

Mayor Cermak was aroused yesterday by a report that policemen who raided an alleged handbook at 63 West Chicago avenue had broken up furniture in the place without making any arrests.

"The police have no right to break up property and I won't permit it," he said.

DEPOSIT VAULT OF BAIN'S WIFE FOUND BY JUDGE

Grand Jury Questions 2 Aids of State Auditor.

It was disclosed in Circuit Judge Feinberg's court yesterday that Mrs. Anna Larkins Bain, wife of Banker John Bain, rented a safety deposit box on Aug. 10 in the Halsted Street State bank, 6910 South Halsted street. Judge Feinberg immediately issued an injunction restraining Mrs. Bain from removing any of the contents of the box until further investigation.

Meanwhile the grand jury was reported to have directed its attention to another angle of the Bain bank investigation. Fred Edgerton, chief bank examiner in Cook county for State Auditor Oscar Nelson, was before the jurors for more than an hour and they were said to have questioned him closely regarding examination of the Bain banks before they closed.

Another witness was Arthur Tarnow, head of the receivership department for the state auditor. The jurors were reported to have expressed wonder that the condition of the banks was not known a long time previous to their failure.

Judge Finds Safe Deposit Box.

Throughout the lengthy hearing which Judge Feinberg has been conducting in an effort to disclose hidden assets of Bain, whose banks failed last June 8, the judge has been endeavoring to discover whether any of the Bain family had rented a safety deposit box after the banks closed.

Henry Kloese, cashier of the Halsted Street State bank, had been summoned to testify concerning a new account opened by Mrs. Bain. He testified that she opened the account on Aug. 5 with a deposit of $1,517 and that a number of checks had been written against the account and other deposits had been made.

"Has Mrs. Bain a safety deposit box in the bank?" asked the judge. The same question in regard to members of the Bain family and their friends has been asked at least a hundred times of bank officials at the hearing and the answer has always been in the negative.

Puts Ban on Withdrawals.

"Mrs. Bain rented a box last Aug. 10," said Kloese. "She has made but one visit to the box, the initial visit when the box was taken."

"Enter an order restraining the bank from permitting Mrs. Bain to have access to the box or withdraw any of its contents," said Judge Feinberg to his clerk. It was intimated later that steps will be taken by the receiver for the Bain banks to examine the contents of the box.

The hearing in Judge Feinberg's court was continued until Dec. 1.

"Plenty is going to happen on Dec. 1," said an attaché close to the judge. John H. Bain, eldest son of John Bain; Miss Anna Eunson, Bain's personal secretary; James Gammonley, his bookkeeper, and George M. Bly, manager of Bain's real estate, have been ordered to appear before the judge.

Judge Feinberg indicated that he

Judge Feinberg indicated that he ...is seriously contemplating holding court in the German Evangelical Deaconess hospital where John Bain is now resting. The banker has undergone one operation and is to be operated on again.

Dr. Walter Buhlig, Bain's personal physician, was questioned at length by the judge concerning a possible court session at Bain's bedside. The physician said such a session was "possible" but entirely dependent on the patient's condition.

"Mr. Bain is flabby and soft. There is no fight in him; he's lost his pep," said the physician. "The rigors of a thorough examination might be very severe on him."

"But his heart and lungs and other organs are functioning normally, are they not?" inquired the judge.

"They are," replied Dr. Buhlig. In answer to further questioning, he declared that Bain might be questioned in bed within a month without danger to his condition.

Dr. Buhlig testified that he had profited vastly on paper through his connections with Bain, but had lost most of the profits when the banks closed. His original cash investment in a Bain enterprise was only $5,000, he told Judge Feinberg, but in 1930 his share from one sale of real estate was $190,000. On this deal he had put up his personal notes for $133,000, but no cash.

"I often received checks from John Bain for $30,000 and $40,000," Dr. Buhlig said, "but I always reinvested the money with him."

Dr. Buhlig owed the banks $269,000 when they closed, auditors for the state's attorney's office revealed a week ago.

Quizzed About Massillon, O.

When the usual questions concerning a mysterious trip to Massillon, O., were put to the physician, he said his wife had relatives in that town. Later he declared he was mistaken and that the town he meant was Mansfield, O. His wife was summoned to court by Judge Feinberg and also said the town was Mansfield.

Some weeks ago Judge Feinberg was informed that one the night of June 28 three men had taken a trip to Massillon from Chicago. A drawing room was reserved in the name of Bain. A Pullman porter testified that one of the men was supposed to be a banker. Persistent questioning by the judge concerning this trip has been met with denials from all involved in the inquiry that they knew anything about this trip.

The mystery of two trunks taken from the Bain home on June 19, the day after the banks closed, was dispelled yesterday when a baggageman testified that the trunks were the property of Miss Hazel Burt, 19 year old granddaughter of Bain, who took them with her to Hannibal, Wis. Locks on them were broken and their general condition was such that the railroad refused to insure them, according to the testimony.

Admits $110,000 Mortgage Valid.

Frank McGarr, president of the South West Coal and Material company, admitted that a $110,000 mortgage on the Gage building, 59th street and Kedzie avenue, should not have been cancelled and that he still stood liable for that amount. The judge declared that steps would be taken to make McGarr pay up on the mortgage and that the money would be turned over for the benefit of depositors in the Bain banks. The mortgage, held by Bain, had been cancelled "by mistake," according to previous testimony.

Mrs. Jean Baker, married daughter of Bain, was interviewed by long distance phone at her home in Mount Summit, Ind., yesterday. Mrs. Baker was reported to have been seen taking a package away from the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank, one of the Bain chain, the day before it closed. Mrs. Baker said this report was false and that she had not been in the bank for two years. She will come to Chicago, she said, to tell her story to Judge Feinberg.

Grand Jury Takes Recess.

The grand jury, which was reported to have voted a true bill against Bain and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher, on Tuesday, adjourned last night until Monday. In the interval, Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers said, his office will study certain records which were delivered to the jurors yesterday. The only records known to have been delivered to the jury were those carried in by Edgerton, the bank examiner for the state auditor.

Edgerton was frequently sent out of the grand jury room while the jurors discussed his testimony in private. He would be recalled and questioned and then excluded again. This caused observers to comment that the jurors seemed interested in the methods of the bank examiner in relation to the Bain banks.

Assistant State's Attorney Ayers refused to discuss the reports. He was asked if State Auditor Nelson would be asked to appear before the grand jury and answered: "I cannot answer that question at this time."

Miss Eunson, Bain's secretary; Hugo Herter and William P. Knocks, directors of the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank, one of the Bain chain, were other witnesses before the grand jury.

Superior Judge William J. Lindsay continued indefinitely the suit of the county to collect $887,000 in taxes tied up in the Bain banks. County Treasurer McDonough contends that these taxes are a preferred claim and should be paid by the receiver before the rest of the depositors are paid.

Strives for Beauty

AL CAPONE.

Al Capone, who is staying in the county jail without credit on his 11 year sentence for income tax fraud, apparently has hopes that he will never go to the penitentiary. It was learned yesterday that he took steps recently to eliminate the hated scars from his left cheek from which he gets the cognomen "Scarface." Sensitive as he is about those scars, it is not considered likely that his beauty culture program is inspired by a desire to improve his looks in Leavenworth prison.

Capone has two parallel scars across his left cheek. One is much more prominent than the other. He has been reading advertisements and has ordered some paint which, it is claimed, will hide the most brutal scar. The composition, which comes in tints or shades to harmonize with any complexion, is guaranteed to stay put until peeled off. It is made in New York City.

Members of the staff at the county jail said they hadn't noticed any astonishing change in Capone's facial characteristics, so it may be presumed that his makeup has not arrived.

U. S. TO AID FEINBERG

United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson visited Judge Feinberg yesterday noon at the request of the judge. He promised to coöperate to the extent of his power in helping the court dispose of property owned by Terry Druggan, ganster.

The government now holds a first mortgage of $3,900 on Druggan's property at 7064 Greenview avenue to cover part of the income tax which it charges Druggan owes. Judge Feinberg asked Mr. Johnson to give the West Central State bank first claim on the building so that it might be sold and the money turned over to the bank receiver on Druggan's debt of $17,000 to the bank.

"It is really up to the commissioner of internal revenue," Mr. Johnson told the judge, "but I will coöperate all that I can."

Max Malkin, another debtor of the West Central State bank, yesterday handed over a check for $750 to apply on his debt of $1,250 and thus kept himself out of jail. Malkin had been sentenced to thirty days for contempt of court. He must pay another $100 in a month or go to jail, Judge Feinberg warned.

CZECHO-SLOVAK MINERS BATTLE POLICE; 10 KILLED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Nov. 25.—Ten persons were killed and scores were wounded today when the military clashed with dissatisfied workers and jobless as they gathered to march in protest to the city hall of Freiwaldau.

The economic crisis throughout central Europe has reached a peak in this industrial mining district of Czecho-Slovakia. For months the mills have been working half time. Yesterday the management of the mines asked a further wage reduction, which brought the situation close to a civil war. A general strike was called and the workers decided to demonstrate today at Freiwaldau.

More than 1,000 workers, with their families, began the march to the village. The police vainly tried to stop them. Then gunplay began and military forces opened fire. Among the dead was a 60 year old woman. The wounded included three soldiers and the commanding officer, who declared at the hospital that he ordered the shooting only after he was severely wounded. Reports of the riot created an uproar in parliament, which ordered an investigating committee to the scene.

Dismiss 3 Patrolmen on Rum and Neglect Charges

The civil service commission yesterday dismissed three patrolmen from the police force. Intoxication and neglect of duty were included in the charges against all three. Paul Murphy and Edward Warcsak of the Gresham station, and Patrick J. Dillon of the Warren avenue station.

SLAYING HELD JUSTIFIABLE.

ENTER BRIDGE PLAY IN SPIRIT OF THANKSGIVING

Women Meet Tomorrow to Complete Plans.

One of the best ways for a bridge player to express the true spirit of Thanksgiving today is to sit down, take pen in hand, and send an order and a remittance for packs of cards to be used in the Golden Card tournament of Dec. 3. The proceeds above actual cost will go to the Joint Emergency Relief fund and the Hungry School Children's fund.

Although it was first planned to deliver the cards only a short time before the hour of play, so great has been the demand for the decks that they have been put on sale at the public service offices of THE TRIBUNE and in the lobby of Tribune Tower. The public service offices are located at THE TRIBUNE loop office, Dearborn and Madison streets; at 4152 West Madison street, and 1101 East 63d street.

Women Back Tournament.

That the women of Chicago are wholeheartedly supporting the Golden Card tournament is shown in statements made by the following club presidents:

Miss Lucille B. Fisk, president of Woman's Advertising club of Chicago—The tournament is bound to be a great success. Participants will have an evening of pleasure and at the same time will be giving their aid to a most worthy cause.

Mrs. Frank M. Fulton, president of Chicago Woman's Ideal club—Mrs. Cudahy and THE TRIBUNE should have the cooperation of all bridge players to put the tournament over in a big way.

Mrs. William D. Peteel, president of Hyde Park Travel club—I am sure many of our members who thoroughly enjoy a good game of bridge will be glad to enter the tournament.

That same spirit of helpfulness has been expressed by hundreds of others who have already sent in their orders.

Rules Are Simple.

The rules of this tournament are simple. Players should start the first deal at 2:30 p. m. West is the first dealer. He distributes the hands in the first pack. Each hand is plainly marked on the back. Bidding and play proceeds, either at auction or contract, as the players choose. The second hand is distributed by North as dealer, the third by East and the fourth by South.

Full information on the manner of bidding and play is printed on the official score blanks and Charles True Adams, bridge expert of THE TRIBUNE, will tell all about these things via W-G-N just before play starts.

Play in the tournament is in four deals and four specially printed, prearranged packs of cards are required. The price is $3 a pack, or $8 a table. Of each $8 received, $6.40 or more will go to the two relief funds. The sole charge against the collections is the cost of the cards and the printing of score blanks. Other expense is assumed by THE TRIBUNE.

Women to Complete Plans.

Presidents of more than 200 women's organizations are expected to meet with Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, chairman of the women's division Joint Emergency Relief fund; Mrs. Clarence G. Goodwin, financial director Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, president of Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs, in room 315, Tribune Tower, tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock to complete plans for the active participation of women's groups in the tournament. Charles True Adams, THE TRIBUNE'S bridge expert, will speak.

Mrs. Cudahy urges that women's clubs, church societies, and fraternal organizations get back of this tournament. Special invitations have not been issued for this meeting. All presidents or their representatives are requested to attend.

The following women's club presidents, whose names were not printed yesterday, are also expected to attend the meeting tomorrow morning:

Mrs. Julius F. Ahles, Ello association.
Mrs. Harry Berkman, Hadassah, Chicago chapter.

All presidents of women's clubs, whether their names have been listed or not, are invited to attend the meeting tomorrow.

HARRY LANGDON, FILM COMEDIAN BROKE; HAS $700; OWES $62,637

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Listing his assets at $700, against liabilities of $62,837, Harry Langdon, a motion picture comedian, filed today a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in federal court.

He described himself as an unemployed actor. He gave his chief liability as $36,000 owed to the government in income tax and $12,103 due to James F. Dickerson of Los Angeles on a judgment.

The Hollywood Athletic club, to whom Longdon says he owes $388, is among more than a hundred other creditors, mostly Hollywood and Los Angeles tradespeople.

ALICE CUDAHY McCORMICK TO BE WED TODAY

J. N. Stearns Jr. Will Be Her Second Husband.

Mrs. Alice Cudahy McCormick of Chicago and John N. Stearns Jr. of New York procured a marriage license yesterday at Waukegan. Mrs. McCormick gave her age as 36 years and Mr. Stearns said he was 40.

The couple will be married at 4:30 p. m. today in the home of Mrs. McCormick's brother, Edward A. Cudahy Jr., at 904 East Green Bay road, Lake Forest. Following the ceremony, to which only relatives and a few friends have been invited, the couple will depart for New York, where Mr. Stearns is engaged in his father's textile business.

Mrs. McCormick is the youngest of the three daughters of Edward A. Cudahy Sr., 22 Banks street, the millionaire packer. Her sisters are Mrs. Vaughan Spalding and Mrs. Austin Patrick.

Wedding a Society Event.

Mrs. McCormick was married to Leander J. McCormick on Nov. 3, 1917. The ceremony, performed by Rev. Fitzsimmons of Holy Name cathedral, was an important wartime society event, attended by many notables, at the home of the bride's parents.

From the start the wedded life of the couple was beset by troubles. Soon after the marriage the bride left Mrs. remaining away for a lengthy period.

Mr. McCormick went to war, serving as a captain overseas. Upon his return he and his wife definitely separated and lived apart until 1920, when a reconciliation was affected through the efforts of the Cudahys and Mr. McCormick's parents, the L. Hamilton McCormicks.

Divorced at Reno in 1929.

The reunited couple sailed for Europe and, upon their return, purchased an apartment at 2430 Lake View avenue. A new rift developed in 1928, and in January, 1929, Mrs. McCormick took up residence at Reno, Nev. On April 8, 1929, she was granted a divorce on the ground of cruelty. Since her divorce she has lived mostly in New York.

Mr. Stearns is well known in New York society. After attending Princeton university he joined the army and saw service on the Mexican border. In 1917 he transferred to the navy, where he served as lieutenant on the battleship Texas in English waters. He is a golfer of some ability, having won the Long Island amateur championship some years ago.

JUDGE DECLARES ARMED POLICE SET BAD EXAMPLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The reason for keeping British police unarmed, except for a truncheon, was explained by Judge Humphreys in criminal court today at the trial of two men who were convicted of shooting a policeman four times. The actual killer was sentenced to 15 years, and his companion to five years.

"We know that if we armed our police we would be inviting the criminal classes to adopt the same course," Judge Humphreys said. "Up to now the system has worked admirably, and criminals have refrained, with very few exceptions, from attempting to kill those who are only doing their duty.

"If that state of things is to continue, the police are entitled to ask those whose duty it is to administer law, and administer it in the interests of public safety, to extend to the police the protection of the law."

FARM BOARD 177 MILLION "IN THE RED," IT ADMITS

And Total May Reach 202 Millions.

an estimate based on present market prices, and in fact, might even show a gain.

"On Oct. 31, 1931, the value of the unsold stocks owned by the stabilization corporation, computed at the market price of that day and considering the quality of the cotton held, might be estimated at about 45 million dollars."

Then followed the questioning of Mr. Williams.

Asked by Senator Norris concerning the 25 million bushels of wheat traded for coffee with Brazil and the 15 million bushels sold to China and the 7½ million bushels to Germany on credit, Mr. Williams confessed that these, too, might possibly spell further losses.

A Day of Controversy.

These revelations that the farm board stood to lose better than two-fifths of its half billion dollar revolving fund on the basis of prevailing prices, followed a day of testimony illustrative of the two conflicting opinions concerning the future of the board and the measure which created it—the agricultural marketing act.

On one hand there came the heads of the three great organizations claiming to represent agriculture—the National Grange, the American Farm Bureau federation, and the farmers' union. There came also the president of the recently formed national committee of farm organizations.

They came to demand an investigation of the farm board, to praise some of its activities, to criticise some or many of its policies. They came to demand the retention of the marketing act, but to urge that it be augmented by a provision for use of the equalization fee or the export debenture plans or both.

Cotton Growers Hostile.

On the other hand came a representation of the American Cotton Shippers' association likewise to demand an investigation of the board and to back up this demand with a bill of particulars specifying the injuries done the cotton industry of the south.

An investigation would disclose, said J. W. Garrow of Houston, Tex., the association's spokesman, among others, the following facts:

"That the stabilization operations, direct and indirect, undertaken by the farm board have damaged, rather than benefited, the producers of cotton and have utterly failed to achieve the purposes for which they were intended;

"That by its concentration of a huge speculative interest in the New York futures market, and more specifically by the May-July, 1930, squeeze carried on at its direction, the board has created a fear as to the future safety of the hedging facilities which are essential to the marketing of 85 per cent of the cotton crop;

"That the actions of the cotton cooperatives are dictated from Washington and their officials are merely the agents of the farm board, farmer control as to any essential policy being the merest fiction, and that dissatisfaction over this situation is becoming acute among state cooperatives."

Debenture Plan Urgent.

L. J. Taber, master of the National Grange, spoke for an amendment embodying the export debenture plan.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, spoke for the equalization fee; he wished the government given more power over dealings, particularly in futures, on the boards of trade.

To him and to John A. Simpson, head of the farmers' union, who followed him and whose attitude toward the board was far more hostile, Senator Norris pointed out that congress had already passed debenture and equalization fee bills, but that the President had vetoed them.

SETS RECORD BY TWO FIRSTS IN HOSPITAL TESTS

Dr. Aaron Arkin, assistant professor of medicine at Rush Medical college of the University of Chicago, won two first places in the competitive civil service examinations for attending physicians at the county hospital, it was disclosed yesterday. He headed the list of nearly 200 medical practitioners in both the examinations on medicine and on tuberculosis. It is the first time in the history of the hospital that a single man has won first place in two divisions of the staff competition. Dr. Arkin has been on the staff in the department of medicine for the last two years.

The examinations are given every physician on the hospital staff every six years. Those who fail are dropped, being replaced with the highest winners in each of the departments, medicine, surgery, skin, tuberculosis, pediatrics, nervous diseases, obstetrics and orthopedics. The results in the other four examinations have not yet been determined.

LINDBERGH'S HOP NORTH HALTED BY INJURY TO PLANE

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A punctured pontoon on the giant seaplane American Clipper today delayed the return of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, its pilot, to Miami, for completion of the Clipper's maiden commercial voyage.

The flying colonel, who boarded the plane here today for the return to the United States, joined Igor Sikorsky, designer of the Clipper, and mechanics in repairing the pontoon, so that the air voyage may be resumed tomorrow.

The accident occurred as the Clipper taxied away from the dock to take off for Kingston, Jamaica, this afternoon, in view of a crowd of Colombian officials and aviation enthusiasts. In the excitement the ground crew neglected to protect the port pontoon from a jutting iron railing, which pierced the metal above the water line.

AVIATION NOTES

Travelers on American Airways planes today will be served free turkey dinners. The dinners will be served in Memphis and Cincinnati on the Embry-Riddle division between Cleveland and Dallas and at Indianapolis on the Chicago-Cincinnati line.

St. Louis has followed Chicago's lead in acquiring an interairport plane service. Here Century Air Lines operates an air taxi service between the Chicago airport and Curtiss-Reynolds airport near Glenview. Virgil Fitcher has inaugurated a similar service between Curtiss-Steinberg airport in East St. Louis and the Lambert-St. Louis airport, northwest of St. Louis, in a Stinson junior four place cabin plane.

Dutch Government Fights Prohibition; Limits Rum

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Holland, Nov. 25.—The Dutch senate today, by 23 votes to 15, passed a new liquor law, fixing the maximum of licenses for the sale of liquor in the Netherlands. Citing the Volstead act as a warning, the Dutch government declared itself against prohibition, and accordingly removed the first clause of the bill, providing for local option. The government was sharply criticized by the drys in the senate.

Manager of Club Teodora Held to Jury in Rum Case

William Banks, manager of the Club Teodora at 710 Rush street, was held in bonds of $1,500 by Commissioner Walker yesterday on a charge of violation of the prohibition law. The case was continued to Dec. 1. Banks was seized in the club during a raid by fifteen prohibition agents on Tuesday night. Alleged liquors valued at $10,000 were confiscated. The club is said to be owned by the widow of Diamond Joe Esposito and Morris Quirk, reputed Capone lieutenant.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

WHAT THE WORLD SCENE REVEALS.

World news day by day presents a picture which leaves no doubt in the mind of the observer what is chiefly wrong in the affairs of men and governments. Out of almost any day's news there can be gathered sheaves of fact centering in one conclusion. The strongest and most advanced people are bearing today a burden of taxation which is crushing them gradually. This is the culmination of years of reckless extravagance in public expenditure, of spending without regard to immutable economic laws upon grandiose schemes of public benefit. In this process vast reserves of capital have been diverted from creative enterprise and poured away as through a sieve. Huge public debts exacting taxes approaching steadily nearer to complete confiscation are to be seen everywhere among nations great and small. In this absorption of individual means and this expansion of political enterprise, corruption and exploitation are now exposed as in New York and Chicago, where the press is free, and in many other places lie beneath the surface still, where publicity is disciplined or complacent.

But the whole picture of public affairs throughout the world is really one of simple outlines, showing governments on the verge of bankruptcy or already over the verge, showing the recreative forces of human energy everywhere half paralyzed by government interference and crushed with the increasing exactions of heedless public expenditure. The result is the paralysis or collapse of credit throughout the world. Governments of great countries rich in resources, of great cities, centers of wealth and industry, are begging hat in hand. Our own county and city have been unable to sell recent issues of bonds which a few years ago would have been snapped up by investors. The other day we read in a Canadian dispatch that "more than half of the $150,000,000 national service loan had been subscribed"—a characteristic way of reporting that a great government loan yielding over 5 per cent to the investor was only half subscribed after two days. Under conditions which ought to govern such a transaction this issue would have been many times oversubscribed on the first day. The explanation may be gathered from the leading financial weekly of Canada, the Financial Post, which in discussing the fiscal situation of that country says: "If any one wants to know why the burden of taxation has risen so sharply in Canada, why the dominion and provinces find foreign money markets cool to their offerings, one has only to study the record of extravagant expenditure and reckless borrowing of practically all of our government units."

Turn then to another dispatch in the same issue that publishes these reports. It is from the other side of the world, from Australia, and tells of the organization of a new party or group of parties to resist more effectively the radical political forces whose destructive policies have abolished Australian public credit and paralyzed Australian industry. In our own country resistance to public waste and increasing taxation is organizing throughout the country. New York manufacturers on Monday warned the state commission on the revision of tax laws that industry could not sustain further tax impositions and would leave the state if taxes were increased. Tuesday in Chicago the American Federation of Business expressed rising revolt against government waste and government attacks upon private enterprise, the growth of bureaucracy, the invasion of private right. This revolt is growing rapidly. Let us pray it will grow fast enough to meet the crisis.

The American people have no excuse for destroying their own prosperity. Our state is serious enough to warn us to halt. The lessons of England, of Germany, of nation after nation in both hemispheres, are clear enough to stay us. The world is a gigantic exhibit of the folly of government extravagance, of reckless and unscrupulous politics. No nation is rich enough to survive the persistent diversion of its capital from productive enterprise to unproductive political purposes. No people are strong enough to carry the ever growing burden of socialistic taxation. No nation however gifted with initiative and energy but must falter and slow down and finally fall if it piles debts upon its shoulders and binds its sinews with the ever increasing checks and regulations of political government.

BUTCHERING TIME.

The price of hogs the other day touched the lowest point recorded in 23 years. The price of cattle has been well sustained in recent weeks. As matters stand, the average farmer cannot make a fair profit on his hogs, but he can make money on the corn he puts into beef.

Those being the facts, the course for the farmer to pursue seems fairly clear. If he cannot make money on his hogs he can eat them, thereby saving the money which in other years he would pay to the butcher. His father, probably, and his grandfather, certainly, would have known what to do under the circumstances.

The farmer who cannot afford to sell his hogs at present prices can fill his cellar with barrels of pickled pork, with hams, bacon, and lard. Any farmer who hasn't a smokehouse can build one, and, fortunately, the old time art of sausage-making still survives in many parts of the corn belt. If the neighborhood will not produce the recipes no doubt a beneficent government has them for distribution. Probably the farmer cannot butcher as economically as the job can be done in the stockyards, but there need be little waste. The entrails for which he has no other use can be fed to surviving hogs.

This may be a hard year for the men on the land, but no farmer with hogs ready for market need worry about a meat supply for himself and his family. He can be his own butcher. That is where he has every advantage over the industrial worker in the cities.

MINCE PIE AND THE 18TH AMENDMENT.

The eighteenth amendment to the constitution as it was submitted to the states proposed that the "manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited." That is the language of the amendment as it was adopted by the states and it describes the delegation of new power to the federal Union. It is a police power of regulation formerly retained entirely by the states and not exercisable by the federal government. The grant of power is as precise as it could be stated. The manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes is prohibited.

The federal District court in Springfield, Ill., has sustained a ruling by the permit supervisor in Chicago refusing to allow the withdrawal of alcohol by a baking company. The court held that congress had the power and authority, in providing for enforcement to exempt the use of intoxicating liquors in the manufacture of food products from the prohibitions of the act. Inasmuch as congress failed to do so the judicial inference is that it intended not to do so. Consequently the use of intoxicating liquor in foods is prohibited. The federal judge held that the exemption of flavoring extracts containing intoxicating liquor would defeat the purpose of prohibition by making it possible to alcoholize otherwise nonintoxicating beverages.

One of the menu items in question in the decision is mincemeat. The federal court holds that congress could have made it permissible to use intoxicating liquor in food products. It had the authority to do so. A more interesting judicial argument would explain where it got the authority to prohibit the use of intoxicating liquor in anything except beverages. Before the adoption of the amendment it had no authority to give the states any liquor legislation other than such covered by the interstate commerce act, which can be construed as a catchall for moral ideas. It could not prohibit or regulate the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquor within a state until it was given the power by the states in the eighteenth amendment. That amendment restricts the authority, as plainly as language can state an intent, to beverages.

The states have not admitted the federal government to any other share of their own police power with respect to intoxicating liquor. It is a habit of the federal courts to legislate by constructions of law. John Marshall started it and with that revered example the courts have been at it ever since.

The extension of the eighteenth amendment from beverages to food and medicine was not done by the consent of legislatures or state conventions. Another amendment to the constitution was made by congressional encroachment and judicial sanction. In effect this unconstitutional process has added to the amendment, following the words "beverage purposes," the phrase "or any other purposes not authorized by congress."

This has not only taken the brandy out of the mincemeat. It has made mincemeat of the constitution. It has plenty of judicial precedent. We are beginning to see that no good comes of it.

LAUGHTER IN THE LOOP.

The bizarre decorations which appeared for a day along State street only to be shrouded until the Grand Opening caught the fancy of the crowds. It was not only because the figures were amusing, but because they conveyed the notion that geniality, good humor, imagination and initiative are not dead hereabouts. The decorations, it is announced, have to do with a carnival which will be held along the street some time in the near future. The reception of these incidental decorations promises well for the success of the carnival itself.

Editorial of the Day

DR. BUTLER'S PROGRAM.

[New York Sun.]

Of the fourteen points on which Nicholas Murray Butler builds a 1932 program for the Republican party two are so closely allied that they might have been joined. These are the third and the fourteenth. In plank No. 3 Dr. Butler calls for a budget balanced through "rigorous economy in making appropriations" and the imposition of such taxes, "primarily upon the accumulated wealth of the country," as will meet the necessary expenses of government. Dr. Butler suggests an impossibility. So long as the burden of taxation could be put upon accumulated wealth there never would be any rigorous economy. Congress would go right ahead with its waste. It is only when the man in the street is hit by taxation that the gentlemen in Washington reform their ways. If Dr. Butler could get a united Republican party to put through his fourteenth point, economy in the federal government would come surely and naturally, for plank No. 14 is as follows:

"That the huge, costly, and wasteful bureaucracy which has grown up at Washington be curbed and simplified, for the double purpose of effecting important economies and of improving the administration of public business."

End bureaucracy and you end extravagance. End follies like the farm board and boulder dam, throw out paternalism, dollar matching, and the rest of their useless kind and strip the government down to its genuine functions. Then there will be economy, but not before.

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THANKSGIVING DAY—and how times have changed. We used to look with something approaching a shudder at pictures of the Pilgrim fathers attending church to give thanks on this day while lurking Indians shot arrows through their tall hats. The Pilgrim fathers have nothing on us any more. The cruel aborigines are always seen in the pictures lurking outdoors behind trees and always at a respectful distance. Today bandits walk right in while we're at dinner and, instead of shooting arrows at our top hats, they wave machine guns and are quite liable to fill us very full of lead.

And, besides, the worst thing the Indians are ever quoted as saying to the Pilgrim fathers was "Ugh, ugh, me killum." Which sounds like Elsie Dinsmore at boarding school compared to the way our modern enemies talk. They say: "Lissen, baby, do a Brodie to the floor or we'll chop off yer head behind the ears." Or even more horrible, to a person of any real culture (if there are any such left), is to have a dinner robber say: "Stick 'em up, youse guys, an' make it snappy!" Having one's real pearl necklace and diamond brooch snaked off of us by a bandit is not nearly so revolting as to have him include you with the others when he says, "Youse guys!" The Indians who harassed our ancestors around Plymouth would have been a real delight to listen to when they said, "Ugh, ugh, me killum," instead of horrid, rough creatures tramping into our drawing room without knocking on the door or wiping their feet or anything and saying: "Keep yer traps shet, folks; this here is a stickup." It is unbearable to be addressed by utter strangers with such familiarity. Compared with us the Pilgrim fathers had it pretty soft.

PETITIONER.

Like fretful children, crying for new toys,
We importune the Lord: "Give this—give that—"
We clog the placid evening air with noise.
Demanding rain—another love—a hat!

Does He not know our needs? This is not prayer.
Rather should we, in all humility,
Murmur: "Then give me, Lord, the strength to bear
What I must bear. In all, be Thou with me!"

'Twould be a sorrier world, more full of cares,
If God should answer everybody's prayers.

AND NOT ONLY can we eat turkey 'n' stuffing today (if we're lucky) but we can eat in peace and quiet; the stock market won't go to new lows as it did yesterday. The damthing's closed.

A UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN law student has a theory that public men don't pay the slightest attention to the things the common people say to them. At a reception given by Gov. Brucker yesterday the student said as the governor shook hands with him, "I killed my grandmother today." "Very glad to make your acquaintance," said the governor, grabbing the hand of the next in line. The governor had the thing explained to him afterwards and said he had preferred to ignore the student's remark, but the latter insists he proved his point. The governor should have thanked the student for an attempt at least at originality. Many people when they meet one of our great men usually say, "I've always voted for you," or "My little boy is named after you," but generally they say, "Glad to meetcha." "I killed my grandmother today" is very sprightly conversation compared to what our great men usually hear.

AND NOW ARKANSAS has cut residence time for a divorce down to ninety days, hoping to compete with Reno, where you get a decree in six weeks. Oh, not a chance! With the extra forty-eight days that one has after getting a divorce they can get married and divorced again. And all in the same time that it takes to get one divorce in Arkansas.

Upon Reading the Book of Li Po.

(Chinese poet, eighth century A. D.)

And here, in this old book, we find discussed
The themes we choose today: business and toil,
Knowledge and fame, weariness born of moil,
Daydreams of youth, visions of love and lust;
Whether it pays to work that one may live,
Whether it pays to live, if work is all;
How one may think great thoughts in one-room small,
How one may gain great wealth, if one but give;
Here one may learn the foolishness of pride,
The curse of gold; and here are saintly prayers
For high celestial joys: by mystic stairs
This old philosopher and poet tried
To burst the doors of heaven, as do we—
And as they will who after us shall be.

FIFTY YEARS AGO AND TODAY.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE runs a column devoted to the more or less distant past of the city. The items of information are taken from the files of the paper. One section of this column bears the heading, "30 Years Ago Today."

One item, which appeared Oct. 14, is of interest in that it gives reason for Thanksgiving. The information contained in this item makes it possible to understand how much healthier we have become in fifty years, for what was said of Chicago holds true of people in all sections of the country.

The item said: "There were 240 deaths in Chicago last week, against 239 in the previous week. Of those who died, 101 were under 5 years of age. There were 15 deaths from diphtheria, 21 from typhoid fever, 17 from consumption, 7 from pneumonia, and 25 from smallpox."

This was not far from being a typical week, in a typical year, in a typical population in that period. In 1831 the estimated population of Chicago was 640,000, and the total number of deaths in the year was 14,101. The death rate was 26.11 per 1,000 population. The present population is over three million, the total number of deaths per year is around 35,000, and the annual death rate is less than eleven. The death rate is considerably less than one-half that of the earlier period.

There were 35 deaths from smallpox in the one week. Somewhere around fifteen years is now required to accumulate as many deaths from smallpox as that one week produced. There were 15 deaths from diphtheria in that one week. The total number for the year was 753; the rate was 12.43 per 100,000. In 1930 the total number of deaths from the disease in the city nearly six times as large was 411, and the rate was 12.1 per 100,000.

There were 21 deaths from typhoid fever in one week and 462 for the year. At the present time in this city nearly three years is required for the number of deaths from this disease to equal the record for one week fifty years ago.

The number of deaths from consumption in that week was 17, and that for the year was 1,055, the yearly rate having been 13.83. The number of deaths from this disease in 1930 was 2,235, the rate 65.9 per 100,000 for tuberculosis of all kinds. The improvement in the consumption rate is great even though not as great as that of some other diseases.

In that week in 1851 101 children under five years of age died, or 42 per cent of the total mortality. The total deaths in the group that year was 6,555. In 1930 it was 4,331 in the city of over five times the size, and the percentage of the total deaths was twelve.

The average span of life in several years longer than it was then, and the proportion of the population who are of working age is much greater. The number who are disabled because of being chronically sick and thereby unable to work is small.

We have reason to be thankful for the improvements in health that the last half century has witnessed.

UNCOOKED ROLLED OATS.

V. M. writes: Will uncooked rolled oats do any harm to a person in any way? I eat about a cupful or more every day. I seem to crave it.

REPLY.

No. It is somewhat easier to digest cooked starch, but you appear to be able to negotiate raw starch satisfactorily.

GETTING ALONG TOO FAST.

S. V. writes: My baby has been standing for the last four weeks. She is now only 7 months old. Some people tell me she will be bowlegged. I believe not, since she is very strong and has been doing this by herself.

REPLY.

Do not encourage the baby to stand. She is going ahead a little too rapidly, and will be better off if her education along all lines is not pushed.

MARRIAGE LICENSE.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—(Legal Friend of the People.)—1. Is it possible for two people residing in Iowa to secure a marriage license in that state and [2] be married in the state of Illinois without establishing residence or [3] filing papers of some sort in said state? Both are of age. 4. Is it possible for two people living in Iowa to secure a license in Illinois and be married there without establishing residence? 5. Would marriage in either case be recorded and if so [6] would it be possible to examine such records?

A. K. B.

1. No, the license should be secured where the ceremony is to be celebrated.
2. Yes.
3. The official celebrating the marriage should return his certificate to the county clerk.
4. Yes.
5. Yes.
6. Yes.

IMMIGRATION VISAS.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—[Friend of the People.]—I have two daughters in Poland. My husband is not a citizen but he will become a citizen as soon as he receives his papers which have been applied for. My daughters visited the consul in Warsaw for a visa, but were told he could not issue one. I wish to know when the consul will be authorized by the government in Washington to issue the visa. Please give me any information you can regarding this case.

A. N.

You are advised that the matter of issuance of immigration visas to aliens is in the hands of the respective consuls in the various countries in Europe and the information desired as to why the consul will not issue a visa to the daughters mentioned must be taken up with the consul to which they made their applications for such visa which is required under the immigration act of May 26, 1924.

S. D. SMITH,
District Director of Immigration.

RATING NOT COMPLETED.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—[Friend of the People.]—Please let me know when the list is going to be posted for bathroom attendant, on which the examinations were had in July, 1931. C. T.

The rating of papers in the examination held for bathroom attendant has not yet been completed. The commission expects to have this work finished in the near future. JAMES S. OSBORNE,
Secretary of Civil Service Commission.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 26, 1915.

MILAN.—Reports have been received here that Goritz has been taken by the Italians. The capture of the Austrian stronghold, if confirmed, comes after a four months' campaign. During that time trench after trench and hill after hill had to be captured, and numerous powerful batteries, protected by strong natural and artificial defenses, had to be demolished. The importance of the place was derived mainly from its military position as the key to the Austrian defenses north of the Carso.

BALKAN WAR NEWS.—Thousands more Serbians have been captured by the Germans, Berlin reports. The main Serbian army continues to retreat after the fall of Mitrovitza and Pristina and is now defending the little fringe of Serbia between the Sitnica river and the Albanian and Montenegrin frontiers. In the south the Serbs continue the offensive. Heavy French guns have been brought up to dislodge the invaders, driven back on Prilep by the furious attacks of the Serbs. John T. McCutcheon, TRIBUNE correspondent in the Balkans, reports the arrival of official refugees at Monastir.

LONDON.—The Daily Telegraph's Saloniki correspondent claims to be able to confirm the statement that Gen. von Mackensen, under a flag of truce, sent a message through the Serbian lines to the Serbian crown prince seeking a separate peace between Germany and Serbia on the basis of the cession to Bulgaria of the northeast corner of Serbia from Kniajevatz to Pirot, and all of Serbian Macedonia, while old Serbia was to remain Serbian, and that the crown prince refused to negotiate with him.

LONDON.—On the eastern battle front both Petrograd and Berlin claim advantageous actions in the north on the Riga-Dvinsk front, chiefly the repulse of enemy attacks and slight gains. In the south the Russians report driving a force of Germans into the Stripa river and annihilating them.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 26, 1901

COLON.—Marines from the battleship Iowa have taken control of the Isthmian railroad and are maintaining open traffic between this city and Panama. The threatened bombardment of Colon by the Colombian gunboat General Pinzon has been postponed until 6 o'clock in the afternoon of Nov. 29. Serious fighting between the Colombian troops and the Liberals has taken place at Culebra and Emperador, with 150 men reported killed on both sides. Gen. Alban, in command of the Colombian troops, was slightly wounded.

LONDON.—The complimentary dinner to Sir Thomas Lipton at the Hotel Cecil was marked by a great outburst of enthusiasm over the name of Theodore Roosevelt. The dinner was a remarkably brilliant affair with 440 of London's most distinguished men present. The great hall was decorated with the yachting colors and English and American flags. It was the most notable banquet held in London in recent years and its characteristic feature was good feeling between England and America.

CHICAGO.—The city council took up the cause of Luke Colleran, deposed chief of detectives, and by the passage of resolutions criticizing the civil service commission for its findings in his case ordered an investigation by the committee on civil service. Chief of Police O'Neill, after a conference with the mayor, announced the abolishment of the office of chief of detectives and thus removed Colleran's hope of reinstatement.

NEW YORK.—The will of Henry Hart of the Third Avenue railroad company was filed for probate. The will leaves his millions to a niece on condition that she does not marry a Christian. Notice was given by the attorney for Joseph Hart, who alleges he is a nephew of the railroad magnate, that he will contest the will.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 26, 1881.

NEW YORK.—Frederick Reitzel, vice president of the Philharmonic society, delivered a funeral oration over the remains of Rudolph Bial, former leader of Koster & Bial's orchestra. Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore, the well known conductor, made a short address.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—All the Illinois congressmen, four from Wisconsin, and two from Iowa, Republicans, present in Washington, have consented to the appointment of the Hon. Dan Shepard as collector, vice William Henry Smith, whose term expired. It is expected the President will send his name to the senate on Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Guiteau, on trial for the murder of President Garfield, read from a manuscript a rambling statement purporting to show that he was the instrument of the Deity in removing the President and referring to the newspaper attacks on Garfield which he held justified his act, though he said he would have killed the President even if they had not appeared. Senator Logan was called as a witness but did not appear. Neither did Emery Storrs of Chicago or Joseph D. Smith of Freeport, Ill. Charles H. Reed, former state's attorney of Cook county, testified. The general tendency of his testimony went to show that Guiteau was somewhat insane though not incapable of judging right from wrong. He was interrupted by the prisoner several times and Guiteau could not even be suppressed by the judge who threatened to have him gagged.

LEAVENWORTH, Kas.—The city was startled by a rumor that a band of armed horsemen headed by the James boys was coming in to take this town. The excitement was caused by the man who rode into town and declared he had come seventy miles and was using his third horse to warn Leavenworth of the impending visit of the notorious desperatoes.

AGAINST AN ADVISORY OPINION.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Efforts of Illinois legislators to petition the Supreme court by joint resolution for an advisory opinion on the constitutionality of pending income tax legislation should end in failure. The Supreme court as a judicial body cannot act in any advisory capacity upon any matters of initial legislative interest.

The limitations of judicial authority are not mere technical fixtures of an adjective nature as political leaders earnestly declare; they are substantive rules of jurisdiction and policy determined 128 years ago, and reaffirmed by subsequent court decisions.

Of far greater importance than the present constitutional insurance of pending legislation is the maintenance of the departmental equilibrium of government. The freedom and independence of the judiciary, so jealously guarded by the constitutional fathers, and so scrupulously preserved by their judicial successors, can best be maintained by a continued dissociation of the legislative and judicial bodies. Crises of the greatest economic severity should not disrupt the existing scheme of government.

HARRY ISAAC KRONENBERG.

THE PUBLIC DEFENDER.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—This is an answer to the letter of Charles Anderson, published in your column on Friday, Nov. 20, entitled "A Salaried Official."

1. The purpose of the public defender's office is to defend that unfortunate group of persons in the community who become enmeshed in the machinery of criminal law and who have no money to pay for counsel.

2. I am a public official but not a philanthropist.

3. I do not charge a fee for services rendered, but I receive a salary from the county of Cook for my services and so do the five assistants and the secretary who, together with me, make up the office.

4. I am an attorney at law admitted to practice in 1896.

5. I defend only such part of the public who are charged with crime and who have not the means to employ counsel. The method is a method honestly employed in defense of persons charged with crime, either by trial by jury or trial by a court without a jury.

6. I have five assistants and the offices of the public defender are on the sixth floor of the Criminal Court building at 26th and South California avenue.

Prior to the public defender system now in use in Cook county it was the uniform practice of the judges to appoint members of the bar to defend persons accused of crime who were not financially able to employ a lawyer. In order to constitute a valid trial it has always been necessary that the defendant be represented by counsel. Under the former system the counsel so appointed were usually very young lawyers just admitted to practice, who generally made use of their appointments in order to obtain experience. A great number of abuses were always present under that system; countless delays were caused; the administration of justice was clogged and the evils resulted principally because the young lawyers were inexperienced and the defense and conduct of the trials of the young lawyers was inadequate. During the first year after the public defender's office took over the burden of defending the indigent defendants about 50 per cent of all the cases tried were tried by the public defender's office.

BENJAMIN C. BACHRACH,
Public Defender of Cook County.

THE HONOR OF THE DEPARTMENT.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—With reference to the letter of C. S. Peterson printed in your column under the heading "A Brave Fireman," I wish to state that an investigation of this matter was made by the writer through four different agencies—viz.: fire attorney, division marshal in charge of the district involved, chief of the battalion and the chief of the fire insurance patrols.

From the variety of unusual circumstances uncovered in our investigations I am satisfied that no member of the Chicago fire department is guilty of any wrong in connection with this fire, and if any further facts in connection with this matter develop which would involve any member of our department you may rest assured that he, or they, will be summarily dealt with.

Yours very truly,
DAVID CARMODY,
Acting Fire Commissioner.

WINGS OVER KENTUCKY.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Surely THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE does not entertain as editorial policy of studied insults to the southern states and its many readers of southern birth, although that would be indicated by the repeated slurs upon the intelligence and provincialism of Kentuckians and Tennesseans, specifically exemplified in the editorial "Wings Over Kentucky." I can see no gain through deliberately antagonizing numbers of your patrons or building up, for a following of intelligent readers, a picture devoid of fact and utterly lacking in understanding of the social and economic conditions so facetiously discussed.

According to indictments already returned, Theodore Dreiser and his group premeditatedly went into Kentucky to incite and encourage communism and acts of violence. They prefaced their arrival with an insult to the governor of the state and gave notice of their intentions. They were warned to stay out, for their own good. Despite this, they insisted upon injecting themselves into a purely local issue, with preconceived ideas and formulated plans which, save for the common horse sense of the native miners, might have thrown Bell county into civil war.

The south has enough troubles of its own without encouraging new ones. It has learned the most satisfactory methods of handling its own peculiar and individual social and economic problems to a degree satisfactory to all those most concerned. The Helena, Ark., race riots, Arkansas communism troubles, North Carolina textile mill strikes and this last fiasco in Kentucky have all been inspired by eastern anarchists, paid agitators or pseudo reformers. Only the level headedness of the local authorities has saved the day in each instance.

As expressed in your editorial, "The fundamentalists in Tennessee remained good natured." That is true. Until that inherent good nature and provincial independence is insulted, they can well afford to laugh at the antics of reformers who come in with the advertised plan of making monkeys out of them—only to find the tables reversed. They are still laughing and in a very good humor. These poor, benighted mountain folk are very easily led when superior intelligence and plain thinking are offered, but history indicates that it has always been a rather impossible and somewhat dangerous proposition to attempt to drive them or for outsiders to meddle, unasked, in their personal affairs.

C. B. CUNNINGHAM.

THE MONEY ISN'T THERE.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—THE TRIBUNE'S editorial of this date entitled, "The Money Isn't There" is somewhat misleading and inaccurate. In the first place, the editor says the cost of government must be reduced. I question whether it is primarily the legitimate cost of government that has precipitated the present crisis. I believe the editor knows it is not; I believe he knows that public moneys have been used to pay political debts, provide jobs for friends, and to unjustly enrich certain individuals. Why not say so? Why not say that these forms of expenditure of public money must be reduced, and continue to say so until they are?

Again he says, "Cook county is already taxed beyond its capacity to pay." Does he not mean that certain classes of people are so taxed, and that certain other classes who can well afford to pay enjoy practical immunity from taxation?

While we are in this muddle we should go fearlessly and honestly to the bottom of it. Graft does not pay any one in the long run. Waste, extravagance, favoritism have brought about the present depreciation in real estate and other values. Favoritism, inequitable distribution of tax burdens and of the privileges and responsibilities of government are the rocks on which more than one ship of state has foundered. Honesty in government is the best policy.

NEW CHARGES BY NAVY LEAGUE HIT AT HOOVER AGAIN

Also Take Fling at His Inquiry Board.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The Navy league of the United States today reopened its feud with the White House by firing a new broadside at President Hoover and his naval policies. In a communication bristling with statistics, league officials ranked the President's handling of naval matters, asserting that Mr. Hoover's whole naval policy has been unconstructive and ineffective in giving the nation adequate defense of the seas.

WALTER R. HOWE. [Acme Photo.]

The new league charges, which are expected to precipitate a congressional inquiry into the charges and counter-charges featuring the current White House-Navy league row, are contained in an open letter written by Walter Bruce Howe, chairman, to the board of directors of the Navy league. The 6,000 word communication answers the findings of the committee appointed by President Hoover to investigate the original Navy league charges issued under the name of William Howard Gardiner, league president.

Upholds Gardiner's Charges.

The Howe letter assails the Hoover vindication committee report, which declared that the Gardiner pamphlet of Oct. 28 contained "inaccuracies, false assertions, and erroneous conclusions." It asserts that the Gardiner letter, which charged the President with starving and restricting the American navy and with exhibiting "abysmal ignorance" of naval matters, painted a true picture of the American naval situation.

The Hoover committee report, according to Mr. Howe, was filled with glaring inaccuracies of an "astonishing nature."

Taking up the Hoover national policies, the Howe letter charged that during his term of office here Hoover had done nothing to build up the fleet, that his warship construction appropriations were "hopelessly short of the sums needed to attain the London naval treaty quotas in underage ships, or even to supply average replacements in sufficient quantities to keep the existing fleet up to date."

Inferior Under Hoover.

The league reasserted that the American navy under the Hoover administration remains "incontestably inferior" when judged by treaty terms and ratios.

In its conclusion the Howe statement insinuates that President Hoover's policy is that of departing from the London treaty ratios. Supporting this statement, Mr. Howe asserts that "Mr. Hoover has not inaugurated a single move to provide replacements—not to mention upbuilding in warship categories where we are below treaty levels."

The White House gave no indication tonight as to whether it will answer the new league attack. Inasmuch as the original charges of Mr. Gardiner stirred the President's anger to a point where he appointed a committee "to demonstrate the untruths and distortions of fact" in Gardiner's statement, White House observers were confident tonight that some action would be taken by Mr. Hoover. It was considered highly possible that the President will turn the letter over to the special committee he named to vindicate his navy stand.

Of the twenty-four members of the board, more than half already have endorsed the Howe communication, it was stated. The board membership, which backed up Gardiner wholeheartedly when he was under White House fire, includes James Wadsworth of New York, Henry Cabot Lodge, grandson of the late senator from Massachusetts; Theodore Douglas Robinson, former assistant secretary of the navy, and W. M. Hubbard, Chicago lawyer.

The league reply scores the Hoover committee for what it termed its inaccuracies and errors. It begins by stating that on one occasion the committee misquoted the league's figures to prove some of its points and on another occasion committed the error of stating that the United States today was building more warships than any other power. This was done, it was said, in the face of the fact that in its own report it furnished figures showing both France and Italy had more warships under construction than did the United States.

Accuracy Is Questioned.

The league calls attention to figures in the Gardiner statement which show that on Oct. 1 last the United States had in auxiliary warships 456,060 tons, Great Britain 597,281, and Japan 455,925.

"We stated this American, British, Japanese ratio to be 10 for the United States, 12.1 for Great Britain, and 10.0 for Japan. And yet Mr. Hoover's committee said in its report that we listed Japan's ratio as 13.1 They stated this figure was wrong and that the actual figure was 10.7 for Japan.

"It is astonishing," continues the league statement, "that a presidential committee, set up as a tribunal of accuracy before which no representative of the navy league was allowed to appear, has permitted itself to make such an obviously incorrect statement as that quoted above.

"It is to be deeply regretted that Mr. Hoover's committee in its report repeatedly relies on this same misstatement to attack the accuracy of the assertions made on behalf of the league and adopts it as a basis for its findings of inaccuracy, false assertions and erroneous conclusions."

"If uncorrected, the committee's inaccuracy would have the unfortunate effect of placing in doubt figures of which the committee could have no demonstrable doubt. Such erroneous statements and conclusions appearing with the names of the distinguished committees have, if uncorrected, as unfortunate an effect as if made with deliberate intent to misinform the public. Whereas we had said that the American-British-Japanese ratio was 10.0-13.1-10.0, Mr. Hoover's committee finds itself in the unfortunate position of having alleged that we had stated that the 'ratio of Japan is 13.1.'"

The Howe letter next pointed out that today the Japanese fleet of under age auxiliaries, built and building, is within 65 tons of equality with the United States. It states also that while the United States has "merely 69 per cent of its London treaty quota of warships, the British on Oct. 1 had about 83 per cent, while the Japanese had 102 per cent."

A Hoover committee statement that the current naval building truce would not widen the gap existing between the American-British-Japanese fleets was branded inaccurate by Chairman Howe. He stated that the fact that American ships are so old would result in a faster depreciation for the American fleet during the next year than for the British or Japanese fleets. He submited figures purporting to show that on Nov. 1 the United States-British-Japanese ratios in auxiliaries were 10-13.5-10.5.

On Nov. 1, 1932, under the truce, the figures will be 10-14.7-11.9, he said.

Requirements Discussed.

To attain the London treaty totals in under age auxiliaries by Dec. 31, 1936, would call for the construction of about 400,000 tons of warships, the league letter said. It was added that the cost of completing this tonnage would run about $900,000,000, or an average of $190,000,000 a year over a five year period.

"According to a statement issued by the White House on the 12th of November," the league letter continues, "merely $53,000,000 will be spent during the present fiscal year to carry on the construction of all of the ships the United States is now building or proposing to build. To this we may add that the President's present tentative budget for the fiscal year ending the 30th of June, 1933, seems to provide merely $57,000,000. And there is also about $5,000,000 to be carried over from the current fiscal year, presumably for naval construction.

Falling Further Behind.

"As it would take, on the average, over $100,000,000 a year merely to keep up normal replacements of our present fleet it would seem that an average expenditure of less than $60,000,000 a year during the current and coming fiscal years not only does not make any progress toward treaty quotas, but does not even approach meeting the average replacements called for. And obviously it is hopelessly short of the average of about $190,000,000 a year we should be spending if there were any intention of attaining the treaty quotas in under age ships by the end of the London treaty."

TOM MIX BATTLING FOR LIFE; FAILS TO SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Battling with every ounce of vigor gained in his outdoor life, Tom Mix, cowboy movie star, barely was able to ward off a gradual sinking spell in his fight against peritonitis at Hollywood hospital.

Ravages of the internal infection which followed the rupture of Mix's appendix last Monday caused Dr. R. Nichol Smith to call specialists into consultation this afternoon. At 5 p. m. the physician stated: "There is no improvement in Mr. Mix's condition. All I can do is hope for the best. We will be able to know definitely on Friday or Saturday the ultimate outcome."

A second supply of bacteria culture which the physicians are injecting in Mix's arm to combat the gangrenous germs was being brought here tonight. The helpful germs are rushed here by plane from Stanford university laboratories at Palo Alto. Mix's physicians said the patient was in a mental state which contributed to his fight against the disease. Opiates helped Mix spend a restful night.

BEATS DRY AGENT CAUGHT PEEPING IN HOME; FREED

Milwaukee Jury Holds Attack Justified.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—A federal court jury late today decided William Storm, Appleton, was justified in administering a beating to Peter Whisnant, prohibition agent, whom he was told was peering in the basement windows of his home and whom he thought was a "Peeping Tom." In the melée with Whisnant and two other agents found in his yard, Storm broke Whisnant's cheekbone and otherwise bruised him.

Storm was charged with assaulting a federal officer. The case went to the jury at 11 a. m., and the "not guilty" verdict returned at 4:35 p. m. The jurors spent much of the time in debating whether it was reasonable for Storm to assume the agents were "Peeping Toms," it was indicated by questions asked the court when the jury reported a disagreement at 3:30 p. m., and requested further instructions.

Cunningham Demands Trial.

Incidents involved in the trial occurred at the Storm home at 1205 West Winnebago street, Appleton, on the night of Jan. 31. After the fight Storm was taken to the police station at Appleton, and apologized and shook hands with Whisnant when convinced the three men who had been in his yard were prohibition agents. He was not brought to Milwaukee. Five days later, when the incident was reviewed in Milwaukee newspapers, W. Frank Cunningham, deputy prohibition administrator, demanded of the district attorney's office that the case be presented to the grand jury. That body returned an indictment charging assault.

At the trial today, Storm said his neighborhood had been annoyed by peepers and other intruders. The night previous, he and neighbors had reported the nuisance to Appleton police.

He was reading in his home at 8 p. m., he testified, when his daughter Genevieve came running into the house terrified and said there were men peeping in the basement windows. Almost simultaneously a neighbor, Mrs. Marie Burke, started for the Storm home to tell him three suspicious acting strangers were in the yard. She testified for the defense at the trial.

Storm rushed out into the back yard, he said, where he encountered three men. Besides Whisnant, there were Agents John Kuemmerlein and Clarence Olson—each of the three 6 feet tall. Storm is 5 feet 5 inches in height.

He alleges all three seized him. One of them, whom he identified in court as Whisnant, grabbed him by the necktie, he said. He struck out with his fists, then broke free and ran back into the house.

The disturbance caused police to be called, and Storm and the three agents accompanied them to the police station.

The agents told a different story. They went to the house, they said, to investigate a complaint there was a brewery in the basement. Storm greeted them when they rapped at the back door and asked whether the brewery in the basement belonged to him, they said. Immediately after they informed him they were federal men, Storm struck Whisnant, who was in the lead, they testified.

In giving instructions to the jury Judge Ferdinand Geiger said Storm's assault was unprovoked unless he was certain the men were not dry agents.

Point of Dentist's Drill Taken from Lung of Judge

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 25.—(AP)—The point of a dentist's drill was removed from the lung of Judge R. C. Bell, a member of the Georgia State Court of Appeals, in a bronchoscopic operation today at Temple University hospital. He is reported to be in good condition.

PECANS FOR CHRISTMAS.

300,000 lbs. of Fine Pecans Being Sold at Unheard of Prices.

Here is our Christmas message to our Chicago friends and throughout America who have bought pecans from us during the past sixteen years. This year the crop of pecans is larger than ever known before; the quality of the pecans was never better; there are pecans that are finer than any most people have ever seen—pecans that are so fine and so rare that they seldom find their way into retail stores; pecans that have been grown, harvested, cleaned, culled, polished and graded with such care that we can guarantee them to be better than United States Standard No. 1 Quality. Here are Schley Pecans, the premier of all ultra fine pecans—the pecan with the thinnest shell; the largest proportion of meat to shell; and the finest flavor of any paper shell pecan grown—pecans that have sold in former years at prices from $2 to $1.50 per lb., and enjoyed only by the very wealthy. Here then are an opportunity that you have formerly paid for common native pecans. This year fine pecans are within the reach of all; you will find prices as these are low enough to last you for the winter; order from the list; this offer will not appear again. Do not be afraid to order all you need; when you receive them, if for any reason you are not pleased return them, and your money will be refunded in full. We are responsible—refer you to R. G. Dun & Co. or your own banker. At these prices our stock will be moved quickly; mail your order at once. Pay the small express charges when the pecans are delivered to you; the prices are f. o. b. Hitchcock. Remit for the pecans only.

ARREST BROKER ON A WARRANT CHARGING RAPE

Name of Alleged Victim Is Concealed.

Carl B. De Vol, 49 years old, insurance broker with offices at 175 West Jackson boulevard, was arrested at 5 p. m. yesterday at his home, 1209 Mulford avenue, Evanston, on a warrant charging him with rape. The identity of the alleged victim was concealed. The arrest was made by Detectives Louis Furst and Rodney Alymer of the state's attorney's office.

De Vol was released five hours later through the efforts of Assistant State's Attorneys Albert C. De Witt and J. Kent Greene, when they persuaded Municipal Judge Alfred Erickson to accept a $3,000 check for De Vol's bond. The check was signed by W. W Gillespie, insurance broker of 6117 Washington boulevard, and guaranteed by Prosecutor Greene.

Report Girl Seriously Injured.

The warrant was issued last Saturday by Judge Alfar M. Eberhardt on complaint of Jack Ranz, proprietor of an Evanston furniture store. Detective Furst said the alleged victim's name did not appear on the warrant, adding that he had been informed she was seriously injured as a result of her experience.

After arresting De Vol, the two detectives locked him up at Town Hall police station. He had been in a conference several hours when Gillespie appeared announcing that he would sign a check for the amount of the prisoner's bond. Sergt. Ray Gilso refused to accept the check.

Thereupon Gillespie telephoned to Prosecutor Greene, who hurried to the station. Greene then summoned his associate, De Witt. Accompanied by Gillespie, the two prosecutors then went to the home of Judge Erickson, nearby at 653 Bittersweet place. At request of De Witt, Judge Erickson agreed to waive security and approve the bond. Greene said he would guarantee Gillespie's check and the latter promised to redeem it with cash within forty-eight hours.

Freed at Bureau.

With the bond approved, Gillespie and the prosecutors returned to Town Hall station. Sergt. Gilso again refused to release De Vol, saying his orders were to send the prisoner to the bureau of identification at the detective bureau.

De Vol was sent to the bureau. The two prosecutors and Gillespie arrived there ten minutes before the patrol. De Witt had a private conversation with Lieut. Walter Storms, deputy chief of detectives, who ordered the prisoner released as soon as he had been fingerprinted and photographed at the bureau of identification.

French Naval Committee O.K.'s Plans for 8 Warships

PARIS, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The chamber of deputies naval committee today approved a report recommending construction during 1932-33 of four second class cruisers, one destroyer, and one torpedo boat, in limited categories, and of one hydrographic craft and one river gunboat in the unlimited category. These are all replacements of obsolete units. Former Minister of Marine Danielou said the total tonnage was 3,000 less than the average yearly construction since 1922.

SCHOOLBOY INJURED.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 25. — [Special.] — William Miller Harris, 8 year old son of Mrs. Jesse Harris, living on rural route 8, is in the Deaconess hospital with a fractured skull received yesterday when he darted from behind a parked car at his school building into the path of an automobile driven by Albert Mueller.

ITALY BIDS FOR ANOTHER NAVAL CHAT WITH PARIS

Move Follows Grandi's Talks in U. S.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Nov. 25.—Tentative gestures towards a settlement before the disarmament conference of Franco-Italian naval claims are being made by Italy to France, it is understood, as a result of the conferences of Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, with President Hoover.

Reports that Grandi might return to Europe from the United States by way of London have been followed by hints that he would also be willing to return through Paris. This is regarded as an outspoken bid by the Italians to have Grandi invited to Paris.

Mussolini Would Resume Naval Talk.

It was not denied officially in Rome that a Franco-Italian conference might be held soon if France is willing. It is known that Premier Mussolini would like France to invite him to resume discussion of the naval pact. An agreement was practically reached last March, but was abandoned after Germany announced her plans of an economic union with Austria.

In fact, it is pointed out here that Italy has had personal chats in London, Berlin, and Washington, and now only a Paris talk is lacking to make the cycle complete. Italian naval writers point out that any success in the coming disarmament conference depends upon an effective solution of the Mediterranean problem, which means Italo-French naval rivalry. For some time, incidentally, the use of the word "parity" has practically ceased in discussing Italy's claims. One of the reasons is the economic condition here, which will not permit the building splurge that went on all last year to continue.

Depends on French.

Hints that Rome would like a new conference on naval affairs is regarded as a trial balloon in diplomatic circles and seem to be a consequence of the Washington reports that Grandi agreed not to insist upon further parity. The conference would also depend upon whether the French still desire to keep the Italian naval question open until the Geneva disarmament conference in February to make for better bargaining opportunities.

Some time ago the Italian press was told to cease all polemics and attacks on the French press for their interpretation of the news of Grandi's trip to Washington.

Indict Woman on Charge of Slaying 6th Husband

West Frankfort, Ill., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—After returning thirteen indictments, the Franklin county grand jury was discharged today. Among the indictments is one for Annie Zeboski and Vick Vickers, who are jointly accused of the murder of the Zeboski woman's sixth husband.

GRANDI DENIES ITALY SEEKING A LOAN IN U. S.

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Italy is not seeking a loan from American or any other interests, Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, said today. Italy does not need a loan, for Italy's financial condition is excellent, he told newspaper men. Signor Grandi smiled, but he spoke with emphasis.

The foreign minister's conversations with high financiers has led to elusive rumors that perhaps a loan was being sought by the Italian government. Signor Grandi, in his first informal interview here, set those rumors at rest.

He pointed out that some months ago Mussolini, his chief, had asked the Italian people for a loan of three and one-half billion lire for internal needs. The people subscribed seven billions.

"So there was no question of a loan at the luncheon yesterday," he concluded. "Italy needs none. Our internal position is so strong we are perfectly sure of ourselves."

Grandi, in formal morning attire, received the reporters and photographers in his suite at the Ritz-Carlton. He smiled and bowed and chatted amiably with them for nearly half an hour. He told them how much he liked New York, what sights he wanted to visit and what he thought of New Yorkers. He was gracious and charming and friendly, but on the subject of international matters he chose his words carefully.

At the termination of the interview the reporters thanked Grandi.

"R. R.," he repiled, laughing.

"You mean 'O. K.,'" somebody corrected."

"O. K.!" he repeated genially.

Signor Grandi was the guest at a reception this afternoon at the home of Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the board of the National City bank.

Tonight Signor and Signora Grandi were guests of the United States ambassador to Italy, John W. Garrett, and Mrs. Garrett, at a dinner and later at the theater.

Hear Gulbransen TWIN-VOICE RADIO

[with two matched dynamic speakers]

You won't think of buying an old-fashioned radio!

Two big electric dynamic speakers, perfectly balanced, and blended, they really cover the whole tone range from high notes to low notes.

GULBRANSEN TWIN-VOICE, the astounding new lifelike tone, achieved for the first time in history in the new 10-tube Gulbransen Superheterodyne, makes all ordinary receivers old-fashioned!

Not just one, but TWO, big electro-dynamic speakers are employed. One is pitched to recreate the higher tones, the other, lower in key, covers the bass ranges. The result is—practically tonal perfection!

You doubt it. Of course you do—it seems incredible. But be fair to yourself—make the most of your radio investment. Credit Gulbransen, the pioneer and one of the greatest musical instrument builders of the nation, with the conservatism which has characterized their statements for 26 years.

Come, hear GULBRANSEN TWIN-VOICE today!

A Satsuma Orange Tree

A Pecan Tree

Orange & Pecan Grove For Sale

In a delightful country, mild in Winter, cool in Summer—thanks to the nearby ocean's breezes, the months of July and August are free from the Northern Summer "dog days."

It is not necessary to move south this year in order to become the owner of the grove now; a local grower will look after the grove if you so wish.

This land is almost unbelievably productive also on berry culture, okra, vegetables, etc. Figures prove it. Also excellent for chicken farming. The property, located on the county road near Gulfport and Biloxi, has an old bungalow, a telephone, artesian well, ornamental fountain, satsuma oranges, and pecan trees; a place for a gentleman's estate; a stream containing excellent game fish runs through the property; ocean fishing and hunting close by. The trees in this grove are among the most beautiful in the south. Flowers almost every day in the year. An opportunity where you can LIVE now or later, while securing a moderate but comfortable income. But you LIVE!

Price—A trustee offers this property at $11,000 with one-third or one-fourth down and terms to suit. Also an adjoining piece of orchard and cane land at $2,500 with $500 down.

2 to 2½ days from Chicago by automobile; 21 hours by Illinois Central; also new airplane hookup with L. C. if desired. For particulars address:

Leo Ludwig, Boulevard Bridge Bank, 400 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

STATE OFFICIAL IS INDICTED FOR SELLING OF JOBS

Named with Commissary Operator at Hospital.

A Frank Throgmorton, fiscal supervisor of the state department of public welfare at Springfield, was indicted by the Kane county grand jury at Geneva yesterday on charges of "selling" jobs in various state hospitals.

Throgmorton was named in two indictments, accusing him of conspiring with George Bost, operator of the commissary at the Elgin state hospital. The commissary is independent of the hospital, which merely gives it space. One indictment charges the pair with conspiracy to obtain money under false pretenses and the other with conspiracy to "sell" the jobs for fees of $25 and $35 apiece.

Throgmorton and Bost were immediately arraigned before Circuit Judge John K. Newhall. They entered pleas of not guilty and provided bonds of $4,000 each. Judge Newhall set the preliminary hearing for next Monday.

Officials Before Jury.

The indictment was returned late in the afternoon after Rodney Brandon, state superintendent of public welfare, and Representative Frank A. McCarthy of Elgin, chairman of the legislative committee on state institutions, had appeared before the grand jury.

Brandon has been in Geneva since he Saturday when State's Attorney George Carbary disclosed that he was investigating a plot by which Bost and William G. Stone, attendant at the Elgin hospital, were selling jobs

Bost and Stone were named Tuesday in indictments charging a confidence game and obtaining money under false pretenses.

Carbary said his evidence showed that Stone accepted fees from applicants for the jobs, keeping 20 per cent as his commission and giving the balances to Bost, who was in contact with some one in Brandon's office where the appointments are made. Bost and Stone admitted procuring 23 jobs in this manner, Carbary said.

Appointed in 1929.

Following Carbary's disclosures Brandon announced that he had been investigating the matter for several weeks on orders from Gov. Emmerson. Throgmorton, a power in downstate Republican politics, was named fiscal supervisor of the department of public welfare in 1929, after serving 20 years as county clerk of Johnson county at Vienna.

Throgmorton's salary is $5,000 a year. If convicted on either indictment, he faces a possible $5,000 fine and five years' imprisonment.

HIGH COURT UPHOLDS MAL S. DAUGHERTY'S PLEA FOR NEW TRIAL

Columbus, O., Nov. 25.—(AP)—The Ohio Supreme court today upheld the Appellate court in granting a new trial to Mal S. Daugherty, Washington Courthouse banker and brother of former United States Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, who had been convicted on charges of misusing funds of the defunct Ohio State bank, of which he was president.

The state's highest tribunal overruled a motion of Norman L. McLean, Fayette county prosecutor, asking for a review of the appeals court's decision which had freed Daugherty on one count of the indictment and reversed and ordered a new trial on four other counts.

Daugherty had been sentenced to serve ten years in the state penitentiary and pay a fine of $5,000 and costs by the Common Pleas court.

SENATE COLD TO REALTY BOARD'S TAX BOND BILLS

Claims of Sponsors Are Doubted.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Some adverse sentiment toward the "funding" bills proposed to the special revenue session of the Chicago real estate board developed in the senate today during the short session which closed its work for the week.

MARK LEVY.
[Wallinger Photo.]

Mark Levy, the board president and self-admitted "bad boy" of the government's tax conference, made the first formal presentation of the plan to be given either house.

Next Wednesday, the realtors intend staging a demonstration for the assemblymen's benefit, and will bring hundreds of persons, they say, from all parts of the state to back their program.

Explains His Proposal.

Today, Mr. Levy explained his basic proposal as the funding of the entire 1930 Cook county tax levy by a $250,000,000 bond issue which would mature over a twenty year period. He read for the senate's benefit, the "objections" to the tax conference program filed by the real estate board and made a part of the conference report.

Minority Leader Thomas J. Courtney of Chicago was Levy's principal inquisitor when he finished his explanation.

"If your program passes the assembly," Courtney asked, "what about the 1931 tax bills? Would they be lower?"

"I think so," Levy replied.

"But what about the $27,000,000 interest which would be due on your bond issue?" Courtney persisted. "How could that be paid?"

Levy contended that the provisions of the bill set up a system of personal property assessment and collection which, if successful, would bring in an estimated ten billions of dollars.

"That's only a probability, Mr. Levy," Courtney asserted.

Fails to Convince Courtney.

The board president contended it was far more than a probability but Courtney was not convinced, he said, when the debate ended.

D. Avery Kimbark, the real estate board's first vice president, began his arguments for the bills after Levy had concluded but by that time most of the senate had drifted from the chamber bound home and it was suggested that he defer his talk until next week.

Divorced Husband Kills Ex-Wife with a Knife

Calhoun, Ga., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Ruth Forsenberry, 35, to whom a divorce decree with alimony was awarded yesterday in superior court, was killed today by her former husband, who almost severed her head from her body with a large knife. Henry Forsenberry, 40, was arrested at the home of his father and charged with murder. Sheriff William Shirley said he admitted the slaying.

Jarecki Plan to Legalize Taxes Approved by House

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The Illinois house of representatives spent the final day of the fourth week of the special assembly in search of a cure of the weaknesses of the assessment machinery of Cook county.

JUDGE JARECKI.
[Moffett Photo.]

At the invitation of the house County Judge Jarecki, President Whealan of the county board, and Michael J. O'Connor, county controller, addressed the members and discussed with them in the committee of the whole suggestions for the elimination of tax inequalities, including those due to fixing.

The one recommendation seized upon and taken up for further action came from Judge Jarecki. He proposed the enactment of a law requiring the county clerk to obtain a court confirmation of the annual tax rate before it is finally established. The proceedings would permit an attack upon the entire rate or upon any one of the several items which make up the total for all the local taxing bodies.

Start Work on Bill.

This suggestion was indorsed with some warmth by Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Chicago Republican, upon whose initiative the county officials came here, and by Minority Leader M. L. Igoe, with the result that Judge Jarecki went into conference with Dewitt Billman on the drafting of the bill necessary to put it into effect. Others who sat in were Attorney Max Murdock, representing Gov. Emmerson's tax conference, and Hayden Bell, attorney for the Cook county board.

In addressing the house Judge Jarecki said that while—at least before the present crisis arose—about 99 per cent of the small taxpayers have paid their bills promptly and without court contest, while a few of the large corporations have held off until the last moment and then attacked some component item of the tax rate and have escaped payment of that part of the tax, none save the contestant received the benefit of the ruling.

The jurist explained that this not only was unfair to the great majority of the taxpayers but that the contests caused a muddle in tax matters and reduced to some extent the revenue called for by the budgets of the various local governments. If his plan were adopted, he said, taxpayers would benefit uniformly from the knocking out of any item in the annual levy rate and the situation would be simplified materially.

Handling of Appeals.

Judge Jarecki suggested that a contestant be required to pay his bill and that his payment be set aside until the outcome of an appeal if one is taken. But from the floor the contention was advanced that this procedure might tie up a large amount of money and that the proposed bill should provide for prompt refunding with interest if the complaining taxpayer wins his appeal.

In response to question Judge Jarecki said that he believes the attack on the tax levies of 1928, 1929, and 1930 now pending before him will be "fairly completed in the next week or ten days."

"If you are meeting here a week from next Tuesday," he said, "I may be able to give you a more complete statement of the case at that time."

Later, in interviews, he said he did not expect to have his decision by that time, but might be able to give the legislators a summary of the contentions advanced.

President Whealan was asked about his veto of county board appropriations for the board of review and the board of assessors and replied that his chief reason was that the money was not available. He also was asked a number of questions about the nonenforcement of the personal property tax.

Works Like Prohibition Law.

"That law is as effective as the prohibition law," interjected Representative Igoe.

"Government is staggering under the load it cannot bear," said Whealan, "and it must have aid. We are determinted to live within our revenue, but we have been going gradually deeper and deeper into debt."

He and Controller O'Connor urged that the working fund of the county government be increased from $6,500,000 to $16,000,000, the equivalent of its receipts from one year's taxes.

ATTORNEY MUST REPAY ALIMONY IN DIVORCE CASE

Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday ordered Attorney Samuel J. Andelman and Mrs. Jeanette R. Feingold, 6404 South Union avenue, to return $1,800 in alimony and solicitor's fees which they had collected from Mrs. Feingold's ex-husband, Maurice R. Feingold. In addition, Judge Finnegan sent a report on Attorney Andelman's conduct in the case to the grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association.

Feingold divorced his wife in Ohio in 1929. Two months later he came to Chicago in response to her plea that he see her, and when he arrived she had him arrested on a charge of wife abandonment. He was unable to post a $10,000 bond on a writ of ne exeat which Andelman obtained for Mrs. Feingold, and spent a month in the county jail.

During that time Andelman obtained a divorce for Mrs. Feingold. Feingold appealed to the Illinois Supreme court, charging fraud in the divorce, on the grounds that Mrs. Feingold and Andelman were aware that he had obtained a decree in Ohio before he came to Chicago. The Supreme court recently sustained his appeal, and ordered repayment of the alimony and solicitor's fees.

In spite of Attorney Andelman's protests, Judge Finnegan ordered that he be held liable for repayment of the $1,800. Mrs. Feingold testified that she gave the attorney $1,400 of that sum.

MALONE REPLIES TO CRITIC OF HIS TAXING REFORMS

Denies Charges Made to Legislators by Fox.

William H. Malone, former chairman of the state tax commission, replied yesterday to the attack made on his administration on Tuesday in the state house of representatives by Charles E. Fox, chief appraiser for the board of assessors.

Fox told the legislators that the commission under Malone's forces made huge reductions in assessments on the capital stock and franchise taxes of large corporations. Mr. Malone said that Fox was either ignorant of the facts or maliciously false in his assertions.

"It is evident that the tax fixing ring and its allies have a new front for them in their attempt to destroy a nonpolitical system for real estate assessments and the name of the new front is Mr. Fox," Mr. Malone said. "It is also evident that this gentleman is making a cunning effort to destroy the usefulness of the rules that I, as chairman of the state tax commission, laid down for the board of assessors and the board of review.

Sees Move to Break Rules.

"There is no doubt in my mind that there is a plan afoot to break down and destroy these rules and thereby allow a return to the old method where valuations were made and measured by the yardstick of campaign contributions, attorney's fees, favors, and political power to deliver wards and precincts."

Mr. Malone said the issue at Springfield is not the shortcomings of any state or county commission, but whether the present assessing system, with its maladministration and opportunities for corruption, shall continue. He said abolition of the board of assessors and the board of review would do more than any other one thing to stop tax fixing and prevent financial chaos.

Failure of Tax System.

"The failure of Cook county's taxing system is admitted," he said. "It is no longer desirable. The tax spenders, by their squandering and unfair methods of levying taxes, have placed a burden on real estate that it can no longer carry. The present deplorable situation can only be improved by centralized administration and racketproof control.

"The taxpayers have gone on a strike. The school teachers are not being paid. The credit of Chicago has been destroyed or, to say the least injured. Bonds have been defaulted by the park and county boards. Deficits are at hand everywhere. Still the men and the institutions, the board of assessors and the board of review, who are primarily responsible for all this chaos, and friends of theirs who have benefited by it and through it, say, 'Don't touch it, keep it in the political arena.'"

Mr. Malone said he would ask the speaker of the house of representatives and the president of the senate to set a date for him to appear before them and meet Fox at the same time. At such meeting he promised to defend his administration and show the obsolescence of the machinery defended by Fox.

Orders Employe to Drive Car Lacking License; Fined

Herman Jopling, manager of the Pierce-Arrow Sales company, 40 West 25th street, was fined $10 yesterday by Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden for ordering an employé to drive a car through the city without license plates. The employé, Paul Stedman, 3813 West Van Buren street, was fined $5.

FLYING OFFICIAL KILLED IN NEW $15,000 PLANE

Sunbury, Pa., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Strapped to the pilot seat of his new $15,000 cabin monoplane which he was flying from New York to Mexico, Theodore T. Hull, president of the Aeronautical Transport corporation of Torreon, Mexico, was fatally injured when the craft crashed from an altitude of 2,000 feet into the Susquehanna river near here today.

Farmers waded out to the wrecked plane, in shallow water about 50 feet off shore, and found Hull imprisoned in the cabin with his head barely above the water's level. He died while being taken to a hospital without regaining consciousness. His skull had been fractured and nearly very bone in his body was broken.

Mr. Hull, who was 38 years old, had obtained the new plane, a Bellanca, from the factory at Newcastle, Del. He had no passengers with him.

SAVAGE TURNS TO ECONOMY AS SCHOOL REMEDY

Raps Teachers; Charges Textbook Waste.

Retrenchment was discussed yesterday at a meeting of the school board. No action was taken. Chicago's 18,000 teachers and school board employés have been paid in cash only once since last April. The discussion test was started by Trustee Joseph Savage, last appointee of a previous administration, in connection with his report on the activity of the trustees in Springfield on proposed financial relief.

"Crane college and the non-essentials of the curriculum," said Trustee Savage, "must be the first to get the ax in any plan for economy. The elementary schools must be our first consideration, and after them the high schools. Then if we haven't money for the college, we can take it out of the system. It was on this basis that the legislature validated Crane's existence.

"Ashamed" of Teachers.

"As for the school teachers, I am ashamed. They have not the decency to tell the truth about this board of education. Do they believe they are running this board; that all they have to do is to speak and be obeyed? Let me tell you that the sentiment among the legislators favors a cut in salaries.

"Moreover, I know that there is a tremendous wastage in textbooks. Principals are permitted to choose the books they wish. Even at the risk of bad influences, I believe we should go back to the system of having one book approved, instead of two or more. It is our responsibility."

There were expressions of surprise from those present at the meeting, including some of the trustees themselves. Wastage has been stoutly denied by every majority member.

Teachers Oppose Bond Issues.

The outburst against the teachers was interpreted generally in the light of the teachers' failure to support solidly the school board's proposed legislation for the issuance of bonds, one issue of $75,000,000 and another for $50,000,000.

Trustee Savage's allegations about the books were taken by other board members and school officials to be the initial move toward a return of the "single adoption" system of text book selection. Under this system one publisher would be given a virtual monopoly on books for any specific purpose because only one book would be approved for use in the school system.

At present books are selected by the principals of the several schools from a list on which there may be two or more approved books for any one course.

"Scandalous," was the comment of Supt. William J. Bogan when asked after the meeting for his reaction to the proposed change. "The old system was an invitation to corruption. Many a man went to jail for assaying the profits it offered, and many another should have gone there."

Taxi Dance Hall Closed by Mayor Opens Under Writ

The Club Floridian, a taxi dance hall at 676 West Madison street, closed six weeks ago by order of Mayor Anton J. Cermak, reopened last night under the protection of an injunction. The order, issued yesterday by Judge Robert Gentzel of the Superior court, restrains police and the mayor from interfering. The club was barred because of complaints of "lewd and disgusting" conduct being allegedly tolerated there. It was named in the posthumous letter of Mike (De Pike) Heitler, slain vice monger, as belonging to James Adduci, said to be a henchman of "Dago" Lawrence Mangano, Capone aid.

HAS A THEORY; SAYS GOVERNOR HELPS PROVE IT

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Stewart H. Redner, University of Michigan law student, has a theory. He believes that public men do not hear what is said to them when they are introduced to common citizens. Stewart tested his theory on the governor of Michigan yesterday.

Gov. Wilber M. Brucker was in Ann Arbor to deliver a speech and Stewart was presented to him.

"I killed my grandmother today," said Stewart, as he shook hands with the governor.

"I'm very glad to make your acquaintance," said the governor.

Later, Gov. Brucker insisted he heard what Stewart said, but Stewart claims he proved his theory.

FISHING VESSEL SUNK IN CRASH; 6 MEN MISSING

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Six members of the crew of the fishing schooner Edith and Eleanor of Gloucester, Mass., were missing and believed drowned as the result of the sinking of that craft tonight after she had been cut in two by the steamer Gypsum Prince in a thick fog off Halifax, N. S. Five other members of the crew were picked up by the Gypsum Prince.

The collision took place, according to information obtained by The Associated Press through the Mackay Radio company, at 7:27 p. m. about ten miles off Baccaro Light.

Rome Reaches 1,000,000; Tops All Italian Cities

ROME, Nov. 25.—(AP)—This ancient capital of the Cæsars is the first Italian city to attain a population of 1,000,000. Census figures published today showed Rome has 1,004,028 inhabitants; Milan, 993,496; Naples, 843,073.

On Way to Japan

Nebil Bey, newly appointed Turkish ambassador to Japan, passed through Chicago yesterday on his way to his new post. He was accompanied by his wife, Feriha, and their three children, Omar, 7; Orhan, 11, and Icsal, 3 years old. The ambassador, who recently was minister to Afghanistan, arrived on the Capitol limited from Washington and left on the Chief for Los Angeles. He is going to Japan via Honolulu.

Row Over Jews Shuts Up Parliament in Rumania

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Today's parliament session broke up in a fist fight between anti-Jewish and Socialist deputies. The trouble started when one of the anti-Jewish deputies criticized Minister of the Interior Argetoianu.

5 MILLION LOAN SAVES CREDIT OF TENNESSEE

Banking Group Averts Bankruptcy.

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The state of Tennessee, faced on Dec. 1 with maturing notes to the amount of $5,000,000, concluded arrangements today with a New York and Tennessee banking group for a six months' loan of this amount to take care of the obligations.

The group consists of the Chemical Bank and Trust company, the Chase National bank, the National City bank, and a group of Memphis, Nashville, Knoxville, and Chattanooga banks headed by the American National company of Nashville. The terms were not disclosed.

Word was received here that Gov. Horton has called a special session of the Tennessee legislature for Nov. 30 to pass tax measures sufficient to balance the state's budget and to provide revenues to liquidate an issue of bonds which will be sold next year, as market conditions permit, to refund the short term loan contracted today.

Second Special Session.

The special session of the legislature which was adjourned a few days ago was called for the purpose of authorizing the refunding of the Dec. 1 maturity and the funding of the deficit. Inasmuch as a special session can only concern itself with the specific program for which it is called, a new session was therefore in order to take up the tax question.

The present total bonded debt of the state of Tennessee is $84,580,000. Of this amount $61,050,000 is payable primarily from the 6 cent gasoline tax, automobile license fees and bridge tolls. These provide about $17,000,000 annually, which is calculated to be more than sufficient to amortize the entire debt and provide for necessary maintenance. This debt consists of $47,200,000 of highway bonds and $13,850,000 of bridge bonds.

School Debt $5,000,000.

Of the remaining $23,530,000 of debt, $5,000,000 is for the University of Tennessee, public schools and Smoky Mountain park purposes, and payment of these bonds is provided by a tobacco tax said to be ample to service this debt.

This leaves $18,530,000 of debt payable from the general fund, or approximately 1 per cent of the assessed valuation, officially reported as $1,778,538,818.

SUICIDE VERDICT RETURNED.

A verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury following investigation of the death of Harry R. Gray, 63 years old, credit manager for Swift & Co., who shot himself Tuesday in his apartment in the Fiamingo hotel, 5520 South Shore drive.

U. S. JOINS PLAN ASKING JAPAN TO WITHDRAW ARMY

Supports Move by League to Halt War.

Tokio Proposes Amendments.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 26 [Thursday].—The Japanese cabinet at a meeting this morning decided to propose an amendment to the draft resolution of the league council's resolution on the Manchurian dispute. The amendment will remove from article 2 of the resolution the provision that "the military commanders" shall be strictly ordered to take no action which may lead to further fighting.

This wording, the Japanese contend, is contrary to the Japanese constitution, which gives supreme command to the emperor. The clause must read, the cabinet decided, that the "respective countries" will not take such action and will also add that the countries will take no action "with the exception of actions for self-defense or such police actions as the suppression of bandits."

This latter provision would leave the Japanese army with practically free hands to take any action it pleases.

U. S. to Join Investigation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—The United States, if invited, will accept an opportunity to have a representative on the international committee to investigate the Sino-Japanese situation contemplated in the resolution introduced in the council of the league of nations at Paris today.

This opinion was voiced tonight by a high administration official, who said the United States stood ready to give such an invitation the most thorough consideration, "realizing that to refuse it would involve a grave responsibility."

Obtain First Convictions Under New Aircraft Law

The first convictions under the new aircraft law passed at the last legislative session were obtained yesterday before County Judge Austin at Joliet. Charles Snyder, 28 years old, who crashed in an old Curtis Jennie plane in a residential section of Lockport on Nov. 19, pleaded guilty to operating a plane unlicensed by the federal government. Clarence Johnson of Lockport, pleaded guilty to ownership of the plane. Both were granted probation with the consent of Blood Landis of Chicago, chairman of the state aircraft commission, who appeared as prosecuting witness.

Japanese Troops Seize Strategic Point on Chinese Line North of the Great Wall

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Nov. 25.—What neutral observers believed to be the first step by Japan to the occupation of Chinchow, near the Great Wall of China, was taken today when Japanese troops seized the town of Hsinmin, a strategic point on the Peiping-Mukden railway about 30 miles west of Mukden.

Japanese authorities denied any intention of taking Chinchow and driving the last remnants of the Chinese army there south of the Great Wall and into China proper. The seizure of Hsinmin, they said, was a "necessary move to maintain peace and order." The Chinese troops, they said, following yesterday's fighting at Kaotaishan, nearby, had abandoned Hsinmin, leaving it open to depredations of bandits.

An official Japanese report today placed the casualties in yesterday's battle at Kaotaishan, in which two Japanese companies defeated 350 Chinese, at four Japanese killed and nine wounded and 60 Chinese killed.

Chinese Prepare to Fight.

CHINCHOW, Manchuria, Nov. 26.—[Thursday.]—Gen. Yung Chen, chief of staff of the armies of Chiang Hsueh-Liang, deposed governor of Manchuria, declared today that if the Japanese attack Chinchow he will resist to the limit of his resources.

Reports that the Japanese had occupied Hsinmin and had taken over civil and military control of the city reached Gen. Yung today. The general also received information to the effect that a Japanese force moving westward from Liaoyang had reached a point east of Tahushan. A few minutes later word came that telephone communications between Hsinmin and Tahushan had been disrupted.

The significance of these developments was uncertain, but the general believed it possible the Japanese were advancing on Chinchow, the sole remaining center of independent Chinese rule in South Manchuria.

Denies China Plans Attack.

Gen. Yung denied reports that the Chinese have been preparing an offensive to attempt to regain lost portions of Liaoning [Fengtien] province.

The general said the Chinese forces north of the great wall, which touches the coast line at the southern tip of Manchuria, are only 20,000 to 30,000 men and no reinforcements have been received from the south since the Manchurian conflict began. Some brigades are actually within the great wall, he said.

Gen. Yung said that if a Japanese assault was made, the main Chinese stand would be a few miles northeast of Chinchow, although the line there lacks trenches and other defense works. Chinchow today was in the grip of stern military law. Sentinels challenged pedestrians at every few yards and there were patrols on every street.

Report Move on Harbin.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—[Thursday.]—(AP)—The London Daily Mail today printed a dispatch from Tsitsihar, Manchuria, saying that small parties of Japanese troops had been going to Harbin during the last few days and it was expected the Japanese would take over the city shortly. Harbin already is virtually under Japan's control, the correspondent said, and occupation probably would be quite peaceable.

Students Demand War.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Thousands of Chinese students were on the way to Nanking by rail tonight to demand that the Nationalist government declare war on Japan.

More than 8,000 of them rioted in the vicinity of the railway station here, delayed railway traffic and wrecked the station master's office to enforce their demand that they be given five trains in which to go to the capital. They were said to have been joined by 5,000 students at intervening points.

They are expected to address appeals to President Chiang Kai-shek calling for a war declaration, withdrawal of China from the league of nation, and execution of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang for what they term his failure to resist the invasion of Manchuria.

British Troops Move North.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Nov. 25.—Messages from Tientsin today said British troops are proceeding to Tangshan, north of Tientsin on the Peiping-Mukden railway, in which British capital is invested, to protect the Kailan mines, a joint Sino-British concern. According to the Tientsin messages, American troops are stationed at Tangshan at present under the Boxer treaty, but as British rights are endangered by the impending battle at Chinchow, Britain is sending her own forces up.

CARDINAL HALTS NOTE TO PEACE PARLEY IN PARIS

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Nov. 25.—Former Ambassador Alanson B. Houghton arrived in Paris today to attend as American delegate the unofficial international disarmament conference of world peace organizations which opens here tomorrow in an atmosphere disturbed by an internal political controversy in France. Many sections of public opinion are attacking the conference on the grounds that France does not want disarmament. The conference is accused of seeking to "force upon France, under the name of international collaboration, a solution unfavorable to our country."

The controversy tonight was brought to a head by an announcement that Cardinal Verdier, archbishop of Paris, had decided to refrain from sending a message to the conference because of the political nature of the meeting. Cardinal Verdier had agreed to transmit a message which was to have been read at Friday's gathering at the Trocadero, at which Mr. Houghton is to be one of the speakers.

This peace conference, while having no official approval from the governments, nevertheless counts as participants many men influential in official quarters both in France and other countries. Such men as Lord Robert and Viscount Cecil of Great Britain, Scialoja of Italy, Painleve, Boncour and De Jouvenel of France, Madariaga of Spain, Politis of Greece, and Titulesco of Rumania are actively participating in the gathering, which will be presided over by Edouard Herriot, former premier of France. Mr. Houghton comes as a director of the Carnegie Foundation and represents peace societies of America.

Negro Girl Saved from Death Penalty by Governor

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 25.—Gov. Cubitt today commuted the death sentence of Beatrice Robinson, 18 year old Negress, to ten years imprisonment. The girl had been convicted of murdering her sweetheart, Aubrey Trott.

Lya De Putti Is Stricken with Double Pneumonia

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Little hope was held late tonight for the recovery of Lya De Putti, Hungarian motion picture actress, who has been in the Harbor Sanitarium since Thursday as a result of a throat infection. Double pneumonia developed late tonight, her physicians announced, and Miss De Putti was being kept alive only by the constant administration of oxygen.

CONVICT CALIFORNIA SLAYER.

Long Beach, Cal., Nov. 25.—(AP)—A jury late last night found Sam Tore Napolitano guilty of first degree murder for the death of Sebastian Salerno, who was shot to death in San Pedro, Sept. 5.

RUNS SPEAKEASY FROM JAIL; GETS TERM IN PRISON

Eugene J. Phillips, 36 years old, of Aurora, was ordered committed to the Leavenworth penitentiary for 18 months yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes on a charge of operating an Aurora speakeasy while in the Kane county jail at Geneva, ten miles from Aurora.

While the government was obtaining evidence against Phillips in Aurora, he was serving a 60 day sentence for another violation of the prohibition law. Phillips was convicted a week ago and his stay of execution ended yesterday.

Last May while Phillips was in jail dry raiders raided a saloon at 49 North Broadway in Aurora and seized the bartender, William Wolsfelt. Wolsfelt was subsequently sentenced to 30 days in jail.

Wolsfelt swore that just before Phillips went to jail Phillips hired him as bartender at $30 a week.

According to Wolsfelt's story the receipts from the speakeasy were given to a friend of Phillips. This friend took the money to Phillips at the jail in Geneva. Once a week, Wolsfelt said, this friend would bring back $30 for his pay as bartender.

2 Men Rescued by Steamer from Sinking Tug in Lake

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 25.—Capt. Howard N. Leach of the steamer Linford E. Gear of the Reiss Steamship company radioed here that he had picked up two men, Wesley Gear and Edward Fink, both of Rogers City, five miles off Presque Isle in Lake Huron in a west gale. A fishing tug they were in was not saved and foundered shortly after the men were taken off. The steamer was headed for Lake Michigan. Northwest storm warnings were hoisted here this morning and a driving snowstorm was sweeping down from Whitefish bay.

MURRAY TO SEEK $10,000 FOR KIN OF SLAIN MEXICANS

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma said in a telephone interview today with the newspaper Excelsior that Oklahoma would pay $10,000 to the parents of Emilio Cortes Rubio and Manuel Gomez Garcia, Mexican students who were killed last June at Ardmore.

"I will not wait for an international claims commission to act," the newspaper quoted the governor as saying. "I am going to seek the legislature's permission to send these grieving parents $5,000 each as soon as possible."

The Mexican foreign office has sent instructions to the embassy at Washington declaring Mexico's intention to claim damages. William E. Guess and Cecil Crosby former deputy sheriffs, were acquitted Sunday at Ardmore of murder charges in connection with the deaths.

...RL, 8, HURT IN ...AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS, DIES

...pital-Bound Truck Is Upset by Car.

...Scharf, 8 years old, 943 ... West avenue, Oak Park, died ... at the Oak Park hospital ... after she had been injured in ... automobile accidents a few minutes apart.

...girl was first struck by a laundry truck driven by Fred H. Meyers, ... old, 2424 North LeClaire avenue, as she was walking in the alley in the rear of her home. Meyers ... her in his truck and, with Lucille's sister, Catherine, 12 years old, as a passenger, started for the hospital.

At Jackson boulevard and Oak Park avenue Meyer's truck was struck and overturned by a car driven by Clyde ...mmons, colored, 213 South 14th avenue, Maywood. A passing motorist, ...ank Lynch, 223 South East avenue, Oak Park, took Lucille to the hospital, where she died of internal injuries received in the first accident and a fractured skull believed received in the second.

Both Drivers Held.

Meyers, the truck driver, and Swanson, the motorist, neither of whom was seriously injured, were held by the Oak Park police. Catherine Scharf, who disappeared after the second crash, was found later in her home.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of death by drowning at an inquest into the death of Ludlow C. ..., 40 years old, 5403 Wayne avenue, whose body was found earlier in the day in his automobile, which was almost submerged in Des Plaines river near Des Plaines. The car, out of control, had plunged into the river from the Northwest highway, which runs parallel to it. Moore was employed as a mechanic in an Evanston garage.

Those two deaths and four others in Cook county yesterday raised the 1931 total to 1,160. The other victims:

Laura B. Hawkinson, 61 years old, 1... North Mozart street. Struck by an automobile driven by Abe Shlifer, ... Commonwealth avenue, at Ashland and North avenues. Shlifer was held.

Jay Williamson, 9 years old, 1081 ...lake avenue. Struck at Thorndale and Winthrop avenues by truck driven by Anthony Katz, 6115 North Lincoln street. The boy was returning home from an errand to a store.

Harry Buchner, 35 years old, of Addison, Ill., a machinist. Killed and ... others injured, two of them seriously, in a collision at Mannheim and Roosevelt roads. All were taken to the Elmhurst hospital. The driver of the second car, Russ Monteen, 25 years old, Kenosha, Wis., was uninjured. With Buchner were Ray Prentice, 37 years old, 125 Valetto street, Elmhurst, and Charles Haude, 45 years old, 621 Spring road, Elmhurst. Besides Monteen in the second car were his mother, Mrs. Clara Monteen, ... years old, and two other children, Palmer, 22 years old, and Joan, 19 years old. Prentice and Haude were said to be seriously injured.

Irwin Egler, 35 years old, 3711 Pine Grove avenue. Died in the American hospital of injuries suffered in a collision at Addison street and Pine Grove avenue. Joseph La Rocque, 3710 North Paulina street, was the driver of the second car.

One person was killed and three others injured in an accident in Hammond yesterday. Miss Jean Kirker, 17 years old, 246 Doty street, Hammond, was fatally injured when she was thrown from an automobile in which she was riding as it overturned in a ditch in Calumet avenue at Ridge road. Kenneth Cramer, 20 years old, 5810 Claude avenue, Hammond, the driver of the car; Raymond Welty, 20 years old, 5643 Claude avenue, Hammond, and Miss June Wheeler, 17 years old, of Calumet City, the other occupants, were injured.

While looking for his lost pay check in Dickey road, Indiana Harbor, John Ream, 47 years old, 1104 135th place, Indiana Harbor, a mill worker, was killed by an automobile last night. The driver was Joseph Sherpeoski, 1... Deodar road, Indiana Harbor.

MOTHER DIES IN FIRE.

Watseon, Ill., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Ed Miller, 35, mother of five children, was burned to death tonight and her three months old daughter was injured seriously when ... mother poured kerosene on a smoulderin... fire in a stove.

SCHOOLGIRL LET OUT OF JAIL FOR THANKSGIVING

Serves 21 Days of Term for Reckless Driving.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Mary Mazmanian, 18 year old high school student, sentenced to six months in the county prison for an automobile accident, will spend Thanksgiving day at home.

She was released today following protest by friends and a number of prominent citizens against her imprisonment.

"You can't realize how happy I am to be home again," she said. "I couldn't sleep all last night. I never was away from home so long before, and I hope I never will be again."

There were tears in the girl's eyes and those of her father and mother when Judge Utley Crane, who sentenced her, announced he would release Mary on probation on condition that she pay $10 damages and a $10 doctor bill incurred in the accident. She left the courtroom under a year's probation after having served 21 days of the sentence.

Mary, who is an expert with the needle, plans to sew to help pay the damages. The damages are for wrecking the front of a drug store in West Philadelphia and the doctor bill is for injuries suffered by a customer who was in the store.

Asked what was her worst experience in jail, she said:

"The first night was the worst, and the best night was when I learned about people trying to get me out.

"I was really treated very well. The cellmate I had was very nice to me. After she was taken away to another institution I learned she had been arrested for killing some one.

"I studied five hours a day in jail. I want to be a stenographer and am taking a commercial course at the Simon Gratz High school. I hope to be graduated in February if I can make up the time I lost in jail."

The girl was accused of driving 50 to 60 miles an hour when the accident occurred last Sept. 14. A jury convicted her of assault and battery by automobile.

When the girl had served nine days Mayor Harry A. Mackey, in behalf of her friends and some prominent citizens, conferred with Judge Crane in the hope of having her released. The jurist, however, refused to consider releasing her before the regular time for hearing on applications for parole, which, in her case, was today.

DOG BITES BOY, OWNER FINED.

Samuel Walker, 54 years old, 1504 North La Salle street, was fined $5 by Municipal Judge Robert E. McMillan yesterday because his police dog bit Tony Viverito, 10 years old, 1505 North Wells street.

SON'S ROBBERY TRICK IS TURNED AGAINST MOTHER

Circumstantial evidence considered of great importance by Prosecutors Walker Butler and Robert Donigan was introduced yesterday against Mrs. Anna Baranski, 61 years old, a grandmother who is on trial before Judge Philip Sullivan as an accessory to robberies committed by her son, John Baranski. The son was slain by a policeman while fleeing from a holdup. The state's testimony revealed an unusual scheme evolved by Baranski to make sure that he got all the loot possible in his robberies.

MRS. ANNA BARANSKI.

The evidence in question is a marked $20 bill which was found in Mrs. Baranski's home after her son was killed and she was arrested. Sol Kapp, a druggist at 5001 Irving Park boulevard, the robbery victim in this particular case, identified Mrs. Baranski from the witness stand as the person who had handed him the bill in exchange for a purchase. He noted at the time that the bill was marked Kapp said.

Soon afterward, he testified, Baranski and a companion entered the store and held him up. Kapp said that he first handed Baranski a small roll of bills, but was forced to surrender a larger sum when the robber, looking over the first roll, noticed that the marked $20 bill was not there.

Defense Attorney Thaddeus C. Toudor opposed the introduction of the bill in evidence on the ground that the policemen who seized it in Mrs. Baranski's home did not have a search warrant, but he was overruled by Judge Sullivan.

ROLPH SETS HOUR TO HEAR MOONEY PLEA OF WALKER

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Mayor James J. Walker of New York concluded arrangements with Gov. Rolph today for the presentation at the state building here Tuesday morning of his plea for a pardon for Thomas Mooney, convicted of the 1916 Preparedness day bombing.

Assurance that prosecuting officials and witnesses in the Mooney case would be heard was lacking at the conclusion of the governor's conference with Mayor Walker and Aaron Sapiro of the mayor's staff. Mayor Walker saw Gov. Rolph alone after Mr. Sapiro had talked with the governor.

At the end of the conference with the mayor, which lasted only 25 minutes, Gov. Rolph spoke of the procedure to be followed.

"Will counsel for the prosecution be heard at the hearing?" the governor was asked.

"I shall be guided on that point by my legal advisers," he said.

WITNESS BARES PILSUDSKI PLOT TO RULE POLAND

(Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.)

WARSAW, Nov. 25.—A charge that Marshal Pilsudski and his followers were preparing for a coup d'état long before they succeeded in gaining control of Poland in May, 1926, today was made the twenty-seventh day of the Brestlitovsk trial. It was made by one of the witnesses for the defense, Dr. Hecker, editor of the Socialist newspaper Naprsod at Cracow and once an associate of Marshal Joseph Pilsudski.

He recalled on the stand a conversation with Marshal Pilsudski a few months after the assassination of President Gabriel Narutowicz in December, 1922, declaring Pilsudski reproached him because the Socialist party had not risen against the National Democrats, whom he charged with the murder.

"If you had started I would have joined you with the army and put our house in order," Dr. Hecker quoted the marshal as saying.

Burglars Get $2,000 Loot in Evanston Apartment

Burglars broke into the apartment of E. J. Helmer at 999 Michigan avenue, Evanston, late yesterday, and escaped with loot valued at approximately $2,000. Helmer is an advertising official with offices at 225 North Michigan avenue, Chicago. The thieves stole three rings, two of them belonging to Mrs. Helmer, a watch, a pin, and a fur coat.

Ald. Robert R. Jackson of Third Ward Weds Widow

Ald. Robert R. Jackson, colored, of the 3d ward, and Mrs. Hattie Ball Lewis, a widow, formerly of San Antonio, were married yesterday in the Quinn Chapel Methodist church at 3362 Calumet avenue, by the Rev. H. M. Collins.

INSECTS WRECK HOUSE LIGHTING.

Earwigs, voracious insects that will eat anything from rose bushes to silk stockings, cut off the electricity in a Silverton, Ore., home. They had made a nest in a light socket and short-circuited the wiring system.

WAVE OF CRIME KEEPS POLICE IN NEW YORK BUSY

Bandit Slain as Bullets Fly in Street.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Holdups, gangster chases and crimes of violence kept this city's police busy today. The pre-Thanksgiving day eruption of crime began in the early morning and continued right on through the daylight hours. A $15,000 jewel robbery on the ninth floor of the Bank of United States building in the heart of the 5th avenue shopping district topped the list just after the noon hour.

During the day one bandit was killed by police bullets after an automobile chase through Harlem's crowded streets, a woman was stripped of her clothing and beaten with a sashweight, three drug stores were robbed, a café and furrier's shop suffered raided tills, a gray haired man walked into a police station and confessed to a murder the police had considered a natural death, a judge wept on the bench when he sentenced a schoolmate lawyer to prison as a thief, a girl nabbed a human fly burglar on a fire escape and a policeman shot himself in the leg.

Five Victims Bound.

The gem robbery took place in the offices of Edward Berger, jeweler. Berger and four salesmen were sitting in their skyscraper quarters when three armed youths walked in. The jewelry man were bound with ropes and tossed into a corner of the room, then the thugs cleaned out the contents of two office safes and strolled away with more than $15,000 uncut stones. Alexander Friedman, a policeman, was the first to wriggle to a telephone. By the time the police arrived the bandits had departed in an elevator, but a cordon was thrown around the building and office workers returning from lunch found themselves barred.

The closing of the bank building caused excitement in 5th avenue, between 44th and 45th streets, traffic got out of hand and emergency police squads shoved shoppers about roughly. Berger said he carried no insurance on the gems.

Bandit Slain in Chase.

The bandit who lost his life in Harlem was known only as "Mac." A dozen shots were exchanged before a police bullet found its mark. "Mac" and a Negro companion, who gave his name as William Green, were engaged in relieving a Harlem resident of his cash when police were attracted by the victim's lusty screams. The robbers leaped into one taxicab and the police gave chase in another cab. Pedestrians did a lot of ducking to escape bullets.

An apartment party in the Bronx ended in tragedy at 7 o'clock this morning when Edna Pearson, a comely young woman, was found nude, lying in an adjoining hallway suffering from multiple skull fractures. She had been beaten with a sashweight.

The woman was moaning, "Joe, Joe, open the door. I won't do it any more." Her nile green pajamas and the sashweight were found on the roof of the building. A length of clothesline and a heavy burlap sack, found nearby, led police to believe that her assailant had planned to put her body in the sack and dispose of it. Phillip Geisler, the host at the noisy party in the apartment building, his wife, and several of the guests were question for hours by the police. Mrs. Pearson, physicians said, had little chance to recover.

Confesses Murdering Girl.

Hertze Geil, a 60 year old carpenter, walked into a police station this morning and announced he had choked to death Miss Eleanor Anderson. Police investigated and found the woman dead, but the death certificate gave inflammation of the liver as the cause. Geil was held and an autopsy ordered.

KILLED IN CEMENT MIXER.

Myron Buack, 4819 South Springfield avenue, was killed yesterday when he fell into a cement mixer around which he was working on a building job in Riverside.

They have ten children living, and a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

CLOSE MAE WEST SHOW OPPOSITE WHITE HOUSE

Capital Censors Decide It Is "Lascivious."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Mae West, as "The Constant Sinner," will not finish her week's engagement in the Shubert-Belasco theater, across the street from the White House, because the district attorney's office has deemed the vehicle "too naughty" for public presentation.

Last night an assistant district attorney and several policemen attended the performance of "The Constant Sinner," which Miss West wrote and in which she is the star. After the last line had been spoken and the curtain rung down, the censors agreed that the lines, the theme, and many of the postures were "lascivious" and so reported to their chief.

Today District Attorney Leo A. Rover issued an ultimatum to Miss West and the manager of the theater that if the show went on again all the principals would be arrested and charged with obscenity and indecency. The maximum penalties are one year in jail and $500 fine.

Miss West, whose theatrical ventures have twice before run afoul of police standards, was away from the city when Mr. Rover took action. L. Stoddard Taylor, manager of the Belasco, stated, however, that "he would not risk police interference" and the show would be closed.

According to Mr. Taylor, the play had already been greatly deleted for presentation in the capital. He said this morning that he hoped further deletion might pacify the district attorney, but later this afternoon, after conferring with the play's backers in New York, stated that the show would not go on tonight.

Miss West's "Sex" was closed in New York in 1927 and Miss West spent ten days in jail and paid a $500 fine as a result of her part in the production. A year later another of her dramas, "Pleasure Man," brought indictments against herself and members of the cast, but the case was ultimately dropped.

BANDIT FLEES AMID SHOTS.

A burglar stole $51 from the home of J. L. McIntosh, 8757 South Morgan street, early yesterday and made his escape as McIntosh emptied his revolver at him.

HUGE ALCOHOL SALES ARE REVEALED AT TRIAL OF NEWBERRY

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Another bomb was hurled into the liquor conspiracy trial of Edward "Ted" Newberry and his group of 28 co-defendants last today when Paul Josephs, Topeka, Kans., took the witness stand and testified to the whole, sale liquor dealings with N. J. Coin, Jack Coin, Ed. Lathrop and Frank Smith of Rock Island.

He testified that he delivered 2,000 to 3,000 gallons weekly to the Coins for a period of three weeks. Upon inquiry Josephs indicated that he obtained the liquor in Chicago and Calumet City and that he and Elmer Knott delivered and collected for it.

Josephs stated that Coin paid him $4.50 per gallon and that he received payment for every shipment made.

"These transactions continued until about the time of the St. Valentine day massacre in Chicago," Josephs said. "At that time the market price on alcohol was increased and Coin refused to pay more than $4.50 a gallon."

WHAT IT IS — EDISON SERVICE — WHAT IT DOES

AS CLOCKS STRIKE 6 IN THE MORNING

TYPICAL ONE DAY LOAD CURVE
COMMONWEALTH EDISON COMPANY
AVERAGE LOAD
LOAD FACTOR OF 85%
A MEGAWATT IS ONE MILLION WATTS OR ONE THOUSAND KILOWATTS.
HOURS

WHEN 6 o'clock in the morning comes, Chicago awakes. Then EDISON SERVICE—which neither sleeps nor entirely rests—begins to get up speed for another day's work.

During the hours between 6 o'clock in the morning and noon, EDISON SERVICE performs nearly all of the more than a thousand and one services required of it.

As the Load Curve shows, at 4 o'clock the very early risers begin to get up. At 6 o'clock the whole town starts to stir. Lights are snapped on in almost every home; transportation lines first double then multiply by ten the number of their cars.

Due to the fact that transportation has its morning rush between 8 and 9 o'clock, the peak of the forenoon Load is reached in that hour. Factories that make everything from candy to construction steel have gone into action from 7:30 to 8:30; type machines begin to click and printing presses to rumble. Shop, department store and office lights flash on from 8 to 9, and throughout the remaining forenoon hours the generators in the central stations fairly hum.

In the home, particularly, electricity is called upon for hundreds of tasks in these forenoon hours. It lights the family out of bed and at breakfast; it probably makes the toast and the coffee and may boil the eggs; it cleans the carpets, washes the clothes and irons them; a fan helps to keep the house comfortable in Summer and a spot-heater warms up bed and bath rooms in Winter; it runs the radio and the refrigerator; it rings door bells, keeps clocks going and heats curling irons.

Yet, for all the myriad tasks EDISON SERVICE performs for Chicago homes—not alone in the morning, but throughout the day and at night, every day—the total cost per home, upon the average, is less than NINE CENTS A DAY.

COMMONWEALTH EDISON COMPANY
A Home-Owned, Home-Managed Institution

EDISON SERVICE is wired into the walls of virtually every home in Chicago. But it must have outlets to get out of the walls, just as cooks need doors to get into kitchens. If a house has outlets enough, housekeepers will find EDISON SERVICE ready to relieve them of many tiresome tasks.

SNOWDEN ENTERS LORDS; SNUBBED BY HIS OLD PALS

Former Clerk Becomes Viscount of Ickornshaw.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Philip Snowden, a poor man's son who became a member of the house of commons a quarter of a century ago, put on robes of scarlet and ermine and took his seat in the house of lords today as the first viscount of Ickornshaw.

For hundreds of years the ceremony of creating a new peer of the realm has seldom deviated from the prescribed form, but for this little man, toddling on two canes which he has used since he was injured in a bicycle accident many years ago, the ritual was waived.

Snubbed by Labor Peers.

Other peers, when they entered the upper house, knelt before the lord chancellor and presented their letters patent. Viscount Ickornshaw, leaning heavily on his canes and weighted down by the robes of his new office, merely bowed his head. Lord Chancellor Sankey, his old friend, arose and shook hands.

Prime Minister MacDonald, for whom the new viscount fought unnumbered battles in the house of commons as chancellor of the exchequer, stood in the place before the throne with Stanley Baldwin, Walter Runciman, and other members of the cabinet.

But where the Labor peers usually sat were only vacant seats. Not one of them had come to see their old leader introduced to the upper house.

Signs Roll and Takes Seat.

Limping over to the clerk's table, the new viscount leaned heavily upon it as the reading clerk, in wig and black gown, read out the letters patent describing the newcomer as "our right trusty and well beloved councellor, Philip Snowden, keeper of our privy seal."

He was made lord privy seal in the coalition cabinet after the general election. His infirmities and a serious illness just before the last Labor cabinet fell influenced Mr. Snowden not to run for a seat in the house of commons in that election, for the heavy burden of the post of chancellor of the exchequer, a position he held for two terms, had begun to tell on him.

He signed the roll of peers, took the oath and walked with two sponsors, Viscount D'Abernon and Viscount Lee of Fareham, to the place on the viscounts' bench which he will occupy hereafter.

Second Departure From Custom.

Then there was another departure from custom.

Usually on taking his seat a new peer bows three times to the lord chancellor, resuming his seat after each bow. Viscount Ickornshaw, however, merely doffed his cocked hat, bowed three times, and sat down. Lord Sankey walked over and shook hands again.

The ceremonies crowning the career of one of his majesty's most valued servants were watched by a crowded house.

ACID THROWERS ATTACK 2 SHOPS IN DYERS' WAR

Acid throwing hoodlums invaded two cleaning shops yesterday in what police said was a fresh outbreak of warfare in cleaners' and dyers' ranks.

At the Biltmore Cleaning company, 1044 East 53d street, two vandals damaged clothing valued at $500. They forced the owner of the place, Louis Svenson, to lie on the floor while one of the pair guarded him with a revolver and the other sprinkled acid on clothing hanging on a rack.

The same two men are believed to have been responsible for an unsuccessful attack on the Metro Cleaners and Dyers shop on the fourth floor at 177 North State street. There one of them hurled a quart bottle of acid at a rack of clothes, but his aim was bad. The bottle went out a window and smashed on a skylight below.

SETS BONDS IN ROBBERY CASE.

John Schimpa, 18 years old, 1317 49th court, and James Malone, 22 years old, 1404 South Cicero avenue both of Cicero, were held to the grand jury in bonds of $30,000 on a robbery charge yesterday by Justice of the Peace Henry J. Sandusky.

SNOWDEN ENTERS LORDS; SNUBBED BY HIS OLD PALS

Former Clerk Becomes Viscount of Ickornshaw.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Philip Snowden, a poor man's son who became a member of the house of commons a quarter of a century ago, put on robes of scarlet and ermine and took his seat in the house of lords today as the first viscount of Ickornshaw.

Two hundreds of years the ceremony of creating a new peer of the realm has seldom deviated from the precedent form, but for this little man, who relies on two canes which he has said they be was injured in a bicycle accident many years ago, the rule was waived.

Escorted by Labor Peers.

Two labor peers, when they entered the house of lords, knelt before the lord chancellor and presented their letters patent. Viscount Ickornshaw, leaning heavily on his canes and weighted down by the robes of his new office, bowed his head. Lord Chancellor Sankey, his old friend, arose and shook hands.

Then Minister MacDonald, for whom the new viscount fought unceasing battles in the house of commons as chancellor of the exchequer, took the place before the throne with Stanley Baldwin, Walter Runciman and other members of the cabinet.

Behind the Labor peers usually there are only vacant seats. Not one of them had come to see their old leader introduced to the upper house.

Goes Full and Takes Seat.

Striding over to the clerk's table, the viscount leaned heavily upon the arm of the reading clerk, in wig and scarlet robes, read out the letters patent, enrobing the newcomer as the right trusty and well beloved Viscount, Philip Snowden, keeper of our privy seal."

Then he was made lord privy seal in the labor cabinet after the general election. His infirmities and a serious illness just before the last Labor cabinet had influenced Mr. Snowden not to run for a seat in the house of commons in that election, for the heavy duties of the post of chancellor of the exchequer, a position he held for two years, had begun to tell on him. He joined the roll of peers, took his seat and walked with two sponsors, Viscount D'Abernon and Viscount Lee of Fareham, to the place on the viscounts' bench which he will occupy hereafter.

Second Departure From Custom.

Also there was another departure from custom.

PRUSSIAN CHIEF EXPOSES 'TERROR PLAN' OF HITLER

Claims Nazis Propose to Drive Out Jews.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 25.—Drastic edicts which Dr. Severing, Prussian minister of the interior, declared will be promulgated by the Hitlerites, should they assume power in Germany, were revealed tonight. Dr. Severing said he assumes full responsibility for the veracity of the revelations. He added that the edicts were prepared by the Hitlerites of Hessen at secret conferences held in September.

The Nazis, as the Hitlerites are now generally known, threaten death sentence to all those who fail to obey the orders of Hitler's "storm troopers." They promise to abolish private incomes and the payment of interests and rents. They declare they will enforce compulsory work for all men and women over 16 years of age. They promise organized national distribution of food, with food cards and community kitchens.

Claims He Has Documents.

Dr. Severing said the documents containing the details of the secret conferences of the Hitlerites were given to him by Dr. H. Schaeffer of Offenbach, Hessen, formerly a National-Socialist deputy and the son of a former prominent Socialist. Dr. Schaeffer declares that he took part in the secret meetings at which these plans were worked out. He opposed them and since then he has been so closely watched by the storm troopers that he finally asked the protection of the police.

Dr. Severing said the Nazis are also planning to deprive all Jews of food cards and compel them to leave Germany.

Nazi leaders, on being questioned about these edicts, pointed out that Dr. Severing was a prominent Socialist whose party has just been spectacularly whipped in the elections in Hessen by the Nazis.

Nazis Call Plans Constructive.

"We are working systematically on constructive plans on what we will do when the votes of the German people give us power in Germany," Capt. Herman Goehring said. "Our work is being carried on in Munich in 35 offices in a big building by prominent legal and other experts who are bent on doing sound constructive work. They have nothing to do with the cock and bull yarns which are being spread about us by men opposing our party and who are seeking to discredit it."

At 6 o'clock tonight the police began raiding the homes and headquarters of the Nazis in Darmstadt, Hessen, in an effort to get a confirmation of Dr. Schaeffer's stories on the threatened "reign of terror."

HARLEM POLICY KING INDICTED ON INCOME TAX EVASION CHARGE

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Milford Brunder, a Negro policy king of Harlem, who amassed a profit of $1,000,000 during 1929 and 1930 by taking bets on the last three digits of the daily clearing house totals, was indicted by a federal grand jury today for failing to file income tax reports for the two years of his great prosperity.

Brunder skipped the country last May when the federal authorities began looking into his racket and was last seen in Bermuda. A warrant for his arrest has been issued and if he can be brought back to this district he will face the possibility of serving two years in prison and paying a $10,000 fine.

OAK PARK COUPLE AGREE TO TRUCE IN DIVORCE FIGHT

Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday persuaded Mr. and Mrs. James L. Baldwin, socially prominent Oak Park couple, to declare a truce in their divorce proceeding and eat Thanksgiving dinner together.

Mrs. Baldwin, who is president of the Frances Willard hospital, charged adultery in her divorce bill, and her husband, a manufacturer, replied with a cross-bill charging cruelty. The family home is at 414 South Scoville avenue, Oak Park.

Yesterday Mrs. Baldwin appeared on a motion for temporary allimony. She stated that her salary, formerly $200 a month, as president of the hospital, had been cut, and asserted that her husband has an income of $25,000 a year. He replied that his income has also suffered severely in the last two years.

"You two people are leaders in your community," Judge Sabath said, "and should set a good example for your fellow citizens by keeping out of the divorce courts. Why don't you get together tomorrow for a Thanksgiving dinner and see if you can't arrange your differences?"

They agreed, and will report to the judge on Dec. 14

Wieboldt's Announce A City Wide Relief Plan

To collect one million articles of used clothing, shoes and bedding for 91,000 needy families of Chicago

Will allow 10% of sales on winter needs for used clothing, shoes and bedding, and will donate all such merchandise to the needy. Charitable organizations have been asked to make the distribution.

Here Is the Plan:

Wieboldt's will give you a 10% discount on any article listed below, provided you bring in a similar used article—one which is not entirely worn out. Example: Bring in a pair of shoes that still have some wear in them and get a 10% discount on any pair of shoes in our store. If you want us to call for bulky articles, phone Wieboldt's Relief Plan, Armitage 1000, between 1:00 and 3:00 P. M. Those who do not wish to trade in such articles but would like to donate them outright are urged to do so. Bring in as much as you can, even though you don't want a discount.

Plan Applies to These Winter Needs

Men	Women	Girls	Boys	Babies
Coats	Coats	Coats	Coats	Coats
Suits	Shoes	Dresses	Suits	Underwear
Wool Shirts	Dresses	Jackets	Wool Shirts	Zipper Suits

Shoes		Wool Hosiery	Shoes	Comforters
Wool Hose		Leggings	Wool Hose	Pillows
Leather Coats		Zipper Suits	Leather Coats

This offer applies not only to Wieboldt customers but to the people at large.

The Good Will Industries, a charitable organization, has agreed to renovate and recondition all used merchandise turned in under this plan. Incidentally, the Good Will Industries employ needy people in this work.

The following charitable agencies have been asked to form a committee to take charge of the city-wide distribution of the articles turned in

American Red Cross, Chicago Chapter
Bohemian Charitable Assn.
Chicago Commons Assn.
Danish Aid & Relief Society
German Society of Chicago
United Charities of Chicago
Northwestern University Settlement
Olivet Institute
Polish Welfare Ass'n of Chicago
Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of Chicago
Hull House
Salvation Army
School Children's Aid Society
Jewish Social Service Bureau of Chicago

And many others will be invited to co-operate. If your church or club wants to share in this distribution, call Armitage 1000 between 1:00 and 3:00 P. M. Ask for Wieboldt's Relief Plan or write 1285 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago.

Rummage Through the Attic and Closets

What you will find may keep several people from suffering this winter.

Our investigators report the need so great—far greater than most of us realize—that neither the public nor Wieboldt's can afford to stand by. Children without shoes, men and women in rags, and beds with only a thin cotton blanket.

91,000 families in need! Wieboldt's are making this unusual offer in their attempt to coax out of the attics and closets those things which otherwise would stay hidden when they are so badly needed. Let's act now, before severe winter weather sets in!

Indians' Magic Comes to Life for This Author

Ancient Legends, Spells of Plains Are Renewed.

"Old Man Coyote," by Frank B. Linderman [Day]. Published tomorrow. By the author of "The American" and "Morning Light."

"OLD MAN COYOTE" is another proof of Frank Linderman's genius in capturing the spirit of the Indian and his lore. This book is a collection of the many dying legends that pass from the mouth of one brave to another through the march of the generations.

There are several stories so lovely in their way that they bear retelling. For example a beautiful Crow woman decides she will not marry any man in her tribe. On the day when she was climbing up into the tree Old Man Coyote saw her and wanted her for the woman of his own. So he caused the tree to grow into the heavens [reminiscent of the Jack and the Beanstalk tale of our childhood]. And there he took her to the regions of the Sun.

Because his wife and bore him children. But she disobeyed his orders and pulled up a giant turnip roots and saw below her the home of her people. Sickened by the sight she asked the Sun to let her back to be sent her and her son back to earth. The sinews of a bull upon which she descended to the earth was not strong enough. She crashed to the earth but her son was saved. He had a good spirit on earth and accomplished the superhuman task of ridding the earth of evil. But he became tired of the wickedness around him and went back to his father, the Sun and there [his descent and return resembles the Wagnerian myth of Siegfried].

Another legend describes the evil deeds of the Two Face tribe. They were great gamblers and dishonest ones. Whenever they want the possessions of a tribe they challenge them to a high gambling bout. On the last occasion the other tribe has lost everything, the Two Faces ask that their lives be the stake.

Needless to state all is over the contending tribe is completely destroyed. A mother and son of the Absanakees tribe escape at the time of the gambling bout and return to find their tribe destroyed. They do not long escape the wrath of the Two Faces and are obliged to play the games. Old Man Coyote sees the plight of the mother and son and determines to help them. Through his superhuman powers the Two Face tribe is at last exterminated and the dead Absanakees are brought back to life.

The character of the older Indian is different in this book. The courage and stoicism, the underlying savagery and primitivism reveal themselves in each of these legends. The key to the tribal beliefs and customs and taboos is in soothsaism. There is no line of demarcation between animals and men and furthermore none between men and nature [such as the sun and the wind, etc.]. The tribe of Absanakees had no omnipotent god. Their nearest approach to one is Old Man Coyote, but he is a thief in certain myths and in many a fool. Nevertheless when there is a need for some force to defeat evil he is invariably the one who is chosen to display his superhuman powers.

Mingled with Old Man Coyote's tales are those of the Sun. However ultimately, though these two are the ones called on when there is an appeal need for goodness, the Indian directs his worship primarily in tribe to the author says. The heroes are in many respects those of Greek mythology. They are anthropomorphic, endowed with a superhuman power which is called Big Medicine and includes poisoned arrows which devise that make the hero invincible, and yet are subject to and sometimes defeated by the trickery of their enemies. Though they strive for immortality and they are often led astray. The horses are immortal unless they are destroyed by fire. The outstanding quality of the Absanakee legends is a combination of pantheism and animism.

The author of this book has recorded the lore and the character of the vanishing Indian he knows well. The simplicity of his prose, his vivid writing, and his open minded reverent approach supplies a convincing medium for the recreation of the legends of the Absanakee.

Jackie Cooper Breaks Hearts at McVickers

He's Loyal Son of Busted Ring "Champ."

"THE CHAMP."

He hugged his dad with both small arms,
He stroked the abject head.
"You'll always be a champ to me!"
The little feller said.

Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.
Directed by King Vidor.
Presented at McVickers' theater.

THE CAST.

Champ ..... Wallace Beery
Dink ..... Jackie Cooper
Linda ..... Irene Rich
Spunge ..... Roscoe Ates
Tim ..... Edward Brophy
Tony ..... Hale Hamilton
Jonah ..... Jesse Scott
Mary Lou ..... Marcia Mae Jones

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

—And may the turk' be tender! If you went to Mrs. Chitwood's cooking class on Tuesday night—it will!

Unashamed, they're weeping over at McVickers'!

Why? Because little Jackie Cooper is breaking their hearts! Because Wallace Beery—just a big, tough, lovable old kid himself!—is giving a superb characterization that's reducing their sophistication and hard-boiledness to a pulp of pulsating emotion. Because a story, human, honest, depely moving, is unreeling; a story that had the understanding, sympathetic, forceful, and highly intelligent direction of the man who made "Street Scene"—King Vidor. The narrative is Frances Marion's.

Mr. Beery, in the title rôle, plays a new sort of part in the familiar Beery style—but with unexpected obligatos, crescendos, and retards. He's the weak, tough, adoring dad of a staunch small son who thinks the sun rises and sets in the big man whose love of drink and cards has lost him the world's heavyweight championship and brought the dethroned "Champ" and Dink to Tijuana, where existence is not all one would wish for a growing boy.

Despite the fact that the Champ is such an unsteady customer, he had been awarded the custody of Dink back in the days when Linda, Dink's mother, could no longer stand the strain and applied for a divorce. Linda, married again, to a nice, substantial fellow, comes with her husband, Tony, to attend the races, discovers her former husband and the little son she hasn't seen for so long, and, backed by Tony, begs Andy to let them have Dink—pleading the youngster's need of better environment.

Both the Champ and Dink are dead set against this plan. But there comes a terrible time when the Champ, drunk and in more than one sort of trouble, consents—and sends Dink away.

BUT——!

Do you think Dink comes back?

See the picture for what happens from here on. As to the story's great and unexpected climax, I wouldn't even hand out a TIP! If it doesn't get you where you live, you're not alive.

Little Jackie Cooper proves in this picture that his success in "Skippy" wasn't just a flash in the pan. He's a whirlwind—a genius! He does what he likes with you. He is absolutely irresistible. We're apt to go a-moviegoing for many years before we find another child actor who can hold a candle to him.

Irene Rich is adorable as Linda Hale Hamilton is nice as her husband. All rôles are naturally portrayed, and the film is chockful of meaty lines and situations.

"The Champ" may be hokum, but if so it's the sort of hokum that this old world of ours loves—and needs.

See you tomorrow!

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

If it were really necessary to get somewhere in a hurry it might be worth while to try to beat a freight train to a crossing, but suppose you were not in a hurry, would you try to beat it then? Some bridge players I know would.

There is no quality so necessary in a bridge player as the willingness to take a chance when it is absolutely necessary to do so in order to make a given declaration. Yet there is nothing so utterly foolish in the play of a bridge hand as taking chances which are entirely unnecessary. And yet many people will take finesses simply because they hold a tenace and, therefore, are physically able to make the finesse. They know that they only have a 50-50 chance of making it, yet still they will take the finesse regardless of whether it was necessary. Yesterday's play-a-problem is another hand taken from duplicate play. At many tables the heart finesse was taken. Fortunately for the finessing player this play cost him only the loss of an extra trick. This was the hand

NORTH.
♠—10,5
♥—K,8,5,2
♦—J,8,7,6,5,4,2
♣—None

WEST (Dealer) — EAST
♠—A,K,Q,7,6,2 — ♠—J,4,3
♥—A,Q,6,4 — ♥—9,3
♦—A,Q — ♦—10,3
♣—9 — ♣—Q,J,10,8,7
5
SOUTH
♠—9,8
♥—J,10,7
♦—K,9
♣—A,K,6,4,3,2

West, holding 9 probable tricks, opened the bidding with a game demand bid of three spades. North passed, East made the minimum response of three no-trumps, South passed, and West bid four spades. All passed.

North opened the ♦ 6, dummy played the 3, South the K, and West the A. West then led the ♣ 9, which South took with the K. On this play North discarded the ♦ 2. South now led the ♥ J and West should not take the finesse. The better West did not, but instead played the ♥ A.

West can see that dummy's clubs can be led through South's A (South is marked with the A because of North's discard on the club lead). The moment South plays the A West can trump and then the rest of dummy's clubs will be good. He, therefore, sees that he can discard all his losing hearts. Why, then, should he risk the finesse? There is no possible reason except a desire to take an entirely unwarranted chance rimply for the sake of taking it.

West now led the ♠ A and followed by leading the ♠ 6 to dummy's J. You will note that he led the 6 and not the 3, as he needs the 2 for a later entry to dummy's 4. Dummy now led the ♠ J, South came up with the A and West trumped with the ♠ 7. (Of course, if South had not played the A, West would have discarded the ♥ 4 and continued discarding hearts on dummy's clubs until South did play his A.) West now led the ♠ 2 to dummy's 4 and then led the J, 10, and 8 of clubs from dummy, discarding the 4, 6, and Q of hearts from his own hand.

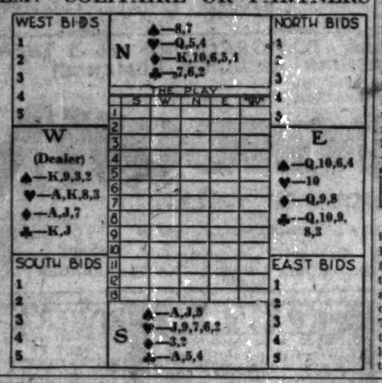
West's remaining cards—the ♠ A and Q and the ♦ Q—were, of course, good for the last three tricks, West and East making six odd—their bid and two extra.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 2, H. K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Send your bridge problems to Charles True Adams, The Chicago Tribune; inclose stamped, addressed envelope.



Oliver Lodge Tells Story of His Long Life

He Pleads with Science to Study Spirit World.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Sir Oliver Lodge, veteran physicist, is still convinced that science will unravel the secrets of after life.

In his autobiography, "Past Years," published tomorrow, Lodge proclaims himself supremely confident of another world waiting to be explored. At the age of 80 he looks forward eagerly to entering it and helping from "the other side" to fathom the psychic mysteries which scientists now deride.

"I cannot altogether be surprised," he writes, "that scientific men, absorbed in fruitful researches, still hold aloof and feel contemtuous toward such commonplace phenomena. They may even feel they are repellent. But the real question is, are they true? Do they belong to the universe of fact? If they do, they must be important. They have the effect of opening our eyes to another phase of existence—another world, of which at present we cannot imagine the scope of its possibilities.

"Our first touch with that world is like the dead logs Columbus found floating on the Atlantic ocean, the sign or indication of a majestic continent beyond. Our business is to learn facts, not to call them trivial and pass them by. I admit temptation. I find the investigation has been left mainly in the hands of comparatively untrained people and that thus their superficial commonplace aspect has been unduly emphasized. But whatever the hostility now, I feel convinced in due time science will take them under its wing, will recognize their truth and bring them into more serious consideration. So will it ultimately find these facts contain the germ of vast development. They open a new department in a new province of knowledge—one that will immensely enlarge our scope and give us a clearer apprehension of the majesty of a universe of which we know so little."

BEG YOUR PARDON!

An item published Monday concerning a robbery in the Rowantrees hotel, 500 Englewood avenue, identified Mrs. L. M. Richards as owner of the hotel. Mrs. Elizabeth Sutherland asserts that Mrs. Richards is the wife of a representative of the Chicago Title and Trust company, operating the hotel as receiver. Mrs. Sutherland asserts that she still retains title to the hotel.

HOOVERS PLAN QUIET THANKSGIVING; HOW CABINET CELEBRATES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—(AP)—President Hoover will spend a quiet Thanksgiving day tomorrow, going to church in the morning. A majority of the cabinet will remain at their homes here, as well as many of the members of congress already returned for the session beginning next month.

The secretary of the interior and Mrs. Wilbur, however, will motor to Richmond. There the secretary will address the Virginia State Educational association tomorrow.

Postmaster General Brown and Mrs. Brown will observe the day quietly here.

Secretary Hyde will spend Thanksgiving working at least a part of the day, possibly in the morning. Mrs. Hyde is in Excelsior Springs, Mo., and his daughter, Caroline, is at school at the University of Michigan. He will eat his Thanksgiving dinner with friends.

Secretary Adams will be at home. His family will be here, including Charles Francis Jr., student at Harvard, and his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Morgan of New York and two children.

Secretary Mellon will spend Thanksgiving at his apartment. He will have his son, Paul, and daughter, Mrs. Bruce, with him at dinner in his apartment tomorrow.

Stage and Movie Employes Are Asked to Take Cut in Pay

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The executive board of the International Alliance of Theatrical Employés and Motion Picture Operaters has voted to ask its 700 locals throughout the country to effect a 26 week wage rebate plan which it estimates will save theaters more than $1,000,000.

William T. Canavan, president of the alliance, today transmitted the requests to locals and, if adopted, the plan will affect all theaters, including motion picture, vaudeville and legitimate houses, employing union men.

Under the plan salaries of under $45 a week will not be affected, but those union men receiving between $45 and $70 a week will rebate 10 per cent of the amount. Those receiving more than $70 a week will rebate 10 per cent of the first $70 and 15 per cent of the balance over $70.

The plan would become effective on the first pay day after Dec. 12 and conclude with the first pay day after Aug. 20, 1932.

Money for Pupils Saves Thousands from Daily Hunger

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's Fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 2161 East 63d street, and 4133 West Madison street.

Ever since the Hungry School Children's fund was inaugurated in Chicago's schools, every day has been Thanksgiving day for thousands of youngsters who otherwise would often be fasting at noontime. Today's feast of gratitude will find the schools closed, and the day will be observed in many of the pupils' homes only by whatever modest extras the welfare agencies caring for each family can provide. But reason for Thanksgiving still is there.

Credit for warm, substantial, nourishing meals being served to approximately 7,000 children each school day goes to the readers of THE TRIBUNE who have contributed more than $25,000 for the purpose.

Yesterday's receipts from TRIBUNE readers for the children's food fund were:

$50—Paul Ruhlig.

Fifty-five needy families in the district of the Whitney school, 2815 South Komensky avenue, benefited yesterday by baskets of food donated by the pupils of the school. The families were selected under the supervision of Principal Harry L. Tate, with the Parent-Teachers' association aiding.

Checks totaling $7,599 have been turned over to Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan, he announced late yesterday, by the pupils, parents, and teachers of Chicago schools, as part of a Thanksgiving collection. The money will go to the School Children's Aid society to buy new shoes and new clothing for needy school children.

School officials hope that the total fund, checks for which will continue to come in for at least two weeks more, will reach $100,000. Last year $96,000 was raised, but it was pointed out that the teachers, who usually give a large portion of the fund, are not able to give their full share this year because of lack of pay.

Lennard Rosenberg and Harvey Blank, representing the pupils of the O'Keeffe Elementary school, 6940 Mermill avenue, accompanied by Mrs. Fred F. Fair, president of the Parent-Teachers' association of that school, yesterday called on Supt. Bogan and delivered a check for $1,200. The school has 1,290 pupils, making an average contribution of more than $1 per pupil.

Another delegation of children from the Boone Elementary school, 6710 North Washtenaw avenue, presented Supt. Bogan with a check for $1,150.

A check for $501.49 was received from the William Penn school, 1616 South Avers avenue, with a note from George F. Cassell, principal, explaining that "It comes from children in a relatively poor neighborhood and represents sacrifice and unusual generosity on their part."

Interfraternity Council Has Dance at Blackstone

The annual dance of the interfraternity council of the University of Chicago was held last night at the Blackstone hotel. Charles Schmidt, president of the council, accompanied by Miss Dorothy Faris, led the right wing of the grand march, while Jack Test, escorting Miss Barbara Cook, led the left wing. Three hundred and fifty couples attended the affair. President Robert Maynard Hutchins and his wife and faculty members were patrons.

Chicago Gives Thanks Today, Aids Poor, Too

Mayor Sets Keynote of This Holiday.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Chicago will celebrate Thanksgiving today to an accompaniment of clear skies, crisp air, and slowly rising temperature, described by a government forecaster as ideal Thanksgiving weather.

Indications are that for many it will be a jolly, old fashioned Thanksgiving, marked by family gatherings, generous giving to the poor, and observances in churches.

The city will preserve its usual holiday quiet in the loop today with the exception of theatergoing crowds. The banks, the board of trade, the stock exchange, and all department stores will close as usual for the day. The Chicago schools will remain closed tomorrow, too, giving the children a four day holiday. Virtually all of the schools in Cook county will remain closed tomorrow as well as today, although some districts will hold school tomorrow, according to Edward J. Tobin, county superintendent of schools.

When asked for a Thanksgiving statement yesterday, Mayor A. J. Cermak said, "I am thankful that things are not a lot worse." Then he prepared a statement which read in part:

"The people of Chicago are grateful for a healthy city in which to live and in which to rear their families. They rejoice as the beneficiaries of a wonderful public system of education, and especially are they proud of that fine body of men and women whose loyalty and devotion to duty in the last year has transcended all personal sacrifice—the school teachers.

"We all give thanks for the existence of that common bond of humanity which in times of stress and suffering makes brothers of us all; for the sympathy and assistance of the citizenry as a whole to those of her citizens less fortunate than the rest. The record of Chicago's answer to the challenge of hunger and want during the winter of 1931 will furnish the brightest jewel in her civic crown."

Typical of that Thanksgiving day spirit was the distribution of 800 baskets to families by the Rev. Johnston Myers, who has befriended Chicago's poor for the last thirty-five years. They were given to men and women, the heads of families, at the Immanuel Baptist church, 2320 South Michigan avenue, yesterday afternoon.

Financing of the baskets, as well as 3,000 breakfasts to single men which Dr. Myers supplied in the morning, was arranged through the gift of Kenneth Smith of Winnetka, president of the Pepsodent company. He and Mrs. Smith were at the church to observe the distribution of the baskets.

Each basket contained five pounds of beef, celery, potatoes, two loaves of bread, canned goods, apples, coffee, tea and sugar, and piles of yellow squash also were given away.

Dr. Myers will give breakfast to about 3,000 men today at 921 North Wells street. Daily he feeds more than 4,000 persons.

"It is through THE TRIBUNE that farmers in Michigan became interested in Chicago's poor and sent to me for distribution thousands of bushels of fruits and vegetables," Dr. Myers said yesterday. "Three hundred bushels of potatoes have arrived from them in the last day or two to be given away."

The First Methodist Episcopal church Sunday school gave a turkey dinner last night to 300 poor children in the Chicago Temple. George W. Dixon presided.

At the Oak Forest infirmary the largest number of men and women ever cared for at that institution, 4,300, will feast on turkey, goose, etc., today and will sing old songs in keeping with their annual custom. More than 200 boys and 100 girls in the Juvenile home will be stuffed with turkey.

Fifteen hundred disabled war veterans will eat turkey at the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital in Maywood while they are entertained with music and dancing by professional entertainers. The men, and the 26 women who were nurses in the world war, patients at the hospital, will consume more than a ton of turkey, dressing, cranberry sauce, pie, and so forth, according to Dr. Hugh Scott, who is in charge of the hospital.

In the county hospital physicians were consulted throughout the day in an effort to include turkey in as many diets today as possible. At the Chicago State Hospital for the Insane the 3,777 patients will be served 3,750 pounds of turkey, and later will celebrate with a dance.

Roast chicken, sweet potato, pie and other delicacies will be Thanksgiving fare at the county jail for 1,400 prisoners. At the Bridewell chicken also will be the fare.

Downtown hotels alone, however, made hurried preparations to feed more than 7,000 diners today, it was estimated. Hotel men and restaurateurs predicted that their low prices for turkey dinners, from $1 to $2.50, will bring more diners to their tables than assembled last year.

University and college students poured into Chicago yesterday on their way home for the week-end holiday. Two special trains on the Illinois Central railway, arriving at 1:45 and 2:24 o'clock in the afternoon, brought in 1,800 Chicago students from Champaign.

Several hundred persons were invited to partake of a Thanksgiving dinner at the Paul Rader temple, 825 Barry avenue, last night.

Society Gives Usual Family Dinners Today

ALMOST all of society who are not in the east this week will eat turkey and give thanks for their blessings today at family tables, for Thanksgiving, more than any other holiday, is a family day. There are so many large families among Chicago's "beau monde" that most of the parties assume the proportions of banquets.

The Dixon clan, for instance, numbering about fifty, and will dine at 6 o'clock this evening with Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Fulthorp of 70 Scott street. Mrs. George W. Dixon, the Stanley Zarings, Mrs. Wilton R. Martins, the Paul Walkers, the Homer L. Dixons, the Thomas Dixons, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Dixon and the Wesley M. Dixons, the Woodbridge Dixons will be among those at the Fulthorns. George Dixon and his daughter, Mrs. Zaring, will entertain for the family on Christmas.

The Swift family, or at least those of it in this city, will have dinner at noon today with Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Swift of 1550 State parkway. Mr. and Mrs. Huntington Henry, the Gale Swifts, the Richard Fitzgeralds, the Charles H. Swifts, and Harold H. Swift will be among those present. Miss Hortense Henry is in Boston with Mrs. George Swift and will return to Chicago Monday. She went east for the debut of her cousin, Miss Louise Swift, which took place last night.

Dixon Dinners Today as Reunions of Families.

Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank of the North State street will have about 20 of their family with them today, including their own daughter and sons, and Mrs. Carpenter, the Fairbank Carpenters, the Thomas L. Marshalls, Dr. and Mrs. Nathan S. Davis III., and the Laird Bells and their daughter, Helen.

Young Mr. and Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson of 1120 Lake Shore drive will have their respective mothers, Mrs. Lewis G. Stevenson and Mrs. Walter Borden, with them, and Mrs. Borden's brother, James B. Waller. Mrs. Borden's other daughter, Mrs. Robert S. Pate, and her husband will dine with the parents, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Pratt in Lake Forest.

Mrs. John R. Winterbotham of 1 Scott street will have her son, John R. Jr., and his wife and little son, Johnny, and her daughter, Mrs. Katherine W. Buchanan and her daughter and son, Katharine and Thompson, with her today.

Sixteen will sit down at Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine's dinner table at 29 Lake Shore drive, including her sons, Philip D. Armour, Lester Armour, and P. A. Valentine, and their wives and children.

Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick will have as her dinner guests this evening Mr. and Mrs. Henry Field, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Paepcke, and Edwin Krenn. She will take her party to the opera later.

Quite a few of this evening's dinner parties will adjourn to the opera, no doubt, and many also will go to the symphony concert at Orchestra hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Heyliger A. de Windt will have with them in Winnetka their daughters, Mrs. Albert S. Gardner and Mrs. Randolph G. Owsley, and their husbands and children.

Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson of 26 Banks street will entertain her sons, Edward L. jr. and Joseph T., and their wives and children at dinner. The Wesley M. Dixons, like many other young couples probably, have to eat or at least be present at two Thanksgiving feasts, for they will have noon dinner with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, and they will be with the Dixon family in the evening at the Fulthorns'.

Former Chicagoans, Who Reside Abroad, to Be Guests.

The Charles G. Kings of 1530 State parkway will have a family dinner today at noon, among their guests being Mr. King's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gade of France, who are at the Ambassador East for a visit. Mr. King's other sister, Mrs. Arnold C. Klebs of Switzerland, who has been here also, has gone east to welcome a new grandchild, the child of the former Nancy Newell, now Mrs. Sanford Daniels of New York. The evening Mr. and Mrs. Eames Mac-Gough of 900 North Michigan avenue will give a dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Gade.

The hunting set that belongs to Mrs. Strawn will forego having family dinners at home in favor of a 1 o'clock breakfast at the club, followed by

Society Gives Usual Family Dinners Today

MOST all of society who are not in the east this week will eat turkey and give thanks for their blessings today at family dinners. Thanksgiving, more than any other holiday, is a family day.

There are so many large families in Chicago's "beau monde" that most of the parties assume the proportions of banquets.

The Dixon clan, for instance, numbering about fifty, and will dine at 6 o'clock this evening with Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Fuilhorn of 70 Scott street. Mr. and Mrs. W. Dixon, the Stanley Zaringa, the William B. Martins, the Paul Walker, the Homer L. Dixons, the Thomas Dixons, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Dixon and the Wesley M. Dixons, the Woodward Agars, and all their children will be among those at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Dixon and his mother, Mrs. Zaring, will entertain informally on Christmas.

The Scott family, or at least those of the family in this city, will have dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Scott at 1550 State parkway. Mr. and Mrs. Huntington Henry, the Misses Nellie, the Richard Fitzgeralds, the Charles H. Swifts, and Harold Swift will be among those present. Miss Hortense Henry is in Boston with Mrs. George Swift and will return to Chicago Monday. She went east for the debut of her cousin, Miss Nellie Swift, which took place last night.

Chicagoans Today as Guests of Families.

Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank of 1550 State street will have most of their family with them for dinner, including their own daughter Mrs. Carpenter, and Mrs. Carpenter, the Thomas L. Carpenters, the Thomas L. Fairbanks, Dr. and Mrs. Nathan S. Davis III, and the Laird Bells and their daughter, Helen.

Mr. and Miss Adlai E. Stevenson of 1239 Lake Shore drive will dine with their respective mothers, Mrs. Lewis G. Stevenson and Mrs. Walter Fairbank, with them, and Mrs. Borden's daughter, Mrs. James B. Waller. Mrs. Borden's other daughter, Mrs. Robert S. Swift and her husband will dine with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Pirie, jr., at Lake Forest.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Winterbotham of 4 Burton street will have her son, John Winterbotham, jr., and his wife and little son, Peter, and her daughter, Mrs. Kathryn Buchanan and her daughter Miss Katharine and Thompson, with her today.

Mrs. Swift will sit down at Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine's dinner table at 1550 Lake Shore drive, including her son, Philip D. Armour, Lester Armour, and P. A. Valentine, and their wives and children.

Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick will have as her dinner guests this evening Mr. and Mrs. Henry Field, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Paepcke, and Edwin Green. She will take her party to the opera later.

Mrs. Swift's dinner will adjourn to the opera, no doubt, and many also will go to the symphony concert at Orchestra hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayliger A. de Windt have with them in Winnetka their daughter, Mrs. Albert S. Gardner and Mr. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph G. Owsley, and their children.

Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson of 38 Banks street will entertain her sons, Edward A. and Joseph T., and their wives and children at dinner. The Wesley Frosts, like many other young couples probably, have to eat or at least be present at two Thanksgiving dinners, for they will have noon dinner with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Strawn, and they will be with the Frosts family in the evening at the Edgewater beach.

Four Chicagoans, Who Are Abroad, to Be Guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Kings of 1530 State parkway will have a family dinner today as soon, among their guests being Mrs. King's brother-in-law and sister, Sir and Mrs. Herman Gade of France, who are at the Ambassador East for the season. Mrs. King's other sister, Mrs. Ernest C. Kiehe of Switzerland, who has been here also, has gone east to welcome a new grandchild, the child of the former Nancy Newell, now Mrs. Richard Daniels of New York. This evening Mr. and Mrs. Eames MacVeagh of 900 North Michigan avenue will give a dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Gade.

The hunting set that belongs to Miller Hutchinson will forego having dinner at home in favor of a 1 o'clock breakfast at the club, followed by a hunt. Among those who plan to attend are the "Andy" Kings, the William H. Mitchells, the Samuel J. Walkers, and the Joseph T. Bowens.

Adelaide Atkin Makes Debut Today at Indian Hill Club.

Today's debutante is Miss Adelaide Atkin, who will be introduced at a tea dance given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey H. Atkin of Winnetka, at the Indian Hill club this afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock. Receiving with the "deb" and her parents will be her sister, Miss Margot Atkin, and her grandmother, Mrs. William A. Shaw, and assisting will be a group of debutantes including Miss Caroline McNair, Miss Myra Little, Miss Beatrice Lindsay, Miss Dorothy Dewes, Miss Peggy Glidden, Miss Margaret Hamill, Miss Judith Miller, Miss Louise Neff, Miss Mary Ellen Prindiville, Miss Louise Ruffner and Miss Anne Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Owings are having a small tea this afternoon at their new apartment, 152 East Delaware place. The attractive Emily Otis and Mr. Owings were married last summer at the Otises' summer place at Harbor Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolcott Blair are spending Thanksgiving with Miss Edith Cummings at Middleburg, Va. She has a house there for the three months' hunting season. Miss Cummings will return to Chicago to spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Mark Cummings.

The William McCormick Blairs are in the east to have Thanksgiving dinner with their two sons, Mrs. Blair's sister, Mrs. De Koven Phelps, also is in the east to spend the holiday with her son.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson are at the Virginia Hot Springs for Thanksgiving, having been joined there by their daughter, Joan, from Foxcroft, and their son, Anthony, from Southboro.

Several Chicagoans Spending Thanksgiving in Virginia.

The John L. Cochrans, the Stephen Y. Hords, the Frederick Spencers, and the Walter M. Crawfords are spending Thanksgiving with Mrs. Spencer's and Mrs. Crawford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Richardson, at their Virginia estate, Rose Cottage, near Gaylord.

Invitations are out for a dinner dance at the Casino on Friday, Dec. 11, at 8 o'clock, for the benefit of the Eli Bates Settlement house. Mrs. Charles C. Haffner Jr. is chairman of the committee in charge and Miss Elinor Farwell is handling the ticket sales.

An engagement announcement made the other day in New York of interest to Chicagoans is that of Miss Gwendolyn Roome of New York and Westbury to Warren Frederick Lutz of New York and Oyster Bay, because Mr. Lutz's mother lived in Chicago when she was the popular Lillian Gillett. Miss Roome, the daughter of Mrs. Howard Le Chevalier, made her debut two years ago and is a member of the Junior league. Mr. Lutz was graduated from Harvard last June.

Hoovers Take Seals to Fight Tuberculosis

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Two tiny child health crusaders were rewarded by smiles from President and Mrs. Hoover for speeches today presenting a sheaf of anti-tuberculosis Christmas seals at the White House.

The youngsters were Jose-Lou Berliner, 5, and David Whiteover, 6, both of Washington.

"Good morning, President and Mrs. Hoover," the two chorused as the chief executive and first lady walked down the White House steps. "We brought you some Christmas seals."

"Thank you very much," the President replied. "We shall be very happy to use them."

As Mr. and Mrs. Hoover walked back up the steps, there came another chorus:

"We are happy to have met you."

Mrs. Hoover turned and responded, "and I am very happy to have met you."

Chicago Families to Get Millions of Health Seals.

Millions of Christmas health seals will be received this week by families in Chicago and Cook county. The sale of them supports the work of the Chicago Tuberculosis Institute, which for twenty-five years has campaigned in Chicago and Cook county.

"A Christmas seal, pasted on a letter, post card or package, carries wishes for a merry Christmas and health to all," explained officials of the tuberculosis institute yesterday, and remind us that humanity is winning the fight against tuberculosis, formerly its greatest enemy.

"Small contributions," the officials added, "usually $2 or $3, have made possible the work because there have been thousands of givers. Public health officials are worried about the course of tuberculosis during the next decade. History reveals that the greatest devastation from the disease has followed periods of economic distress."

A national radio program will be broadcast Sunday evening from 9:15 to 9:45, Chicago time. Eddie Cantor, Sir Hubert Wilkins, Dr. W. A. Evans and others will take part. All participating are contributing their services, including the National Broadcasting company, which has placed its facilities and a special orchestra at the disposal of the anti-tuberculosis organizations. The program will be mostly musical.

British Labor Ministry May Become Stage Critic

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The ministry of labor and large London vaudeville interests are engaged in a dispute over regulations regarding the admission to Great Britain of foreign variety stage artists. The ministry proposes to exclude foreign performers "except those of exceptional talent," and the music hall managers question the officials' ability to decide on such a point.

New York Will Hear Respighi's Latest Work

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A new work by Ottorino Respighi, Italian composer, will be given its world première in New York next March by Arturo Toscanini, conductor of the New York Philharmonic orchestra. The work, which its composer describes as "a mystery—a triptych for concert," is an opera-oratorio requiring a small orchestra, soloists and a chorus. It is entitled "Maria Egiziaca," or "Mary of Egypt."

Six Year Old Girl from California Wins Berlin Plaudits

BERLIN, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Six year old Ruth Slenczynski of Sacramento, Cal., made her Berlin debut as an infant prodigy pianist at Bach hall tonight before a house so crowded that even the stage seats were occupied.

To the amazement of critics and amid the wild enthusiasm of the audience she presented a program of Bach, Beethoven and Haydn, and, in a lighter vein, Schubert, Chopin and Weber.

At the close of the concert someone tried to present Ruth with a German doll but her father, Joseph Slenczynski, angrily grabbed it and threw it into the audience.

Among the most enthusiastic listeners was the violinist Mischa Elman.

"It was at my suggestion," he said, "that Ruth came to Germany to study. I hope she will grow up to be as big as a mature artist as she is as a prodigy. Her performance tonight certainly raised the greatest hopes."

MICHIGAN PROFESSOR FINDS THIS MOON LEAST ERRATIC OF ALL

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Of the twenty-six known moons in the sun's family, our own is the only one that is thoroughly decorous.

This "unique" absence of the modern tempo was reported today by R. M. Petrie of the University of Michigan, in a mathematical treatise. His calculations show that our moon "is in a class by its own."

All moons have two motions, one their orbits around their planets, and the other the courses in space which they describe while being dragged around the sun by their respective worlds.

Analyzing the resulting path of our satellite, Mr. Petrie finds it is always concave with respect to the sun. In a diagram the moon's annual course would look like the curvature of an egg shell, with the yolk representing the sun. Any section of this path whatever would be curved away from the sun, like any fragment broken from the egg shell.

All the other moons belong to planets farther from the sun than the earth; planets whose paths around the sun are less sharply curved than the earth's. Furthermore some of these satellites make immensely larger circles in traveling about their respective worlds.

Refugees Find Home, Jobs in California

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Los Angeles has proved a handy port for foreigners tossed about by political upheavals and war.

A former general of the Russian imperial army readily became a duke in a Hollywood film and bought himself a cafe by the sea. An ex-president of Mexico is teaching voice.

The most recent arrival, Nicolas Salazar, former director general of immigration in the deposed Leguia government in Peru, has not yet had time to establish himself.

"I was arrested at the inception of the revolt and was placed with my back to a wall facing a firing squad," he said. "But federal machine gun fire from outside put my near-executioners to flight."

Officials of the Ukranian, Russian Civic center said more than 3,000 "White" Russians have taken refuge here.

Theater patrons who saw Will Rogers' picture, "They Had to See Paris," will remember Duke Michael, played by Theodore Lodi. Lodi is the screen name used by Gen. Theodore Lodijenskil, formerly of the Russian imperial army, who left his native country with a reward of 250,000 rubles over his head. He has had character parts in other films and now owns a cafe at Santa Monica.

Ivan Lebedeff, one of Hollywood's most dashing and polished actors, formerly was in the Russian diplomatic service attached to the foreign office at St. Petersburg.

Prince Alexander Galitzine is a physician here. Others among the Russian exiles are: Boris Laiming, son of Gen. Laiming, now an oil company executive; Col. Theodore Oliferieff, a fencing master, and Prof. Alexis Kahl, an instructor in music.

Adolfo de la Huerta, provisional president of Mexico for six months, whose candidacy against Plutarco Elias Calles precipitated a revolt in 1923, is a teacher of voice.

New Redingote Is Popular in Paris

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Maybe you thought every known adaptation of the redingote, coachmen, and such allied coats had been exhausted by the drive of fashions for such wraps. You're wrong. There is a new one out in Paris and it is a wow. Vera Boreo, the new star in the heavens of Paris dressmakers, designed it and it is shown in the sketch today.

Madame Boreo makes this coat and the dress that goes to make it an ensemble of black velvety, ribbed woolen, with the ribbed design worked horizontally. The coat is fitted and has no flare in its skirt section. It is buttoned to the waistline at the left side-front under seven square bone buttons, and below this closing the front of the coat is cut out, leaving a rectangular opening down the center from the waist to the hem, so that the front of the dress skirt is plainly visible, but since it matches the coat exactly there is no hitch in the harmony of the line.

The collar arrangement is tricky and has the grand chic. There's a smallish standing collar around the back and sides of the neck, and the front is cut moderately low and square. This square is filled in by a triangle of white gallilac, tied through the standing collar in back like a child's table napkin is attached by a mother anxious about keeping a pinafore clean. You can see the back arrangement in the background. The point of this fur triangle is tucked in under the top of the coat front. A dropped shoulder yoke makes the shoulders look square.

The dress is a simple princess frock with no frittering details, but beautiful in line, and an ivory necklace is worn with it.

The Bride's Boat

By Coralie Stanton and Heath Hosken

SYNOPSIS.

It was Kit Lenoure's twenty-sixth birthday. She'd worked four years as receptionist in a London family hotel and she felt herself in a groove. When an East African guest offers her a post in the Grand Africa hotel, Soysbret, Kenya, she gladly accepts. Theo Rhodes was there and Kit wanted him more than anything in the world. They'd been in love, but their engagement was broken because of his mother. Kit sails on the "Bride's Boat." Jess North is her cabin mate. Jess is going out to be married. Kit meets Lal Crowhurst, the biggest landowner about Soysbret and a most attractive bachelor. He is attentive to Kit. Jess delights in telling Kit the scandal she hears about Lal Crowhurst and about "the widow who owns him."

INSTALLMENT X.

THE EFFECT OF THE TROPICS.

There was no sign of Crowhurst in the dining saloon at dinner. Jess was slightly disappointed. For some reason she seemed to have expected him to turn up for the first time that night.

The dance was to begin at ten. There were signs of change in the weather. They would be at Aden tomorrow morning, and Kit was told that in the Indian ocean she would feel more like a normal being again. But it was still hot to a degree she would never have believed. The men's soft shirt fronts showed it long before the dance began. To wear a "boiled" shirt was quite impossible. The women's powder puffs were hardly ever out of their hands.

It was a charming sight, exhilarating in its strangeness, the deck of the great ship festooned with electric lights, some hidden in lanterns, like huge oranges or silver moons, others making long ribbons of red, white and blue. The awnings were down; carpets, here and there, made groups of chairs with palms placed round them into sitting out places. And everywhere blocks of ice. The café and cocktail bar on the deck had put up a pergola over which climbed bunches of artificial grapes and real flowers and branches of oranges and lemons, all softly illuminated.

Kit lost sight of Jess after dinner. She was sure the girl had gone down to their cabin to give her powdered creaminess a new lease of life. Kit had plenty of partners and began dancing at once. There was no sign of Mr. Crowhurst.

The floor was excellent; the band beautiful. Being a French boat, the Kit stood it as long as she could.

jazz was not exaggerated, and there were plenty of old fashioned waltzes; and Kit simply adored the tango as danced by the French passengers.

But, to her own surprise, it was not long before a faint distaste, even nausea, overcame her. It was the heat, no doubt. It was something she had never experienced. The heat of the Red sea. It was all right while she was dancing with some of the colonials she had already made friends with. The best was a joke. They mopped their brows as if they had been playing a hard game of tennis. But she tried the tango with a Rumanian. He was a prince and was going out to join a big game expedition. And suddenly it was quite different. He held her too close; he was supposed to be teaching her, and his tuition was too thorough—that was the best way of putting it. Kit stood it as long as she could, then disengaged herself firmly. Her fastidiousness was offended. Of course, it was the heat.

Then she looked over the vast room, as the music stopped for a moment and murmured the inevitable encore. She had told her partner that she felt too tired to dance any more, and when he left her she withdrew into a doorway. It was then that she experienced that faint nausea. The heat of the Red sea, of course, was to blame for that spell of languid abandon that seemed to have fallen on the dancers. The couples hardly moved to the music that at first had seemed so inspiring, so brave and bright. It throbbed now with quite a different meaning. They were pressed close to each other, their eyes half shut, swaying like people in a trance. It was the heat, of course.

Kit turned and hurried out on to the deck. It was her first glimpse of the loosening influence of the tropics on conduct and manners, and it frankly disgusted her.

She made her way along the deck meaning to go as far forward as she could to get what air there was. There were groups all over the place, some sitting, some leaning against the rail. In a secluded corner, made by the angle of the card room, were chairs round a table. As she passed, a tall man got up.

"Here is Miss Lenoure!" said the voice of Crowhurst with a ring of welcome.

Kit saw that he had a woman companion. There were iced drinks on the table. To her amazement, a low purring laugh greeted her and she saw Jess North, lying back in a chair, smoking a cigaret in one of her long colored glass holders.

"Do sit down, Miss Lenoure!" invited the man. "Let me give you some lemonade. I have just had the pleasure of making Miss North's acquaintance."

Kit was just wondering humorously whether Jess had dropped her powder puff or her lipstick, the articles she had in most frequent use, when the girl broke in with the stammering exaggeration of her drawl that excitement produced:

"Kit, isn't it too interesting? Mr. Crowhurst and I got talking quite by chance, and what do you think?—my boy Noel works for him. He is the head of his coffee estates."

This was certainly a startling coincidence, though it did not explain exactly how Jess had made his acquaintance.

"Yes," put in Crowhurst, drawing out a chair for Kit and looking immaculate and actually cool as he stood beside it, "and I think I ought to have been told that Mr. Graham was expecting his bride out by the same boat as I was taking. I would have looked out for Miss North at once. I couldn't have known, you see, Miss Lenoure, because I have never met Graham."

"O!" exclaimed Kit, and then remembered. Jess had told her that her fiancé had only held his present post for a year, and Crowhurst, of course, had not been in Africa for eighteen months.

"But Mr. Crowhurst says he hears Noel is doing wonders with his coffee," Jess went on. She was at her primmest, smoking in delicate puffs, her down-drooping eyebrows giving her a pensive air. But she looked very lovely, like a fine etching in black and white but for the scarlet lips and the topaz eyes that shone out of the dusky corner as tawny as a tiger's.

"Yes, I am looking forward to meeting him," Crowhurst said. Kit could not help noticing that his manner was much more formal than she had found it.

"O, and, Kit, Mr. Crowhurst is too awfully kind! What do you think, he says he will stay in Mombasa for my wedding? I'm so pleased and proud. I shan't feel so awfully a poor little stranger. I told him you were going to stay, too, and be my bridesmaid and generally look after me, like the dear thing you are."

Crowhurst looked at Kit and smiled. His smile was, in another way, like his voice. It seemed to reach your eyes through your heart.

"Yes, of course, we must stand by this lady on the great day, Miss Lenoure. And I shall like meeting Graham away from business for the first time."

With light, masterful ease he took command of the conversation, sketching the life of the plantations and farms in vigorous, picturesque language. Evidently, though he might be an absentee landlord, he knew all about the working of his vast estates.

Kit listened with deep interest and asked questions now and then. Jess might have been listening or not, but her eyes were fixed on the man's face as if she were drinking in every word. All the same, she was fully aware that everybody who passed looked at them with more than common interest.

A young man came up to Jess. He was very young and frankly slavishly attracted by her.

"Miss North, you absolutely swore you'd dance the 'Blue Danube' with me! I've been looking for you everywhere."

Jess rose slowly.

Teachers Have Power to Make or Mar the Minds of Youngsters

GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A mother I know does a lot of thinking. Her daughter of 12, who has apparently a good mind, rather unusually good, in fact, had never done any outstandingly fine work in school. The mother couldn't quite understand it.

Knowing her daughter well, however, she had never talked to her about it. It seemed important to the mother that the child, who was sensitive and devoted to her, should not feel any disappointment existing in her mother's mind, especially if the child was doing her best.

Then, a year ago, the child was promoted into the room of a fine teacher. And she literally blossomed out. Towards the end of the year the teacher took occasion to tell the mother that her daughter had done the finest and most original work, and had shown great application and conscientiousness. When she came home from her visit to school, her young daughter asked, "What did Miss Blake say, mother?"

Her mother had to make a quick decision not only because the praise was so great, but because it involved the comparisons implied in "highest and best." Then she decided to pass it on in full measure. From that time on a new pride and a certain dignity came to that child, visible to an observant mother and the next year's teacher.

Other children gained, too, that year. But not quite as sharply as this one. Praise, inspiration, and understanding of her live young material on the part of that teacher have brought about a decided change in the young student: a pride of work, a consciousness of power, and ability to work with a group and contribute toward it, and a gain of character poise that showed during that summer and are manifest this fall.

What power teachers have in their hands! Blessings on the heads of those teachers who use it well, and bring enrichment of mind and character as well as happiness to the young things in their care!

Palette and Chisel Club Opens Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THE annual small sketch show at the Palette and Chisel club, 1012 North Dearborn street, has opened and is one of the best of this kind of show that the club has yet given. The little paintings are contributed by the members to be sold for the benefit of the organization. The present exhibit is well calculated to tease the dollars from your purse.

Leo Marzolo offers two still life arrangements that are fascinating. The one is "Narcissus" and the other "Peaches." They are lovely in color and would be a welcome addition to any Christmas tree pile of gifts. Edward T. Grigware shows one of the liveliest and gayest of the sketches in his "Florida," a piquant, shimmering landscape in green. Othmar Hoffler went down to Brown county this fall for a painting bout and his "The Sweet Well" is an engaging trophy. It is one of the finest pictures in the exhibit.

Roy C. Keister has a nice thing in his "At the Timber Line" and Louis J. Kaep a softly blue tone in "Street in Old Town." Leon Pescheret shows several excellent etchings, "North Michigan Avenue" and "L' Empereur" immediately catching the eye. "Pueblo Indians," by Frank T. M. Batty, is spirited and full of character; the "Old Fashioned Bouquet," by A. E. Avery, is like nothing so much as a panel of quaint wall paper. "Mississippi Pines," by Harry L. Engle, is a romantic patch of dark trunks in slender parade and fragrant needles.

The exhibition is one that is most deserving of support. The pictures will give the chance visitor a great deal of pleasure. The exhibit will continue to Dec. 18, when the highest bids offered during the show or at the auction that night, which closes it, will take the pictures. Among the other well known Chicago painters represented are Otto E. Hake, Max Herzog, Fred T. Larson, John A. Spellman, James Topping, Arnold E. Turtle, Holger W. Jensen, Samuel Byer, Henry A. Brandt, Maurice Greenberg, and Frank J. Gavencky.

M. T.: THE EGG SHAMPOO IS recommended for blonds. Beat up the whites of three eggs. Add three tablespoonfuls of water. Use the egg mixture as you would soap. Be sure to rinse thoroughly. Add lemon juice to the last rinse water.

O. D.: UNDERNOURISHED PERsons should take their milk at the end of the meal so that the other needed foods will not be neglected. Or, the milk may be taken between meals.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' COSTUME SLIP.

The unbroken line from bust to hem of this slip does away with any conflicting line to the outer garment. It is cleverly shaped to mold the figure through the hips and waist, widening into a graceful width and flare at the hem. Radium silk, satin, and crepe de chine are lovely materials from which to choose.

The pattern, 3431, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inch bust measure. Size 36 requires 2⅝ yards of 35 inch material, with 1¼ yards of 5¾ inch wide lace.

Try This Bender If You'd Acquire That Slender Waistline

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A correspondent sends an airmail, special delivery request for a hurry up waistline reformer. Here, it seems, has got all out of bounds, while the dress that must do duty at an early wedding has retained its original svelte line of waist.

I suppose there are thousands of others in the land anxious to fit their wayward waistlines into graciously feminine dress lines for some special occasion. Anyway, I've come to believe that there's nothing like an accusing frock in the closet to discipline the form. If it were a perfect disciplinarian, it wouldn't let the waist swell by inches. But, then, a frock has its limitations as accuser, of course. I've known women, though, who buy a dress that crowds them a bit and who do go home and whittle down the flesh until the frock fits easily. If the system works, it's a good one. But not to disappoint the waistline sufferer, here's an exercise. Only we don't guarantee a complete affinity between slender, belted frock and swollen waistline before thirty days, at least. Two weeks sometimes shows surprising results, however. A little dieting could go on in the meantime. Not too strenuous. Cut the rations perhaps one quarter, or one half.

For the waistline and abdomen, this is good: Stand about a foot away from the wall, with feet apart, back toward the wall. Raise the hands up over the head and bend the body backward from the waist. Keep the knees straight. Continue to bend the trunk back, until the hands touch the wall. Keep on doing this gradually until you can "climb down the wall" with your hands.

When you've gone as far as you can without strain, straighten up and then take a forward plunge, touching the toes with your finger tips.

Movie Gossip as It's Heard in Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 25.—It's getting so a person has to have a Southern California football player accompany him in order to break through the line of cadgers that surrounds each studio front door in Hollywood. Almost imperceptibly a certain sort of racketeer has taken over the studios' front doors. Any one going toward the movie plants suddenly finds himself accompanied, one on each side, by two soft treading gentry. The first hint is a wheedling voice from the right, asking for "a little change, because I haven't eaten for two days."

At this point the shadow of a big glum looking fellow crosses the accosted one's path from the left shoulder. For those who don't shell out, there are a couple of truculent looks, and maybe a nudge before the pair disappears to await the next comer.

An investigation of the racket, started by those who must visit Hollywood studios nearly every day in the week, discloses that the studio front gate panhandlers have been working in teams of two and three, each pair working one studio for two or three days, and then moving to another studio, to be replaced by another team.

When Boy Friend Shows He's Bored Take the Hint, Gals

BY DORIS BLAKE.

About this business of accepting other dates when the young man suggests that you do this very thing:

Why not take the hint? Why hang on, pleading explanations, sparring for time, losing ground with your declarations of disinterest in other boys? It's not good football.

To be more specific, here's "Sweetheart." The boy friend, after a year or so of fairly steady devotion, tells "Sweetheart" he would like to see her have dates with other boys. Her response is "she doesn't want to see other boys."

And then this common reaction among the type of girl who refuses to let go gracefully:

"I do everything for him," she accuses. "He is right at home at my house. And he told me he cared for me," et cetera.

Now, it doesn't matter what the boy told in the beginning, or in the middle of the friendship. It's what he said last night that counts. If last night he said: "Why don't you go out with other boys?" don't come back with: "I don't want to. You're the only one for me." That's poisonous.

Instead, either make no response as you gulp down your pride, or laugh the suggestion off lightly with a, "I think I'd better, too!" Don't, whatever you do, show that hand with the tight gripping fingers! If you want him back later, let out the reins freely now. Give him air—not the air—but air to breath like a free man.

And don't "take on" either publicly or privately over the incident. It will hurt. Of course, it will. Pride will be stung no end. But take it on the chin. Admit it's all in a lifetime.

Then, get busy immediately on the trail of a successor. A young man's interest has been known to be revived quite suddenly with the appearance on the scene of a successor. But you can't become a dead weight and expect to see sighs of the old flame reviving. Too, a bit of male psychology might be grasped, in passing. There's considerable lure to the girl with ready substitute escorts in the offing.

Food Talk.

I hope I am not the only one who cherished a childhood idea [and kept it long after childhood, too] that fish were invariably dragged from the sea, en masse, in enormous nets, and that simply tons and tons of, say, codfish, were thus snared at once, making the fisherman's life every simple and jolly. Such, it seems, is not the case. Take halibut, for instance.

The Gloucester fishermen, our most famous, go after them in dories, two and sometimes three men to a dory. They set out a trawl, which is a heavy line with hooks hanging on it at close intervals. One end of it is anchored while the other is marked by a buoy, generally a small cask. Twenty-five to thirty fathoms is the usual fishing depth, though it is often much more than that. The halibut is a heavy fish, weighing as much as four hundred pounds. An average halibut weighs two hundred pounds, and it is a flattish fish.

The man in the bow of the dory hauls in the trawl, takin the fish off the hook and throwing them into the boat. Another man coils the trawl, keeps the boat right with a single oar, and, in bad weather, bales her out.

Sea fishing is heavy work at any time, and in bad weather it is dangerous. The dories, flat bottomed boats about fifteen feet long, are easily capsized if a wave catches them broadside, and very few of the fishermen can swim. They are weighted down by oilskins, woolen clothes, and heavy boots, so even if they could swim their movements would be hampered. In case of an upset, their only chance is to cling to their overturned boat till help comes.

Winter fishing off the Atlantic coast has a literature all its own. There are tales of heroism and fortitude that are stirring about these men who go out to fish. Nowadays, of course, the fishing fleet is not all sail as it once was. The vessels are power and auxiliary. But while some people think the life of fishermen is woefully calm today, I think it's still pretty exciting.

Just while I think of it—have you tried using lime to squeeze over your fish instead of lemon? I think you'd like it.

JELLIED SALMON.

1 tablespoon gelatin.
1 cup flaked salmon.
½ cup mayonnaise.
¼ cup boiling water.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.
1-3 teaspoon salt.
Paprika.

Soak the gelatin in lemon juice. Dissolve in water. Add the remaining ingredients, turn into a wet mold and chill. Serve on a bed of lettuce.

GLOUCESTER RING.

5 ounces short macaroni.
1 tablespoon gelatin.
¼ cup cold water.
2 egg yolks.
Cayenne pepper.
Salt.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 cup cream.
1 can crab meat.
1 tablespoon lemon juice.
1 minced pimiento.
½ cup mayonnaise.

Cook the macaroni in boiling, salted water till tender. Soak the gelatin in cold water 5 minutes. In the double boiler make a sauce of the slightly beaten egg yolks, salt, pepper, butter, and cream. Cook until thick and add the gelatin. Stir until dissolved. Add the lemon juice to the crab meat. Cool the sauce and as it thickens add the crab meat and pimiento. When slightly thicker add the macaroni. Before it hardens whip the mayonnaise slowly into the mixture. Pour into a wet ring mold, and chill. Turn out on a bed of lettuce, fill the center with cold slaw, and surround with stuffed tomatoes.

GANDHI SAYS HE'S READY TO RENEW REVOLT IN INDIA

Convinced Parley with Britain Is Failure.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Convinced that the round table conference will fail completely to give India self-government, Mahatma Gandhi, India's Nationalist leader, today threatened Great Britain with a renewal of India's nonviolent "war" for independence.

"I fear that my slender thread of hope for cooperation with the British nation has snapped and that I must again deliver the message of non-cooperation and civil resistance to the millions of India," Gandhi said.

"And no matter how many warballoons float over India, or how many tanks are brought there, they will have no result. A reign of terror by the British government cannot kill the desire of India's millions for liberty."

Session Most Outspoken.

Gandhi's "declaration of war" occurred at one of the most outspoken sessions the round table conference has seen. Indian delegate after delegate arose to warn Lord Sankey, chairman of the committee, of the dire results in India if they went home empty handed.

The flood gates damming the pent up Indian feeling burst when H. B. Lees Smith, Labor delegate, put before the committee the alternative of granting provincial autonomy after an interval of possibly eighteen months, or postponing all transfer of authority from Great Britain to India until a strong central government could be established. This, he guessed, would take three years.

Then came the torrent of Indian protests. Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, Hindu moderate leader, pleaded that the delegates would feel in accepting a provincial autonomy that they had been let down by the government. He warned the British that he had a very vivid idea of the dangers that may cultivate by maneuvering us back into the Simon recommendations," but declared they were ready to wait three years, as Lees-Smith suggested, rather than accept provincial autonomy now.

Threatens Revolution.

Mr. Jayakar was next. He regarded the offer of provincial autonomy as a "dismal failure." The British there would turn India deliberately over to disorder and chaos," he said. "Perhaps the way to freedom for India lies through a revolution."

The next speaker was Mr. Bustamante who warned that India was full of political agitators, who were willing to make trouble for the political leaders who were ostensibly seeking to avoid it.

All Prophesy Rebellion.

All the Indians prophesied that there would be uprisings if they returned with nothing more than the conference offers at present. All were opposed to provincial autonomy unless a central government is established. Gandhi joined this stand. He said he now realizes his ideas on autonomy are so far beyond those of the British that the word had two meanings.

Sir Samuel Hoare, secretary of state for India, did his best to allay the panic among the Indian delegates. He denied there was any basis for the "hastily assumed" Indian beliefs that the government has made up its mind definitely on an Indian policy, that it had decided to break the pledges it had given, or that it had abandoned hope of solving the Indian riddle by negotiation.

MacDonald Resists "Diehards."

Meanwhile Prime Minister MacDonald has so far successfully resisted attempts by the "diehard" Conservatives to adopt a strong hand in India. Unless the diehards are able to muster more than the 50 votes they totaled on the attempt to amend the statute of Westminster bill so as to limit the actions of the Irish Free State, it is believed that Mr. MacDonald and Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, will be able to get over any plan for India that they may agree upon.

It is expected that Mr. MacDonald will announce at the plenary meetings of the round table conference next week an immediate provincial autonomy, to be followed by a central autonomy as soon as the Indians can agree on what they want. Whether this will be accepted by Gandhi is a matter of great doubt.

GANDHI SAYS HE'S READY TO RENEW REVOLT IN INDIA

Convinced Parley with Britain Is Failure.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Convinced that the round table conference will fail completely to give India self-government, Mahatma Gandhi, India's Nationalist leader, today threatened Great Britain with a renewal of India's nonviolent "war" for independence.

"I fear that my slender thread of hope for cooperation with the British has snapped and that I must now deliver the message of noncooperation and civil resistance to the millions of India," Gandhi said.

"And no matter how many war planes fleet over India, or how many troops are brought there, they will have no result. A reign of terror by the British government cannot kill the souls of India's millions for liberty."

Sadam Most Outspoken.

Gandhi's "declaration of war" occurred at one of the most outspoken sessions the round table conference has seen. Indian delegate after delegate arose to warn Lord Sankey, chairman of the committee, of the revolution in India if they went home empty handed.

The final gates damming the pent up Indian feeling burst when H. B. Lees-Smith, Labor delegate, put before the conference the alternative of granting practical autonomy after an interval of possibly eighteen months, or of preparing all transfer of authority from Great Britain to India until a new central government could be constituted. This, he guessed, would take three years.

Then came the torrent of Indian protest. Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, India's moderate leader, pleaded that Britain would feel in accepting a partial autonomy that they had "put it down by the government." He warned the British that he had a very vivid idea of the dangers you may cultivate by maneuvering us back on the Simon recommendations." He declared they were ready to wait three years, as Lees-Smith suggested, rather than accept provincial autonomy now.

Threatens Revolution.

Sir Jayakar was next. He regarded the offer of provincial autonomy as a "total failure." The British thereby would turn India deliberately over to "murder and chaos," he said. "Perhaps the way to freedom for India lies through a revolution."

The next speaker was Mr. Sastri, who warned that India was full of political agitators, who were willing to make trouble for the political leaders, who were constantly seeking to avoid it.

All Prophesy Rebellion.

All the Indians prophesied there would be uprisings if they return with nothing more than the conference offers at present. All were opposed to provincial autonomy unless a central government is established. Gandhi joined this stand. He said he saw nations his ideas on autonomy went so far beyond those of the British that the word had two meanings.

Sir Samuel Hoare, secretary of state for India, did his best to allay the fears among the Indian delegates. He said there was any basis for the "widely assumed" Indian beliefs that the government has made up its mind finally on an Indian policy, that it had decided to break the pledges it had given, or that it had abandoned hope of solving the Indian riddle by agreement.

MacDonald Resists "Diehards."

Meanwhile Prime Minister MacDonald has so far successfull resisted attempts by the "diehard" Conservatives to adopt a strong hand in India. Unless the diehards are able to muster more than the 50 votes they totaled on the attempt to amend the report of Westminster bill so as to limit the actions of the Irish Free State, it is believed that Mr. MacDonald and Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, will be able to put over any plan for India that they may agree upon.

It is expected that Mr. MacDonald will announce at the plenary meeting of the round table conference next week an immediate provincial autonomy, to be followed by a central autonomy as soon as the Indians can agree on what they want. Whether this will be accepted by Gandhi is a matter of great doubt.

Jury Fines School Chief $750 for Spanking a Boy

Red Lake Falls, Minn., Nov. 25.—The spanking he gave a boy cost School Superintendent J. A. Hughes $750, a jury decided yesterday. The boy's parents alleged he suffered physicial injury from the whipping.

Judge Holds Baby on Knee at Murder Trial of Miner

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mount Sterling, Ky., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—While Judge Henry R. Prewitt, sitting on the bench with his baby granddaughter on his knee, looked benevolently upon the scene, a jury of farmers heard the opening today of the tragedy of social antagonisms in Harlan county which will be focused here in the trial of W. B. Jones, United Mine Workers organizer, for inciting the killing of Jim Daniels, a coal company deputy sheriff, on May 15 last at Evarts.

W. B. JONES.

The special prosecutor for the commonwealth, J. B. Snyder, an attorney for the Black Mountain Coal corporation, which had discharged Jones and others, it is claimed, for union membership, outlined a story which he described as "blood curdling," a plot to ambush and assassinate on the part of hundreds of miners, led by Jones. He said the evidence would warrant the death penalty against him.

Ex-Senator Defense Counsel.

Former U. S. Senator John M. Robsion, chief counsel for Jones and head of a formidable array of attorneys for the national organization of miners, told the jury that his witnesses would deny this plot, although admitting the meetings and the efforts to organize a union. What the state avers simply isn't so, is the defense.

The Industrial Workers of the World were brought into the trial by Mr. Snyder who said that while working openly as a member of the United Mine Workers, Jones was also a member of the Red organization, and that this would be proven by the rolls of that organization, captured by the sheriff and on which the name of Jones was written. This also was flatly denied by the defense.

Jury Selection Long Job.

It took a long time to fill the jury box today. The sheriff spent all morning looking for a venireman in a remote section of the county near Bourbon county and the names in the wheel were gone before noon. Many men, not wishing to work in court on Thanksgiving day, got out of service by claiming prejudice and the court finally deputized garage men and taxi drivers to bring in a new list.

The commonwealth attorney injected communism into the case. He asked several men if they had heard of it and once undertook to explain that it was a philosophy opposed to Americanism.

"That cannot enter into this case," said the judge. "If that is so, then no judge in Kentucky can try the case because he is sworn to uphold the constitution."

Prosecution Outlines Case.

In making a statement for the commonwealth Mr. Snyder placed a large map on the floor in front of the jurors, whose seats are bounded by the largest cuspidors in captivity, and described the battle of May 5. On the map were the "free town of Evarts" and the mine of the Black Mountain corporation, two miles away, which is owned by a subsidiary of the Peabody-Insull interests.

There was a strike on at the time, Mr. Snyder said, and Daniels was chief officer at the mine. John Hickey, a mine employe, had a truck load of furniture to move to a company house and reported he saw armed men in the streets of Evarts. Deputies were assigned to guard the truck.

The truck passed through the main parts of Evarts, but as it reached the railroad crossing in a deep cut a shot was fired from a tree.

Daniels in the meantime deputized nine men at the mine and started out on his own adventure, and to his death.

He and his deputies passed through the main part of Evarts, but as they got at the railroad crossing, where a new road makes a deep cut and a 6 foot bank rises on either side, there was a shot from a tree at the roadside.

Daniels jumped out of his car and climbed the bank in the direction of the shot. As he lifted his head above the bank he was struck in the head and killed. At the same time other shots came from many directions and two other men in the Daniels party fell dead and several others wounded.

Says Headquarters Shared.

In telling what had led up to this Mr. Snyder said that Jones headquarters for the United Mine Workers were also headquarters for the I. W. W. The United Mine Workers, he said, was an auxiliary of the American Federation of Labor and did its work openly.

"Jones referred to all officers as 'gun fellows'," he said, "and had an enmity towards Daniels. At one meeting he told the men they could not do anything until they got rid of Daniels. He sat down and coolly planned the murder of at least five men. Once he called for volunteers to go to Black mountain and kill Daniels and Childers. He did not get any. The night before the killing there was a meeting in which Jones told the men they must get rid of Daniels and Black mountain law."

Defense Makes Statement.

Mr. Robsion said that the Black Mountain company was a member of the Harlan County Coal Operators association, which was violently opposed to their workers becoming union members. He said Jones and others were discharged after attending a union meeting, that Jones was a union man in Ohio. Not content with this, he said, the union men were driven from company houses and the company fixed things so they could not get jobs in other mines.

He declared that Daniels at all times told the men to keep within the law and declared the defense would prove all the prosecution witnesses unreliable.

Mr. Robsion further told the jury that the coal corporation had brought in two men from Chicago. One he said brought down breast plates and put them on the mine guards. The coal company ordered their guards, he said, to do everything they could to break up the union.

Night Session Held.

At the night session of court complaint was made of an attempt to intimidate Tom Hickey, a commonwealth witness. Judge Prewitt said he would inquire into the charge.

"You witnesses are here to tell the truth and if you do that and nothing else you will not get into trouble," the judge said to the witnesses.

John Hickey testified that while he was driving a truck through Evarts May 5 he saw 25 or 30 men at the depot, many of them armed with rifles. Among these were W. B. Jones and Frank Smith, both armed, he testified.

E. M. Cox, a watchman for the coal company, told of the killing of Daniels. He was in one of the cars carrying Daniels and company officers to Evarts. As they entered a cut on the road, he testified, shotguns opened on them. Daniels was killed and two other men. The first shot came from behind a water birch tree. After this he estimated a thousand shots were fired, coming from many directions upon the cavalcade.

PRODS COERCION OF U. S. WORKERS IN CHARITY DRIVE

JAMES COUZENS.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—A senate investigation of charges that federal employes here are being coerced into contributing to the million dollar relief fund being raised by the community chest was threatened today by Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], following a statement yesterday by a local official that noncontributors would be "marked men."

Senator Couzens today pronounced the threat to be "the most outrageous I have ever known."

"It is purported to be based on instructions from the President through the civil service commission, and that I much doubt," Senator Couzens said.

"However, as a member of the civil service committee, I welcome any protests against bludgeoning employes to contribute to the community chest or other charities. The government must not lend itself to such procedure. If sufficient protests are presented I will ask the civil service committee of the senate to make investigation and, if necessary, to enact legislation."

Yellow Cabs Will Drive with Dim Headlights

Judge Frank M. Padden, who has been conducting a campaign in the Traffic court against motorists who drive with only their cowl lights lighted, was informed yesterday by the Yellow Cab company that it is changing all its cabs to permit them to drive with dimmed headlights, instead of the cowl lights used in the past. The change will cost the company $10,000 officials told the judge.

TAKES EVIDENCE OF WITNESSES IN $150,000 ROBBERY

State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county yesterday went over the scene of the $150,000 gem robbery in the Lake Forest home of William B. Mitchell last Saturday night and took statements from all the witnesses with a view to presenting an airtight case to the Lake county grand jury against three alleged members of the robber gang now in custody. Indictments charging robbery with a gun will be asked of the grand jury on Dec. 7.

Meanwhile Chicago police were spurred in their hunt for Frank Tufano, alleged leader of the gang, by the recovery of a bullet marked car in which Tufano escaped capture by Sergt. William Shea and his squad 6 hours after the robbery. The car, bullet punctured in eight places, was found abandoned at Congress street and Ashland avenue and identified as stolen several weeks ago from John A. Morrissey, 1830 South 54th avenue, Cicero.

The TRIUMPH of RADIO

THE new radios! . . . You'll be amazed . . . you'll be thrilled . . . never have you heard anything like them. The new models are the triumph of radio engineering. And all next week Chicago radio stores are going to celebrate. They have set aside the week of Nov. 29—Dec. 6 inclusive as RADIO WEEK. They are making special plans to bring to Chicago a demonstration of radio values such as has never been staged.

Whether or not you now own a radio, visit your radio dealer and see and hear the new model radio receivers. Find out what's happened in the world of radio.

Listen to the superb tonal quality of the new instruments. Note the sensitivity, the range of these nation-spanning receivers. Learn about the new heights of radio enjoyment that are now opened up to you.

Go to your radio dealer and prepare to be surprised. And prepare to be thrilled at the new low prices. Never has any amount of money bought such radio perfection. Never has so little money bought so much radio value.

Next Sunday's Chicago Tribune will tell the complete story. Chicago Tribune writers will review the facts about the triumph of radio. In addition, radio manufacturers and dealers will describe their new models and reveal what they have in store for you.

Be sure to read all about it in next Sunday's Tribune and then see and hear the new radios in Chicago stores!

MEXICAN LABOR FLOCKS HOME AS U. S. JOBS VANISH

Tide Across Rio Grande Reversed.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Laredo, Tex., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—At the international bridge here this morning was a picturesque train of twenty-two dilapidated automobiles and covered wagons overloaded with household furniture and with dark eyed babies, children, parents and grandparents. They were in line for inspection by border authorities, en route across the Rio Grande into interior Mexico.

The vehicles, their impedimenta, and the dishevaled occupants resembled a baggage train for a Coxey's army. As a matter of fact, it was a caravan of an army of unemployed Mexicans returning from all parts of the United States to seek sustenance this winter in their native land.

Lose in Competition for Jobs.

Repatriates is the name which has been given here to these migrating families, refugees from stern economic conditions of the last two years. They prospered in the United States during the boom, in the steel mills of Chicago, the beet fields of Colorado, and the tire and accessory plants of Ohio. When the competition for jobs became keen, these Mexicans failed.

It was estimated here that 100,000 of these repatriots have returned to Mexico since the first of the year. An American border guard said 7,000 had crossed the bridge here in the last month.

This is the main port of this movement of a people because it is the one most convenient to the industrial districts of the central west and east which imported large numbers of Mexicans during the last decade in years when labor was scarce.

Chicago Colony Shrinks.

In Chicago and vicinity there was a colony of 40,000 Mexicans. La Prensa, a Spanish language newspaper published in San Antonio, carried a dispatch from Chicago a few days ago saying that half the able bodied Mexicans in the metropolitan district have been unemployed for more than a year, and that the colony there was shrinking as families were returning south of the Rio Grande.

Most of the automobiles in the migration train this morning carried Texas license plates, although there were several from Ohio and Colorado and a few from California. There was a remodeled light delivery truck, such as might be purchased from a junk yard for $25 or $50, bearing an Illinois vehicle license.

Illinois Emigre Prosperous.

Driving the Illinois car was a short young man with a black and heavy mustache of the type familiar in the neighborhood of the Calumet steel district, in denim trousers, blue shirt and brown felt hat. His wife and two children were in the seat beside him. Lashed to the top of the machine was a mattress and a chair. Inside the body could be seen some cooking utensils and a supply of groceries. They appeared affluent as contrasted with the occupants of the other vehicles.

Evidently from Texas were small canvas covered wagons drawn by skinny and stunted mules or horses in makeshift harness. Unshaved young men carried straps to make the animals move. Women, young and old, wore the black shawls over their heads as is customary with the poorer Mexicans. Their eyes looked tired from nights camped at the roadside. Unbathed children appeared underfed.

In the wagons were bales of hay, bottles, soiled blankets, a couple of old chairs, a few bundles of clothes—all the earthly possessions of the moving families.

Reprieved from Junk Heap.

The automobiles, almost all of them obsolete model flivvers, groaning for rest in a junk heap, were likewise loaded, except that in place of hay most of them carried several tins of gasoline strapped to dusty fenders or battered running boards. Gasoline is expensive in Mexico on the Mexican side of the river.

Repatriots are being sent to their former homes, or, as part of the agrarian system fostered by the Mexican government, are being assigned to plots of land on former large estates confiscated by the federal administration. Repatriots without other means of transportation were receiving passes on the government owned railroads, it was said.

In this movement of 100,000 persons the Mexicans are taking back to their people an acquaintanes with a higher standard of living than is common below the Rio Grande. They are less than the American laborer with less cheap competition for jobs.

Held to U. S. Grand Jury on Campus Liquor Charg

Edward Naughton, 5410 Lake Park avenue, reputed college bootlegger, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $3,000 by United States Commissioner Walker yesterday on a charge of violation of the prohibition law. Naughton's alleged accomplices, George Wilson and Patrick Conde, who have also been held, were arrested last Saturday by prohibition agents posing as students in an investigation of complaints from the University of Chicago.

Evidently from Texas were small canvas covered wagons drawn by skinny and stunted mules or horses in makeshift harness. Unshaved young men carried straps to make the animals move. Women, young and old, wore the black shawls over their heads as is customary with the poorer Mexicans. Their eyes looked tired as nights camped at the roadside. Dishclad children appeared underfed. In the wagons were bales of hay, bedding, tattled blankets, a couple of old stoves, a few bundles of clothes—all the worthly possessions of the moving parties.

Repriced from Junk Heap.

The automobiles, almost all of them Ford model flivvers, groaning for repair in a junk heap, were likewise loaded, except that in place of hay most of them carried several tins of gasoline strapped to dusty fenders or around running boards. Gasoline is expensive in Mexico on the Mexican side of the river.

Repatriots are being sent to their former homes, or, as part of the irrigation system fostered by the Mexican government, are being assigned small plots of land on former large estates confiscated by the federal administration. Repatriots without other means of transportation were receiving passes on the government owned railroads, it was said.

In this movement of 100,000 persons the Mexicans are taking back to their people an acquaintance with a higher standard of living than is common below the Rio Grande. They are leaving the American laborer with less keen competition for jobs.

Held to U. S. Grand Jury on Campus Liquor Charge

Edward Naughton, 5410 Lake Park avenue, reputed college bootlegger, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $1,000 by United States Commissioner Walker yesterday on a charge of violation of the prohibition law. Naughton's alleged accomplices, Jesse Wilson and Patrick Condon, who have also been held, were arrested last Saturday by prohibition agents posing as students in an investigation of complaints from the University of Chicago.

500 COMMUNISTS IN DETROIT FIGHT WITH POLICE AT CITY HALL.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Police today were forced to stage a desperate battle with a mob of 500 communists in front of the city hall and in Grand Circus park. Twenty-one arrests were made, including nine women. Among those arrested was John Schmeis, communist candidate for mayor last fall.

The communists were parading against orders of Police Commissioner James K. Watkins, who had ordered the marchers to come no further downtown than Cass park because traffic would be blocked. When they jammed into Grand Circus park 200 policemen attempted to break up the meeting. Tear bombs were then hurled into the ranks of the police at the city hall by communists.

Police charged the mob, but the gasses came into the city hall and police were forced to retreat inside because of the effects of the gas. Another bomb was hurled as police drew their clubs and charged the mob. Fighting started and 500 police were called for and rushed to the city hall and Grand Circus park.

Trouble again started at the city hall when 200 rioters formed scattered lines and marched from Grand Circus park to the hall. The crowd dispersed when reinforcements arrived.

COLLEGE YOUTHS WILL SHOW SKILL AS STOCK JUDGES

Teams to Compete at International.

Collegiate participation in the 23d annual international live stock exposition in the Chicago Union Stock yards will begin on Saturday, the day the show opens, when 100 youths on 20 college teams of the United States and Canada will demonstrate their judging ability with classes of horses, beef cattle, sheep and swine.

In addition, other college and university interests in the eight day gathering of the country's agricultural interests will consist of an intercollegiate meat judging contest on Tuesday, Dec. 1, and the showing during the week of college bred cattle in the open classes of competition.

Many Colleges Enter.

In the stock judging contest, which has drawn university interests to the show since 1900, representation of Canada will be in a team from the Ontario Agricultural college. Other institutions entered are the agricultural colleges of Colorado, Connecticut, Kansas, Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Purdue, Texas Agricultural and Mechanical, Wisconsin, Iowa, Texas Tech, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, Oklahoma, South Dakota, and Wyoming.

Last year Oklahoma "won a leg" on a trophy which Purdue university had had in its possession since 1929. In 1928 Oklahoma took permanent possession of the bronze bull known as the Spoor trophy. Many of the colleges will participate in the meat judging contest inaugurated last year by the national live stock and meat board, won last year by Missouri, with a team of girls from Nebraska scoring second.

College Live Stock Entries.

Live stock to be exhibited in the various departments is already arriving from the various agricultural college barns in many states. Entries are as follows:

Cattle department—Shorthorns have been entered by Kansas, Iowa, Michigan, Oklahoma, Illinois, Kentucky, Purdue, West Virginia and Wisconsin; Herefords by Oklahoma, Illinois, Purdue and West Virginia; Aberdeen Angus by Iowa, Illinois, Kentucky, Purdue, West Virginia, Washington, and Wisconsin.

Sheep department — Entries from Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Purdue, Kentucky and Wisconsin.

Swine have been entered from Iowa, Michigan, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Purdue, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Illinois.

In the horse classes Percherons and Belgians have been entered from Michigan State college and the University of Wisconsin.

HOLD UP LOOP STORE.

Two gunmen robbed the Bedford Shirt company store at 24 South Clark street of $100 yesterday. They forced the manager Martin Benault, 3023 Irving Park boulevard, into a back room and took the money from the cash drawer.

LABOR CABINET OF AUSTRALIA DEFEATED, 37-32

Election Expected to Be Held Dec. 19.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

CANBERRA, Australia, Nov. 25.—The Australian Labor government, after 25 months in office under Prime Minister J. H. Scullin, was defeated today by 37 votes to 32 in the commonwealth parliament, by a combination of the National Country party, Progressive and independent representatives, comprising the official opposition, and five of Scullin's opponents in the extreme left of the Labor party.

Scullin promptly accepted the challenge, declaring, "You can have an election as soon as you like."

A general election for the house of representatives and half of the senate will be held, probably, on Dec. 19.

Clash on Jobless Issue.

The clash came on a comparatively minor issue relating to alleged leakage of information from the treasury office regarding the proposed spending of unemployment grants. This, according to John Albert Beasley, one of the members of the extremist group, enabled unemployed workmen from the constituency of Treasurer E. G. Theodore to register for jobs at the Cockatoo naval dockyard, which is in Mr. Beasley's district, before his own jobless knew anything about it.

Theodore vigorously protested that if agents canvassed his electorate it was done without his knowledge. Scullin came to his support by refusing a commission of inquiry and invited the opposition to go to the country. The opposition accepted the challenge with enthusiasm. It is said that supporters of former Prime Minister Stanley M. Bruce, who was defeated in the 1929 election, feels that a reaction against socialism has started in strike-ridden Australia almost to the extent manifested in Great Britain at the recent election. Bruce is at present in London on a business trip.

Threatens New Tariff Bill.

Scullin is expected to announce the dissolution of parliament tomorrow.

When the vital vote in the lower house was taken the senate was considering the new tariff schedule which would lapse if parliament were dissolved before the tariff was finally passed. It will be necessary, therefore, to introduce a validating bill as when the Bruce ministry fell in 1929, and this Mr. Scullin proposes to do.

COLLEGE POETS FIND GRID MUSE A BIT AWKWARD

Especially One Close to Home.

This is the third of a series of articles on college cheering.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

New York, Nov. 25.—The whole custom of cheering in huge concert may be regarded as an American phenomenon, but apart from this general significance few of the yells express the character of the schools which use them. Aside from the conventional bonehorn sounds which occur in the cries of many other schools and have no military significance, the United States Military academy has no indicative yell, the cadet poets having ignored such indistinctive sounds as the rat-a-tat-tat of the machine gun and the bray of the army mule.

An inspired poet at Colgate or Williams might have achieved something suggesting the barber shop, although if I were challenged to suggest something myself, my best idea, offhand, would be an adaptation of the old doggerel, "Lather and shave and scissors them off." New York U, with all the sounds of the city to choose from, has no yell that would not be just as suitable to a prairie school, and it seems strange that the University of Pennsylvania and Temple university, both situated in Philadelphia, have overlooked the sound of the snore.

Princeton Roars.

Princeton's Tiger roar is far fetched. The school colors are orange and black. These, by extreme poetic license, are deemed to be the colors of the Tiger. Therefore Princeton roars.

In Arkansas, of all places, the most poetic college yell of all has been found, the conventionalized hog call of the state university, referring to the side hill farmer's summons to his stock at feeding time. The mischievous males of the Michigan State college have a salute to their rivals which is truly of the barnyard, but unfortunately this is a strictly stag cheer, unsuitable for delivery in the mixed company of a football game, although it contains no smutty rhymes.

There is nothing distinctive about the reiterated rahs of the regular Harvard cheer, but the delivery of the name of Harvard at the end—Haw-vud, haw-vud, Haw-vud—is done in pure Harvardese. Some of the southern schools express themselves with the rebel yell of the civil war and the University of Wyoming has captured the melancholy note of the cowboys' lament in a varsity yell conducted by cheer leaders in hair pants and ten gallon hats.

Yale Uses Frog Chorus.

There is an intellectual suggestion about Yale's aristophanic tidbit, the frog chorus, which Yale willingly acknowledges and I am told that the Yale-chalk allusion in the Kansas yell is an honest geological reference, the Jayhalk in the same yell being ingenuous, also.

Dartmouth's wah-whoo-wah, a deep roar slurred in quick delivery so that it sounds more like wah-whe, is heralded as an Indian war whoop and may be even so. Dartmouth began as an Indian school and, in a fine, technical sense may still be so regarded, so the yell is appropriate if not very ingenious. William and Mary, Oglethorpe, and the University of Virginia have adopted almost the same yell, by what right I do not know, and, not knowing, make no insinuations.

But the cheer for the Haskell Indians, when I saw them play a game at night in Philadelphia this year, were a war whoop of another kind, the high pitched, rapid wah-wah-wah introduced and established as standard by the gum chewing braves of the Miller Brothers' show and Buffalo Bill's.

It's a Hard Job

It would be most difficult for the poets in some schools to come up with significant sounds, however. The Ohio State football team are known as Buckeyes, for instance, and understand that the buckeye is a kind of nut. It seems almost too much to ask of a poet. The Florida team is named, appropriately, for the alligator, which I believe is reticent if not positively mute. Yet, a "silent cheer" would hardly do.

Neither are the songs, on the whole, a great credit to the artistic side of college education. Where a good tune appears it is tailored to a stolen melody, and where a fine, ringing melody is written, as in the case of the "On Wisconsin" song, the lyric is strictly tin-pan, rhyming "through line" with "touchdown ever time," or worse, if possible.

Beginning in the west, recent developments in organized cheering have assumed an elaborate, theatrical character far removed from the original intention of merely creating a distinctive, measured noise inspiring to the home team and disheartening to the other. Cheer leaders have now become stage managers in some schools, organizing masses of students into gayly colored designs, the production of which must require great study and attention to detail in the execution.

Navy Best in East.

Of the eastern schools, the U. S. naval academy has adopted this idea with the best effect and the midshipmen, after their long estrangement from the Army, astonished the We

NOTRE DAME OFF FOR ARMY TODAY; SIX END CAREERS

Irish Conclude Drill in Wintry Blasts.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—With only one idea in mind, that of last Saturday's defeat at the hands of Southern California, Notre Dame today wound up its practice for Saturday's game with the Army at New York.

The squad will leave here tomorrow noon for Harmon, N. Y., where they will stay until shortly before game time Saturday.

Despite near freezing weather, the workout was held outside. Drill was concentrated on defense. The squad for the trip will not be named until tomorrow morning. Approximately 35 men are expected to make the trip.

George Melinkovich was back at full back today. Steven Banas was still with the varsity, however, at this ill fated spot.

Jaskwhich, Schwartz, and Sheeketski were with Banas in the back field. In the line, Koaky and Devore were at ends, Krause and Kurth at tackles, Harris and Hoffman at guards, and Capt. Yarr at center.

Saturday's game will be the last in a Notre Dame uniform for Schwartz, Yarr, Culver, Hoffman, Cronin, and Leahy.

ARMY SCRIMMAGES

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 25.—[Special.] — Contrary to expectations, Army's varsity squad went through a 30 minute scrimmage with the scrubs today in winding up its final home preparations for the game with Notre Dame on Saturday. Every player on the "A" squad got into action and many of the reserves were also used.

Army lined up as it is expected to face Notre Dame with King at left end, Price left tackle, Suarez right tackle, Kopcsak right end, Carver quarter back, Stecker left half, Brown right half, and Kilday full back.

Forty-three cadets will leave here at 5:45 p. m. tomorrow for Briarcliff, where the players will be quartered until time to leave for the Yankee stadium on Saturday morning.

INJURY KEEPS STRIBLING FROM FIGHTING SCHAAF

Willie Stribling will not fight Ernie Schaaf at the Chicago Stadium on the night of Dec. 3. Tendons and muscles in Stribling's left hand were torn in his fight last Monday night with Pietro Corri at Birmingham and he notified Matchmaker Nate Lewis that he would be unable to fill the engagement here.

Late last night Lewis was trying to match King Levinsky of Chicago with Schaaf for the Dec. 3 show. There was every indication that the match will be made.

Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois athletic commission, ordered a physician, representing the National Boxing association, to examine Stribling's injured hand a this home in Atlanta, Ga., but Chicago Stadium officials were confident that Stribling's injuries are just as serious as he pictured them when he asked for the postponement of the Schaaf fight.

STANFORD MEETS DARTMOUTH AT HARVARD TODAY

Belmont, Mass., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Glen [Pop] Warner, making his first visit to this sector with a football team in 26 years, today put his squad of Stanford football players, who will clash with Dartmouth in the Harvard stadium on Saturday, through a long workout on the Belmont Spring Country club course.

Old Pop, here last with the famous Carlisle Indians, said the long trip from California did not harm his players and that all but two—Milton Hand, regular left tackle, and his substitute, George Grey—were ready for the game.

Warner does not expect that cold weather, reported to be heading east, will hamper his athletes.

Thanksgiving or Not, Wildcats Will Shine Up Claws for Purdue

BY WILFRID SMITH.

It's Thanksgiving day and all that, but Northwestern's undefeated football team will practice this morning at Dyche stadium in preparation for the championship battle with Purdue Saturday afternoon at Soldiers' field. Coach Dick Hanley, however, will see that his boys get their share of turkey and the fixings.

PAUL PARDONNER.

This morning's drill will be concluded in time for a turkey dinner, after which the squad will watch the Big Ten charity tournament at Stagg field. Ohio State and Wisconsin also will spend the day in the city. They will join the Wildcats in the stands at Stagg field this afternoon to watch Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and Chicago play.

Hanley Cancels Scrimmage.

Northwestern will go into the Purdue game, on which the Big Ten championship hinges, without a scrimmage. Hanley yesterday cancelled plans for scrimmage but he sent the team through a heavy drill on the scrimmage machine. He also included dummy scrimmage against Purdue plays in the day's drill and finished with a review of Northwestern's offense.

Quite naturally Northwestern is more concerned with its offense than defense. Although the team scored three times against Iowa, it still is below the standard of power manifested against Minnesota, Illinois and Ohio State. While not admitting any such possibility, it is likely that the Wildcats believe they must score two or three touchdowns to beat Purdue. The Boilermakers attack, based on speed, functions around two backfields which have not been held scoreless this season. By a strange twist Purdue's lowest score, a 7 to 0 victory, was registered against Illinois, which has lost six conference games.

Purdue Figures to Score.

Northwestern held Iowa and Ohio State without a score, but Indiana, Minnesota, and Illinois crossed the Purple goal line. On this basis Purdue figures to score, hence the opinion that Northwestern will need two or three touchdowns for victory.

The game Saturday will begin at 1:30, an advance of a half hour from the usual starting time. Tickets between the goal lines at Soldiers' field are priced at $3. From the goal line to the start of curve of the horseshoe on the south end of the gridiron the tickets are selling for $2. The horseshoe curve seats will be sold for $1. These customers may get a splendid break if the scoring is done at the south goal line.

Capt. Dal Marvil of Northwestern was out for practice yesterday after spending several days in the infirmary for treatment of lime burns received at Iowa last week. He and Dick Fencl, who was burned also by the lime used to mark the field, will be ready for Saturday's tilt.

Both Bands to Drill.

Both Northwestern and Purdue bands will drill at Soldiers' field Northwestern's bandsmen have given up part of their Thanksgiving holiday in order to toot for a Wildcat victory. Northwestern classes, which were dismissed yesterday, will not convene again until Monday. At Purdue the customary one day vacation was extended until Monday to permit students to attend the game.

If each team scores only one touchdown, the betting on the point after touchdown will favor the Boilermakers. Purdue has scored 27 touchdowns this year and has added 21 points by drop kick or place kick. Northwestern has added only 9 points in 21 attempts. However, one of these points was sufficient to defeat Indiana. Purdue neither has won or lost a game by the point after touchdown.

Pardonner Kicks 11 Points.

Purdue's 21 points after touchdowns have been scored by five players, but Paul Pardonner, the sophomore quarter back, has connected for 11.

Purdue's record of points after touchdowns and the players scoring them follow:

Purdue, 19; Coe college, 0. [Risk]
Purdue, 28; Western Reserve, 0. [Hecker, 2; Pardonner, 2.]
Purdue, 7; Illinois, 0. [Hecker.]
Purdue, 14; Wisconsin, 21. [Pardonner, 2.]
Purdue, 13; Carnegie Tech, 6. [Hecker.]
Purdue, 14; Chicago, 6. [Pardonner, 2.]
Purdue, 49; Centenary, 6. [Pardonner, 2; Hecker, 3; Pee'e, 2.]
Purdue, 22; Iowa, 0. [Pardonner, 2.]
Purdue, 19; Indiana, 0. [Pardonner. Another point was made but a second attempt was ordered because of penalty for holding and Pardonner failed to kick successfully from the 17 yard line.]

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

It seems to have been generally overlooked that Purdue university has a chance to finish its football season with the finest football record of any team in the central states.

Victory over Northwestern in Saturday charity game at Soldiers' field would make the Boilermakers the standout in this part of the country and there would be few teams anywhere that could claim superiority.

Northwestern comes up to its final game with a tie against Notre Dame as the only mar on its record. Purdue has dropped one game—to Wisconsin by the margin of a touchdown. Every other team in the conference has had at least one defeat and one tie.

In other words, if Purdue turns back Northwestern it will have a record of eight victories and one defeat. Northwestern would have seven victories, one defeat and one tie. Michigan, if it wins from Wisconsin, would have one defeat and a tie, and Ohio State, even if it whips Minnesota, would have two defeats.

I never have been able to share the opinion that Michigan would provide stronger competition for Northwestern than Purdue. The Boilermakers have not had as much publicity as Northwestern, Notre Dame, Michigan and some of the larger schools, but they have been going along meeting the best opposition available and doing a right smart job.

Since the start of the 1929 season Purdue has played 25 games against outstanding foes and has been defeated only three times, twice by one point margins.

Northwestern and Purdue have met three Big Ten foes in common this fall—Illinois, Iowa and Indiana. The Purple had a decisive margin against Illinois, winning, 32 to 6, while the best the Boilermakers could do was 7 to 0. This was offset, however, by the Indiana game. The Hoosiers, after playing Northwestern to a standstill, lost, 7 to 6. Purdue socked its state rival, 19 to 0. The games with Iowa were practically a standoff, Northwestern winning, 19 to 0, and Purdue, 22 to 0.

You have heard and read about Pug Rentner, Reb Russell, Ken Meenan, Jakie Sullivan and those other Northwestern speed boys, but Purdue comes to Soldiers' field with one of the greatest groups of running backs in the country.

They average more than five yards for every time they have carried the ball from scrimmage. If you want the figures, they have lugged the swinekin 518 times for a gain of 2,636 yards, an average gain of 5.08 yards.

This remarkable average has not been established through the efforts of one or two outstanding individuals. The achievement is distinctly a team affair, for no less than 16 players have figured in the running plays.

Average on running plays for the regulars follow:

Player—	Attempts.	Yards.	Ave.
Jim Purvis, hb	91	552	6.06
Fred Hecker, hb	128	547	4.27
Dujie Moore, hb	38	196	5.15
Paul Pardonner, qb	14	71	5.07
Roy Horstmann, fb	86	398	4.62
Alex Yunevich, fb	83	574	6.53
Ed Risk, hb	56	168	3.00

The Sing Sing football team is reported to have challenged West Point. It probably wants to prove that the pen is mightier than the sword.

The Bears and Cardinals resume their rivalry in professional football this morning at 11 o'clock when they take the field for their twenty-third meeting and their twelfth Thanksgiving day classic.

The new Bear, Herb Joesting, will start at full back, but last night it was hinted that Bronko Nagurski may be able to step in for part of the hostilities. Nagurski, suffering from a knee injury, left the hospital four days ago and has shown marked improvement.

The rivals have met already this year and the Bears won, 26 to 12. But that was Oct. 18, and since then the Cards have improved until now they rank with the best. They whipped the champion Packers while the Bears lost twice to Green Bay, 7 to 0 and 6 to 2. The Cards will be close to third place in the National league, which spot is now held by the Bears, if they can win today.

The Bears' line is prepared to meet Nevers, who so far this season has been chief ground gainer of the Cardinals.

The Wrigley field box office will be opened at 9 o'clock.

CARDS FINISH SATURDAY

Eastern Star charity will profit when the Cardinals close their season Saturday against the Cleveland Indians at Wrigley field. The game, although played for charity, will be a regular league battle and count in the pro standings. A previous league battle was won by the Cards.

The first string back field of the Indians is well balanced and Workman, all-American from Ohio State, is a dangerous runner, passer, and kicker. The Chicago forwards rate stronger than the opposing line.

COLD WILL KEEP BOOTH OUT OF PRINCETON GAME

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Yale will play Princeton next Saturday without Capt. Albie Booth, who tonight was diagnosed too ill with a cold to think of athletic activities for at least a week. Booth probably will get into the Yale round robin tournament involving Dartmouth, Brown, Holy Cross, and Yale the following Saturday.

Booth today developed a temperature, the cold being complicated by bronchitis, and tonight was removed from his college dormitory apartment to the infirmary. In practice today he was replaced by Bob Lassiter, who divided the left half back play with him at Harvard last Saturday.

Capt. Booth's absence probably will make the Yale-Princeton game next Saturday one of the most stubbornly contested of the season.

Downers Grove Prep Fives Hand Argo Double Defeat

Downers Grove high heavyweight and lightweight basketball teams opened their practice season last night in the West Suburban league with a double victory over Argo. Led by Oestman, substitute guard, who scored nine points, the heavies won, 35 to 15, while the lights eked out a 14 to 13 win.

Name Evanstonian Captain of U. of Rochester Eleven

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Allan Kappelman of Evanston, Ill., in the line, and Donald John McNerney of Batavia, in the backfield, will be co-captains of the University of Rochester Yellow Jackets in 1932. They were elected to the joint leadership today, successors to Barney Smith, half back, of Oak Park, Ill.

AN ILLINOIS HOOSIER

Among the Indiana university backs who will see action as the Hoosiers seek a double victory in the charity tournament at Stagg field this afternoon is H. Sawicki of Georgetown, Ill.

Let Us Give Thanks.

Let us thank God for the gifts and the treasures
He has bestowed in his wonderful way;
Let us thank God for the manifold pleasures
Of day after day.

For knowledge and health and the richness of living,
For comfort and peace and the joy of a friend;
Let us be thankful, and let us be giving
Thanks to the end.

Let us remember the sorrows of others
And carry our own with a smile that is true;
Let us be kind to our sisters and brothers
In all that we do.

Let us not say that our fortunes are sorry,
But, rather, the harder let all of us strive;
Let us give thanks to our God for the glory
Of being alive.

Another Hard Game to Lose.

Dear Harve: Two big boys returning from the Southern California-Notre Dame game, primed with an assortment of post-war stuff, passed a butcher shop with its window painted with its bargains for the day which read: "Bologna, 12; Liver, 12."

"Say, Bill," remarked one of the b. b.'s to the other, "There was another hard game to lose."

St. Augustine, Fla., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Complete returns from all 20 precincts today showed a proposal for horse racing at St. John's Park, near here, carried by an overwhelming vote of 1,340 to 131 in yesterday's referendum. Through their ballots, the voters ratified a proposal for racing with parimutuel wagering, recently legalized by the state legislature.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The most unique football festival ever offered in the Western conference will be presented at Stagg field this afternoon when four teams, Chicago, Illinois, Iowa and Indiana, meet in a round robin tournament in the name of charity.

Just how many people will see the four Big Ten trailers fight for a higher place in the championship race could not be determined last night. However, 41,000 tickets were placed on sale, and there has been a brisk demand for them during the last three days. Nine ticket windows will be open for business at Stagg field at 2:30 o'clock this morning for eleventh hour buyers.

Crowd May Reach 25,000.

With thousands of college boys and girls pouring into Chicago last night for the Thanksgiving holiday, hundreds of them from the universities whose teams have sacrificed a holiday and a Thanksgiving dinner at home to play football for charity, there were indications that the crowd will reach 25,000 or possibly go beyond that mark. A crowd of 25,000 would provide a charity fund of more than $50,000.

Illinois and Indiana will open the tournament at 1 o'clock, according to the schedule announced last night. They will play 15 minutes or one half. At 1:30 Chicago and Iowa will take the field for the first 15 minutes of their game.

At 2 o'clock Illinois and Indiana will return to the field to complete their battle in another 15 minutes of play, and half an hour later the Maroons and Hawkeyes will reappear. A kickoff will start each period.

Final Starts at 3:15.

These preliminary games are expected to be over by 3 p. m. Following a 15 minute intermission the winners will meet in a 30 minute game for the tournament championship—the only championship any of the four contestants has had a chance to win this season.

Should any of the games end in a tie, the winner will be determined on a basis of first downs. Maj. John Griffith, Big Ten commissioner, will be on hand to keep a record of them. If the teams also are tied in first downs, a flip of the coin will decide the game.

With no premium on defensive play each coach is expected to instruct his team to use every yard gaining trick in its possession and keep control of the ball as much as possible.

Three More Teams in Stands.

There also will be plenty of Big Ten football talent on the side lines. Members of the Northwestern, Wisconsin and Ohio State teams will occupy a section in the south stands. Never before have so many Big Ten teams been on the same football field in one afternoon. Only the Purdue, Minnesota and Michigan teams will be missing.

The three invading tournament teams arrived in Chicago last night. Coach Zuppke took his Illini squad to the Shoreland hotel. A few minutes later Coach Billy Hayes led his Indiana team, which is the favorite to win the tournament, into the same quarters. Iowa pitched camp at the Hotel Windemere. There were thirty-three players in each squad and Coach Stagg will also have thirty-three men in uniform when the battle starts this afternoon.

These teams should play just about the best football they have played this season. All have improved remarkably since they met disaster in the championship race. Some of them right now could give the teams in the first division plenty of argument.

Several Systems on Display.

Each team has its own particular style. Illinois throughout its disastrous season has emphasized its own formation fitted to its running and passing attack. Indiana uses both a punt formation and an adaptation of the Warner style. Iowa uses both double and single wingbacks and a formation devised by Coach Ingwersen, and Chicago's attack, as usual, is unique, for it is a Stagg built machine.

All the teams are at full strength. There was great joy on the Midway

9-10 FAVORITE 2D TO DON PEDRO IN BOWIE PURSE

Hibala Stops in Stretch; Winner Pays 6-1.

Bowie, Md., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Although they fared a little better than on earlier days of the meeting, favorites still did badly here this afternoon. One of the worst defeats came in the Capital purse, the day's feature, in which Fred Kraft's Hibala, a 9 to 10 choice, finished second. The winner was Don Pedro, ridden by Jack Long, which won by a length at better than 6 to 1.

Hibala was under the handling of the veteran Bill Kelsay, who got the colt to the front and moved along in what looked like winning fashion. The distance was a mile and an eighth, somewhat longer than is liked by Hibala, and this, doubtless, was the deciding factor. Despite whip and heel Hibala stopped in the last two furlongs while Don Pedro drove on to win handily and with something to spare.

Hibala Carries Top Weight.

Six went to the post with practically all of the late play going to Hibala, which had won here in impressive fashion a few days ago. The impost of 114 pounds, although top weight, was hardly considered likely to stop the colt, and he went to the post with a majority of the spectators having an interest in his chances.

Don Pedro paid $15.10, $4.20 and $3.60 across the board. He earned $1,150.

In the Meadows purse, the second feature, Walter M. Jefford's Allezvite, which opened a strong favorite, receded in the betting to become a second choice to Problematical, which has had a very brief racing career. Allezvite and Problematical are both by Man o' War, the former being a racer seasoned by competition and one that has shown well in stake company.

Allezvite by Four Lengths.

The swing to Problematical was surprising to many, and it looked the more surprising when Allezvite won as she pleased. Problematical did have enough early speed to go to the front and to hold the lead until approaching the far turn. There Earl Steffen was able to move away with Allezvite with no difficulty.

Down the stretch Allezvite was going easily and won by four lengths to pay 7 to 1. Problematical easily got second by two lengths over Zozars. The winner finished the mile and 70 yards in 1:45 4-5.

Calumet Dick Is Auctioned for $13,500

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Equaling the world's record for yearling sales, Calumet Dick, a well bred colt from the late William Wright's Calumet farm of Lexington, Ky., today sold for $13,500 at the 27th Old Glory horse sale.

The little bay colt, a son of Guy Abbey-Sumatra, was knocked down to Frank Piper of Poston, in a spirited bidding competition with Tom Berry, trainer for the Hanover Farms, of Hanover, Pa. The bid of $13,500 equalled the record established by Hope Frisco some years ago in old Madison Square Garden.

Piper is the owner of a small stable of trotters, which includes Hollyrood Chief, 2:01. He purchased Max Hall in Kentucky for $8,000 in the last year. Calumet Dick is eligible for all of the rich futurities of the coming year.

Calumet Dimple Brings $7,100.

E. Roland Harriman outbid a large field to get Calumet Dimple, an offspring of Bolwin, for $7,100.

H. M. Parshall of Urbana, paid $2,400 for Calumet Della, B. F. White of Lexington purchased Meda from the Walnut Hall Farm of Lexington for $3,100 and Long Arm, another Walnut Hall yearling, was knocked down to Harriman for $2,700. The remainder of the Walnut Hall consignment of 83 yearlings passed under the hammer and boosted the breeding stable's grand total for the sale to $45,455, an average of $548.

Unlike yesterday's sales, many of the potential trotting and pacing champions brought more than $1,000. W. H Cain of Goshen, N. Y., paid $1,050 for Quest, a member of the Walnut Hall consignment; Calumet Doodle of the Calumet farm was knocked down to E. C. Quinn of Blue Bell, Pa., for $1,325; H. C. Donner of Milwaukee, Wis., bid $1,775 for Calumet Dallas.

Warren Buys Volo Etawah.

Brown Berry, an offspring of Peter Volo, brought $2,000, going to J. I. and E. T. Lyle of Plainfield, N. J. The Squires brothers of Windsor, Conn., thought enough of McKinney Volo to go to $1,075. W. H. Nelson, a high bidder yesterday, stepped back into the ring and purchased Axkit from the Walnut Hall farm for $1,550. Varuna, a promising daughter of Guy Axworthy, went to Harry W. Scott of Philadelphia for $1,600 and H. R. Warren of East Moline, Ill., purchased Volo Etawah, also consigned by the Walnut Hall farm, for $1,400.

College Poets Find Grid Muse a Bit Awkward

Point cadets at their charity game last fall by producing huge caricatures of the Army mule and the Navy goat and a recognizable Navy shield, with the anchor done in gold on a field of blue by means of colored cards held aloft in their cheering section. The seats are numbered in colored chalk as a guide to the members of these ensembles, but the preparation of the designs and the rehearsals must take considerable effort.

On the Pacific coast, some of the stage managers have gone even further, arranging little tableaux which are produced on the field between halves, some of them with deliberately insulting effect. These human designs probably are a development of the marching and spelling formations discoursed by the uniformed varsity bands, and the vaudeville on the field during the intermission would seem to be an elaboration of such simple old rites as the presentation of the Army mule to the Navy goat.

Maybe They're Just Bored.

The east generally has rejected this elaborate show business, and the cheering is distinctly less spectacular and it used to be. This reserve is charged to sophistication, but I have found in my research on this subject that the current crop of students always is thought to be sophisticated.

The magazines of 20 years ago contain many articles done in a "What of our young people?" vein, which, with a little editing, could be used again today.

The students, not only in the east, but elsewhere, found themselves bored by the sort of celebrations which amused their fathers and mothers in school, which was not surprising, considering that the world do move. There have been signs that they are slightly bored even by the game of football as a spectacle.

It was natural that the cheer leaders should try to meet boredom with progress and elaboration, and they proceed about creating spontaneity with such methodical determination that they carry on a regular exchange of plans and designs with directions for operating them.

Here's One Explanation.

Just why the eastern students, who include many young people from other sections of the country, have spurned these activities I can only guess and my guess would be this: Harvard is severely non-juvenile and in the popular sense of the word, noncollegiate. Yale is only slightly less non than Harvard.

These schools, whether or not anyone wishes to admit it, are the arbiters and the students of the others do not wish to seem childish in the eyes of the Harvards and the Yales.

DOG TRACKS ASK ANOTHER WRIT TO BLOCK RAIDERS

What was construed as a new effort to obtain court sanction for parimutuel betting at dog tracks was begun yesterday in the Superior court. A petition for another injunction to restrain the sheriff and the state's attorney from interfering with the tracks was instituted by Attorney Harry Olson, former chief justice of the Municipal court.

The suit asserts that the Thornton Coursing club, which has been taken over by a group of business men, according to Attorney Olson, is willing to abide by the law under which parimutuel betting was legalized for the horse tracks. The petition states that the owners are willing to appear before the state director of agriculture to post bond, pay any fees, and conduct the tracks under the horse track rules. Through the new suit, Attorney Olson said, the privilege of legalized betting will be taken to the United States Supreme court.

Although the season for racing has passed and the tracks in Cook county are closed they still are under protection of an order from the State Supreme court where a suit contesting the legality of the pari-mutuel racing laws is awaiting final judgment.

31 Boys Box in St. Mel's Ring Tonight

Thirty-one boys, representing the west side parishes, will compete tonight in the West district quarter-finals at St. Mel's gym, 4322 West Madison street, for team positions in the Catholic Youth Organization's Amateur Boxing tournament finals, to be held Dec. 4 in the Chicago Stadium.

The six-county ring show has been going on since the first of the month all over the Chicago archdiocese.

Fontana Meets Sylvano.

The greatest interest in tonight's bouts centers in the one scheduled between James Fontana, 147 pound city champion, and Scotty Sylvano, winner of the intercity lightweight title. Fontana, who will represent Sacred Heart parish, in his division, came through the preliminaries with a knockdown and a decision. Sylvano is from St. Leonard's in Berwyn.

Packy McFarland, athletic adviser to the boys entered in the tournament, reports promising timber among the contestants in the south section, which holds its quarter finals at De La Salle gym, in Joliet, next Monday. These will be the last qualifying bouts of the tournament.

Counts on Smith.

"Packy" is particularly impressed with James Smith, a lightweight from St. Patrick's parish in Joliet.

The brothers, Allen and Harold McConnell, of Ascension parish in Harvey, fighting in the 126 and 135 pound classes, respectively, also are expected to come through.

Another south district star is Joseph Roman, 126 pounder, who has knocked out three opponents. Roman is a Joliet boy.

Tonight's bouts at St. Mel's will also bring into action Anthony Marcy, 126 pound boy, who plays football on the Crane Tech team.

Dusek Seeks 5th Straight Over Kwariani

Kola Kwariani meets Dudy Dusek tomorrow night in the windup of the wrestling show at Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. The bout will be two falls out of three to a finish. It marks the first appearance of Kwariani in a Chicago ring for six months.

Dusek has won four matches in a row. Kwariani will have a 15 pound weight advantage.

Jim McMillen will appear in the semi-windup against Lou Plummer, a newcomer to Chicago. Jim is making a comeback after a vacation because of a broken collar bone.

Three supporting matches complete the program. Gino Garibaldi meets Milo Steinborn, Jack Zarnos goes against Fred Grobmier, and Pat O'Shocker battles Jack Washburn.

THANKSGIVING TURNS THOUGHTS TO SOUTH'S QUAIL

Georgia, Louisiana Offer Treat to Hunters.

BY BOB BECKER.

This year Thanksgiving day in the northern states is apt to remind sportsmen that the sport of duck and goose hunting is nearly over and that it soon will be necessary to go south for this fun as well as for quail and later turkey hunts. Whereas in former seasons Thanksgiving day was just about the start of a great stretch of waterfowl hunting in Illinois, this season it means just about the end of the sport because the season closes Nov. 30.

In the southern states, the home of the wild turkey and also the country for unusually delightful quail hunting, Thanksgiving day and Dec. 1 practically mark the beginning of this outdoor game below the Mason and Dixon line. In Georgia the quail and wild turkey season opened Nov. 15.

Louisiana Opens Dec. 1.

In Louisiana, the quail season will open Dec. 1. Inasmuch as the wild goose season continues in Louisiana until Dec. 15 it is possible to get a combination hunt 22 hours from Chicago.

Our hunting trips in Georgia and northern Louisiana have left two impressions which are not easily forgotten because they were so different from anything we ever did in the north. For example, while quail hunting near Radium Springs, Ga., the visitor is apt to be put into an old two wheeled buggy and ridden around "chariot style" behind the dogs. After following northern dogs on foot all day, this southern system is quite a treat.

Sleep in Coffin.

In northern Louisiana near Tallulah, for example, be prepared to lie down in what the guide calls a coffin when it is time to start to work on the wild geese. We have used some queer blinds on various hunting trips throughout the United States, but at Tallulah we utilized a coffin type hideout for the first time.

The guides make large, comfortable pine boxes which look like coffins in order that they can rest high and dry above the wet grounds. Usually they are placed in the fields where wild goose decoys attract geese flying back and forth from the sand bars. The sand bar blinds are about the same as those used in southern Illinois.

One advantage of the coffin blind is that you have lots of room and with a rolled up coat for a pillow you can sleep between shots.

Chicago Prep Elevens Meet 6 Foreign Teams

Games Today

Maroa (Ill. Louis) vs. Tilden at Wilson.
Lane Tech at Allentown, Pa.
Northwestern, Ill., vs. St. Rita at St. Rita.
Gary, Ind., vs. Loyola at Loyola field.
Proviso at Elgin.
Lindblom at La Salle, Ill.
Morton vs. Fullerton Tech.

Three out of town football teams will invade Chicago this afternoon to participate in post-season games with clubs of the Chicago Public High school league and the Catholic league. Two other Chicago squads will play interim gridirons. Parker traveling to Elgin, Bowen facing La Salle-Peru at La Salle, Ill., and Crane Tech meeting Altentown, Pa., on the latter's field.

In the three games scheduled in the city, Roosevelt High school, St. Viator champion, will meet Tilden, at Soldier Field; Jasper, Ind., will battle Loyola academy at Loyola field, and Quincy, Ill., will face St. Rita on Mather's field, 63d street and South Kedzie avenue.

Another contest will see Fenger, runner-up for the south section championship of the City league, meeting Crane Tech in the tenth annual game between the two schools. Public never has lost a game to Fenger in the series.

Gary, Ind., noted for its basketball teams which compete annually in the national meet, will have one of its best, with Oscar Aubin, in the lineup when it meets Loyola. John Pfeifer will be in the Jasper back field. Outstanding linemen on the squad include Gus Borgo and Rene Panzer. Stanley Mondala, captain of Crane tech, will lead his men against Allentown, Pa.] High today at Allentown, from there they will proceed to Shenandoah, Pa., where they are scheduled to play on Saturday. Twenty-three players, headed by Coach Bill Hefland, will make the trip.

Scots Take Field Hockey Opener, 14-0

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

The team from Scotland swept to a 14 to 0 victory over the Midwestern team in the first day's play of the annual women's national field hockey tournament yesterday at the New Trier athletic field in Winnetka. Kathleen D. Adams featured for the invaders, scoring four successive goals in the first half and two in the last half.

Nan Scott, right inner for the Scots, scored five successive goals in the final quarter. The left inner, Effie A. McKerrow, made the other goals for Scotland, two in the first half and one in the second. The ball was in the losers' territory during most of the game.

Defense Is Impregnable.

Jay Purves of New York, right wing for the Midwestern team, managed to dribble the ball down to the American 25 yard line four times. Her efforts were in vain, for the Scottish defense, in conjunction with a perfect interchange of plays, made scoring impossible.

The Scots specialized in long shots and did little dribbling.

Katharine Curtis, left back for the Americans, performed excellently in a guard capacity. Marjorie Marrowell, left wing, was effective in recoveries and long runs, keeping the ball from out of bounds. Agnita Powell, American right back, who learned the game in England, also provided good interference.

The tournament will run through Saturday with the final match involving the Scottish team and an all-star team, chosen from the ranks of the American squads competing in the meet, set for Saturday afternoon.

Southeast Beats Northeast.

The Southeast team, comprising, with the exception of Ann Pugh of Baltimore, all Philadelphia girls, defeated Northeast, 4 to 2. Virginia Vanderbeck, right inner for the victors, scored once in the first half, and Katherine Weiner scored in the first half and again in the second. Dorothy Haslam, left inner, took the ball to the goal for the final score in the second half.

Anne Townsend, captain of the winning team, was indirectly responsible for two goals in the first half, keeping her part of the field so well covered it was impossible for the opposition to break through. Barbara Strebeigh, left inner, and Betty Cadbury did some splendid passing and there was little fouling by either team. Virginia Bourquardes, center for Northeast, and her team mate, Betty Rickey, left inner, each scored a goal in the second half. Lineups:

last night when it was announced that the three Maroon cripples, Toigo, Buzzell, and Wallace, will be in the game. And Illinois will have Ed Snavely, its best full back, in its ranks.

When Iowa lines up against the Maroons it will be the first time the Hawkeyes have played in Chicago since 1928. And it was in the fall of the same year that Illinois and Indiana teams last came together.

All the color of a regularly scheduled Western conference championship game will be found at Stagg field, and if Chicagoans are sincere in their clamor for charity football there shouldn't be many vacant seats in the stands.

BRUNDAGE SEEKS CHANGE IN DATES FOR I. 4-A MEET

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Voicing the opinion that the 1932 intercollegiate A. A. A. A. track and field meet and the American Olympic trials were scheduled for dates too close together, Avery Brundage, president of the Amateur Athletic union, said today he would recommend a change in date of the collegiate championship.

The I. C. A. A. A. A. meet is scheduled for Berkeley next July 8-9, and the Olympic trials for Stanford university stadium July 15-16. Such a short lapse of time, Brundage believes, would work to the disadvantage of those athletes competing in the collegiate event who also will try out for the Olympic team.

While Brundage has no connection with the I. C. A. A. A. A., he said he would telegraph officials in charge in an effort to have the date of the meet moved up to the latter part of June.

Harrier Breaks Leg; Runs Mile, Half to Finish

Ames, Ia., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Even a broken leg can't stop Earl Labertew, captain of the Iowa State two mile team, who finished a race at Lincoln Saturday after he developed an intense pain at the half mile mark.

Athletic and hospital officials alike are mystified at an x-ray picture which shows the large bone of the leg was fractured clear across.

Not realizing what had happened, Labertew continued despite the pain and finished in tenth place. Fortunately, doctors said, the ends of the bone did not separate and his leg is apparently none the worse for his effort.

LOYOLA TO HOLD CROSS-COUNTRY RACE SATURDAY

More than 40 runners representing eight Illinois colleges and universities will compete in the first annual Loyola university cross country race Saturday morning at the Loyola stadium. The race will be run over a three and a half mile course.

University of Illinois, University of Chicago, De Paul university, Illinois State Normal, Wheaton college, Elmhurst college, Monmouth college and Loyola university will have representatives on the starting line.

150,000 Cheer Trojans in Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—A crowd estimated at 150,000 welcomed the Southern California football team as it reached home today from its 16 to 14 victory over Notre Dame.

The squad, led by Coach Howard Jones, was taken on a triumphal parade from the railroad station to city hall. Two bands, the mayor, the president and members of the city council, President Rufus Von Kleinsmid of the university, Rt. Rev. Bishop J. J. Cantwell of the Catholic diocese of Los Angeles, members of the county board of supervisors, a group of other county and city politicians, a number of judges, and Frank Cochran, secretary and representative of Gov. Rolph, rode in the four mile parade in the wake of the athletes.

Crowds Call for Baker.

The parade was marked by showers of confetti and flowers, tossed down from office windows, fire escapes, and other vantage points, while high in the sky a small dirigible kept pace with the procession below. The boys started their parade through a floral arch erected at the Santa Fe station.

One of the autos attached to their parade bore a huge floral football, adorning with the figures "16-14."

The throngs which jostled the miles of police lines called repeatedly for Johnny Baker, the Trojan lineman who kicked the winning field goal, to rise and bow. The other players grinned as they repeatedly shoved Baker to his feet in embarrassment. Police twice drove back a crowd of thousands which broke through the lines and attempted to surround Baker.

Hold Rally On Campus.

In the civic program at city hall, Mayor John C. Porter said, "The team did a magnificent thing in winning over such a great team as the Notre Dame eleven. All who listened in at the game either lost their heads or their voice. I lost both."

Coach Jones said: "All kinds of credit should go to Baker for kicking the field goal that won, but it was not Baker alone who won the game. Eleven men put the ball in position so Baker could play it. It was every man who played in the game who won it, whether he started or finished the game."

The university held a second reception for the players at the auditorium on the college campus.

Praise for Schwartz.

Coach Jones and members of the team called Marchmont Schwartz of Notre Dame the greatest ball carrying back in the country.

Joe Kurth, Notre Dame tackle, loomed as the villain of the afternoon for the Trojans, according to the Trojans' comment.

The theme song of the whole outfit was this: "Boy, is that Notre Dame gang tough. Out here on the coast, we thought Washington was tough last year, and California and Stanford have a reputation for being tough. You have to play Notre Dame to know what 'toughness' is."

Stanley Williamson, captain and center of the team, told his college mates: "It's just like Jim Musick said after the game, 'We seen it and then we done it.'"

At this, President Von Kleinsmid arose and said, "By the way, I'll have the English department check up on Jim Musick."

TENNESSEE TO PLAY N. Y. U. FOR CHARITY DEC. 5

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The University of Tennessee Volunteers, who have compiled the best six year winning record of any major college football team in the country, today accepted an invitation to play New York university for charity at the Yankee stadium, Dec. 5.

The services of the two teams, as well as the use of the stadium, have been donated without expense so that the proceeds will go 100 per cent for unemployment relief here and in Knoxville.

The game eliminates the chance of the proposed playoff between Tennessee and Tulane, undefeated rivals for the southern conference championship.

Tennessee's game here marks the Vol's first trip outside the south since they began their victory march under the coaching of Maj. Bob Neyland, old Army star, in 1926. Since Neyland took charge at Knoxville, aided by Paul Parker and Bill Britton, the Volunteers have traveled through six seasons with a record of 52 victories, three ties, and only two defeats. No major team in the country can match that record, even though a share of it has been compiled at the expense of minor foes. Their last defeat was at the hands of Alabama in 1930, and the other setback was administered by Vanderbilt in 1926.

AKRON SOCCER TEAM BATTLES SPARTANS TODAY

The Goodyear Tires of Akron, O., national amateur soccer champions, will face the Spartas, National league and Peel cup titleholders, in the first inter-city game of the season at Sparta field, 31st street and Kostner avenue today. There is one other contest scheduled, the Bricklayers meeting the Maccabee All Stars at Kuppenheimer stadium.

The Goodyears, who beat the New Bedford [Mass.] Black Cats for the amateur title, have played 14 games this season, winning 12 and tying two. They have scored 37 goals, against 12 for their opponents.

CHARLES ALLING, RETIRED LAWYER, TAKEN BY DEATH

Former Alderman Passes at Age of 66.

Charles Alling, retired attorney and former alderman, died yesterday in his home at 2648 Lake View avenue. Death followed a cerebral hemorrhage. He was 66 years old.

Mr. Alling was alderman of the Third ward, now the Second ward, from 1897 to 1905 under the administration of the younger Carter H. Harrison. Mayor Harrison characterized him as "one of the aggressive, able and forceful leaders for reform." He was also attorney for the state board of health.

Mr. Alling was born in Madison, Ind., a descendant of Roger Alling, life treasurer of the New Haven colony of Pilgrims founded in 1638. His mother was the daughter of the Rev. Sylvester Scovel, president of Hanover college from 1846 to 1849. He was graduated from Hanover college in 1885 and received his master's degree in 1889.

Serves as Teacher of Law.

He attended the school of law at the University of Michigan from 1886 to 1888, in which year he was admitted to the bar in Chicago. He practiced law until 1914, retiring because his right eye was shot out on Dec. 24, 1913 by an insane defendant whom he was prosecuting as attorney for the state board of health. The defendant shot and killed himself after wounding Mr. Alling. Mr. Alling was awarded $5,000 by special act of the legislature for the injury.

Mr. Alling was attorney for the Protective Agency for Women and Children from 1896 to 1905 and for the Legal Aid society. He was dean of the Chicago Business School of Law from 1900 to 1913 and instructor in business law in the Armour Institute of Technology from 1910 to 1912. He was judge advocate of the Illinois National Guard from 1902 to 1907. He was a candidate for election to the Circuit court in 1909.

Marries Jane Murdoch.

Mr. Alling married Jane Murdoch, daughter of the late Thomas Murdoch, wholesale grocer, on March 28, 1914. With his wife he collected art, beginning with works of art formerly owned by Mr. Murdoch and the Alling family. Their collection of etchings is one of the most extensive in the city. He is survived by Mrs. Alling.

Mr. Alling was a member of the Union League club from 1903 to 1913. He was a member of the University club, the Knollwood Country club, Friends of Opera, a life member of the Art institute, the Indiana society, various Masonic orders and the Sigma Chi fraternity, which he served as executive secretary from 1888 to 1900. He was an organizer of the Sunday Evening club and an elder of the First Presbyterian church until 1923.

COURT ANNULS MARRIAGE OF RUNAWAY PAIR

The runaway marriage of Virginia Hamilton, 17 years old, daughter of Thomas B. Hamilton, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, to Thornwell Jacobs, Jr., 21 years old, son of the president of Oglethorpe university, was annulled yesterday at Plymouth, Ind., where they were married on Monday.

Mrs. Flora B. Hamilton, mother of Mrs. Jacobs, testified before Circuit Judge Albert Chipman at Plymouth that her daughter was still a minor, and asked the annullment on those grounds.

Young Jacobs, now a freshman at Oglethorpe university, was formerly a cadet at Culver Military academy. He met Miss Hamilton while she was staying at her parents' summer home, near Culver. Their Chicago residence is at 3920 Lake Shore drive. Both of the young people will return to school, Mr. Hamilton said last night. His daughter is a student at the Art institute.

Mrs. Oakman, Daughter of Late Senator Conkling, Dies

ASHFORD-NEAR-LUDLOW, SHROPSHIRE, England, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Eliza Conkling Oakman, daughter of the late New York senator, Roscoe Conkling, and Julia Seymour Conkling, died yesterday in her 76th year. She was the widow of Walter George Oakman and the mother of Mrs. John H. MacVeagh, wife of the second secretary of the American embassy in Paris. Funeral services will be held in Utica, N. Y.

Hunter Seriously Wounded by Brother in Accident

Quast Hendet of Thornton, was wounded in one leg yesterday when a shotgun was accidentally discharged in the hands of his brother, William, as they were hunting in the forest preserve. He was taken to the Ingalls Memorial hospital in Harvey in a serious condition from loss of blood. William Hendet gave some of his blood in a transfusion.

Widow and Daughter of Famous Generals Dies

Richmond, Va., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Ludy Lee Hill MacGill, widow of Gen. James MacGill and daughter of Gen. A. P. Hill, noted confederate leader, died last night. Mrs. MacGill was born on Nov. 1, 1864, only a short time before Gen. Hill was killed at Petersburg. Her mother was a sister of Gen. John Morgan.

EX-GOV. TAYLOR OF TENNESSEE IS DEAD AT 83

Famed for Fox Hunts and 'War of Roses.'

Johnson City, Tenn., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Former Gov. Alfred A. Taylor, 83, famed in Tennessee for his "War of the Roses" campaign in 1886 against his brother, Robert L. Taylor, for the governorship of Tennessee, died here early today of pneumonia. He had been in ill health for three months.

Mr. Taylor, who lost as a Republican against his brother, was one of the few of his party ever to hold the governor's chair in this state.

He was elected governor in 1920, 34 years after his defeat by his brother, by the largest majority ever given a Republican gubernatorial nominee in Tennessee. He was defeated for re-election in 1922 by the late Gov. Austin Peay.

Famed for Fox Hunts.

Known far and wide as "the Sage of Happy Valley" and for his patriarchal rule among the mountaineers, Taylor and his favorite foxhound, "Old Limber," have been almost legendary figures in Tennessee's public life for many years.

He was born at Happy Valley, Tenn. Never in his colorful career did he fail to hold at least one fox hunt a year, of gigantic proportions, which was attended by hundreds of friends from Tennessee and other states.

Mr. Taylor was educated at Edge Hill school and at Pennington academy, at Princeton, N. J. He entered Tennessee politics in 1870. In 1886, when the Republican party nominated him for governor against his brother, who was himself popular as "Fiddling Bob," the campaign was known as the "War of Roses" because "Alf" and his followers wore red roses, while "Bob" and Democrats sported white ones.

Campaigned Together.

"Alf" had left his seat in the national house of representatives to make the race for governor against his brother. After his defeat by his brother he returned to congress in 1839 and served until 1895.

Throughout the campaign they spoke from the same platform, rode through the mountains and valleys together and at night slept together in the same bed. They often directed sharp words at the other's party, but they never made personal attacks on each other.

Brother Purloins Speech.

Once during the campaign, when the brothers were on the platform, "Bob" purloined "Alf's" speech, said by many to be the best of his career, and spoke first, substituting "Democrat" where "Alf" had used "Republican." When "Fiddling Bob" won "Fox Hunting Alf" acted in grace.

The former governor is survived by his widow and six sons. His brother Bob died in 1912 while serving as United States senator from Tennessee.

Holds Bootlegger Must Pay $46,602 Liquor Tax

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed the decision of Federal Judge George A. Carpenter that Hugo Ferroni, a bootlegger of Peru, Ill., must pay the government $46,602 as a "true tax of production," in connection with the illicit manufacture of thousands of gallons of alcohol. Ferroni has already served a sentence of 18 months at Leavenworth for violation of the prohibition law. He appealed from the $46,602 judgment entered by Judge Carpenter on May 2 on the ground of double jeopardy.

I. C. C. Cuts Gas Rates in Cities Downstate

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday ordered rate reductions on natural and artificial gas mixtures in several downstate communities. Peoria and Peoria Heights domestic consumers were granted reductions of 5¾ per cent below present manufactured gas prices. East Peoria and Bartonville were given reductions of 29½ per cent, Creve Coeur 32 per cent, Pekin and a number of smaller towns 20 per cent. Rates for heating gas in all the towns were ordered reduced 42 per cent below present rates.

Teacher Is Found Dead in Schoolroom by Sister

Mrs. Mary Plumb, 52 years old, for thirteen years a domestic science teacher and manager of the cafeteria at Tuley High school, was found dead yesterday in the cafeteria by her sister, Mrs. Alvia Reichert. The incessant ringing of the cafeteria telephone attracted Mrs. Reichert's attention. She found her sister apparently resting in a chair, then perceiving her condition, summoned a physician from the nearby hospital. The physician pronounced her dead of a heart attack.

BANKER BATTLES BANDIT GANG BUT THEY GET $10,000

Montpelier, Ind., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The First National bank here was held up by five bandits and robbed today of approximately $10,000. Four men entered the bank with drawn revolvers, the fifth remaining at the wheel of a sedan bearing an Illinois license parked in front of the bank building.

D. M. Tewksbury, president of the bank, shot at the bandits, who returned the fire. Apparently all shots missed their mark.

Besides Tewksbury, Dwight Thornburg, cashier, and Miss Delia Wilson were forced to lie on the floor.

Tewksbury said he realized when the men entered they were holdup men and ran to a back room for a revolver. One of the bandits fired but the bullet went wild. Tewksbury then concealed himself in the back room and fired several shots at the bandits.

Fire whistles, which began blowing with the operation of the burglar alarm, brought citizens to the scene. The bandits left the bank shooting and fled eastward.

KYW CHANNEL IS SOUGHT BY DETROIT FIRM

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Reopening of the interzone controversy involving the use of the 1,020 kilocycle channel now assigned to station KYW, Chicago, was foreseen today with the filing of an application by Kunsky-Trendle Broadcasting corporation of Detroit, for that frequency.

Use of this clear channel with 10,000 watts power is sought by the Detroit applicant on the ground that the channel properly belongs to the second radio zone, in which Detroit is located, and was only "loaned" by the commission to the fourth radio zone which embraces Illinois.

Kunsky-Trendle now operates stations WXYZ, Detroit, and WASH and WOOD, Grand Rapids, Mich.

A. J. Malukoff, Engineer and Bridge Designer, Dies

Alexis J. Malukoff, 66 years old, an engineer, died yesterday after a lengthy illness. His home was at 6245 Winthrop avenue. Mr. Malukoff was a graduate of Columbia university school of engineering. He designed various large bridges in the east, and also fourteen New York subway stations. He retired ten years ago, making his home in Chicago. In his youth he was exiled from Russia to Siberia. On escaping, he came to America. He was a cousin of Attorney Samuel Hoffman, former assistant state's attorney. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the chapel at 4911 Broadway.

Van Duzer Burton, Rich Sportsman, Dies Suddenly

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Van Duzer Burton, millionaire sportsman, well known along the Atlantic coast as a horseman, died today of heart disease in his Harford county home at My Ladi's manor. He came to Maryland six years ago and purchased the Foxhill Keene estate and established a large stable of horses, which were entered in numerous horse shows. He was the owner of Golden Eagle, which won honors at Madison Square Garden. Besides his widow, two sons survive. The funeral will be held Friday, with interment at Newburgh, New York.

GAYLORD WHITE, UNION SEMINARY DEAN, DIES AT 67

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Prof. Gaylord White, dean of Union Theological seminary, died today in his 68th year.

Dean White was appointed in 1929 after serving the seminary for 28 years. He succeeded the Rev. Dr. Charles R. Gillette, who retired after 52 years at the seminary. For 9 years preceeding his appointment as dean, Prof. White was director of the department of church and community service of the seminary.

Born in New Rochelle, March 2, 1864, Prof. White was educated at New York university and at Princeton. He was ordained to the Presbyterian ministry in 1892.

Describing himself as a sociologist in his biography in "Who's Who," Prof. White gave himself to his students instead of committing his learning to books and at one time took an active part in politics.

Dies While Visiting Son at Lake Forest College

J. F. Sprague, former mayor of Bement, Ill., died suddenly yesterday in the Deerpath inn, 255 East Illinois road, Lake Forest. Heart disease was ascribed as the cause by Dr. A. J. Risinger. Mr. Sprague was in Lake Forest to visit his son, Ryan Sprague, a student at Lake Forest college. Mr. Sprague was a student of Lincoln and a collector of Lincolniana. His grandfather, Francis E. Bryant, was a friend of the emancipator. The grandfather's home, it was said, was used both by Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas to arrange their debates.

STEEL DEPENDS ON AUTOS FOR NEW BUSINESS

Other Outlets at Seasonal Lows.

Security exchanges, commodity markets, banks and other business will be closed today in observance of the Thanksgiving holiday. Trading will be resumed tomorrow in all leading markets.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The main reliance of the steel industry for new business in the next three months lies in the automobile industry. Building construction will be at the seasonal low point of the year, the precarious earnings situation of the railroads precludes any large amount of purchasing and agricultural machinery makers are not expected to undertake much expansion.

The declining in steel mill operations has occurred in the last week, reducing the average rate down to 29 per cent of capacity, compared with 31 per cent in the preceding week. A recession in output usually takes place with the approach of the year-end, although the hope is expressed that this may be tempered by orders from motor car makers.

Ford to Place Orders.

The Ford Motor company is expected to place substantial steel orders this week for December rolling. In addition will contract with the mills for its first quarter requirements, calling for a minimum of "one ton," the Iron Age says. Ford's needs may amount to as much as 150,000 tons of steel, although this will depend on retail sales of motor cars.

"Release of this business, which will be accompanied by similar blanket orders for other materials used in automobile manufacture, may do much toward stimulating the lagging purchases of other automobile manufacturers, since delays in Ford's production of new models have held back the plans of some other companies. The number output of automobiles, according to estimates gathered, will be between 125,000 and 150,000 units, compared with 86,000 in October and probably a slightly small number this month. The steel that will be needed next month for automobile manufacture may tend to offset the usual seasonal decline in miscellaneous consumption, prompted by inventory readjustment."

On Full Time.

Three thousand employés of the Monessport Tin Plate company were notified that 44 mills of the concern will be operated on full time, commencing Sunday. Half of the mills have been idle for several weeks. The mills now average three days a week.

Sound industrial operations picked up a little last week, as measured by consumption of electricity, which increased nearly 2 per cent over the previous week. While output for last week ran 3.9 per cent below a year ago this was a relatively better showing than appeared in the preceding week, when the comparative decline was 5.3 per cent. Last week also showed the smallest relative decline since the week ended Oct. 3. Electrical output in the Chicago district last week was 4.3 per cent lower than a year ago.

Bank Makes Forecast.

Active holiday business next month is forecast by the Central Republic Bank & Trust company in its monthly review.

"With more than 50 per cent of the country's workers employed full time and with 35 per cent employed part time, the Christmas season buying will run into the billions, even though it may be somewhat less than last year," the review says. "The Christmas buying of last season has been exceeded only twice in our retail history, and a material reduction from last year's total would still leave a sizeable volume of merchandise. The Christmas savings funds distributed by the banks of the country have been doubled twice and exceeded once. Some of this fund of 600 million dollars will go to pay pressing obligations but most of it will go for daily needs or practical gifts."

SLASHES PRICES OF TIRES DESPITE MOVE TO MAINTAIN THEM

[Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 25.—While strenuous efforts are being made by a group of manufacturers and banking interests to avoid further reductions in tire prices, the Lee Tire and Rubber Co., today announced slashes ranging from 5 to 12 per cent.

It is believed that mail order houses will also cut tire prices in their winter catalogues, which probably will force principal companies to do the same.

At meetings held recently to formulate merchandising plans for next year, much opposition developed to reduction of tire price schedules, both by some of the companies and by financial organizations interested in rubber securities.

This opposition is based largely on the fact that the industry, as a whole, earned in 1930 less than 1 per cent on the total invested capital, against 11½ per cent in 1929 and 3 per cent in 1928. In the first half of 1931 the Goodyear Co., which is considered as occupying the most favorable position in the trade, earned only $1.06 per common stock, falling short of the present dividend requirements.

AM. LOCOMOTIVE OMITS COMMON STOCK DIVIDEND

Extra Payments Made by Four Concerns.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 25.—Passing of the dividend rate on the common stock of the American Locomotive Co., announced today, caused those interested in the affairs of the company to go over the record of the last few years.

The company, one of the largest manufacturers in its line, was able to boast of a surplus of more than $30,000,000 in 1926. This amount was believed to be sufficient to permit the company to continue common dividends until conditions, which even then were bad for the Alco, returned to normal.

Dividend payments in 1926 were at the rate of $8 annually. Net earnings that year fell slightly below this requirement and since then have been materially below that figure, with balance for the common stock in 1930 equal to $1.41 a share. The $2 rate was halved on June 30, 1930, and a further curtailment was made to $2 a year with the 50 cent quarterly dividend of Dec. 31, 1930, and March 31, 1931. Omission in the dividend rate today followed two quarterly payments of 25 cents each for the last two quarters. The rate had been reduced from 50 cents to 25 cents last May.

Extra Cash Payment.

Continental Gas and Electric Co. has declared an extra cash dividend of $3.60 a share on the common stock and a special dividend of one-fifth of a share in common on the common in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of $1.10, all payable Jan. 2 to stock of record Dec. 12. Fractional stock dividends will be paid in cash at the rate of $1.75 on the prior preferred stock also was declared.

Hazel Atlas Glass Co., has declared the usual extra dividend of 25 cents a share in addition to the regular quarterly disbursement of 75 cents, both payable Jan. 2, to stock of record Dec. 15.

Directors of Mapes Consolidated Manufacturing company declared the usual extra dividend of 25 cents a share and the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share.

The G. W. Helme company declared the usual extra dividend of $2 and the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 on the common stock. The extra dividend brings the year's payments on the common up to $7. This is the total dividends paid on the common for a number of years, although the annual rate and the amount of the extra dividend have varied during these years.

Pays Preferred Dividend.

Directors of the Wheeling Steel corporation today declared the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the preferred stock, payable Jan. 2, to stockholders of record Dec. 14.

Atlantic Coast Line company, the holding company, declared a quarterly dividend of $1 a share. In the preceding quarter a dividend of $1.75 a share was paid, prior to which quarterly payments had been $2.50 a share. The reduction was in line with recent action of Atlantic Coast Line railroad, which reduced its semi-annual payment from $3.50 to $2 a share on the common.

See Asset Distribution First Step in Merger

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 25.—The proposed distribution of $45,000,000 of assets of Tobacco Products corporation, to holders of the company's class A and common stock, which was announced Tuesday, is the initial step in a projected consolidation of the company with the United Stores corporation, another holding company, and the United Cigar Stores company of America, it was indicated today by an officer of tobacco products. The assets of the three companies total more than $162,000,000.

The assets included in the proposed merger have been controlled by George K. Morrow and his associates ever since the retirement of George J. Whelan in 1929. Tobacco Products and United Stores corporation, are both holding companies, controlling United Cigar Stores company. The relationship of the group would be simplified through a merger, it was said, and the needless duplication of holding companies would be eliminated.

Pierce-Arrow Takes Back 800 Employes in Month

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Officials of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car company, said today 800 employés had been taken back on the pay roll during the last 30 days. The pay roll now contains approximately 3,000 names. Last month 2,200 employés were working on a short time basis. Now one plant is working six days a week on an eight hour day basis, with some employés working nine hours a day.

Short Lines Urge Congress Render Help

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—Recommendations to congress for legislation which they said was necessary to prevent impairment of the transportation system of the country were requested of President Hoover today by a committee of the American Short Line Railroad association, which presented to him a resolution urging such action.

The resolution, although adopted by the association at its annual meeting last month, was not made public until handed to the President by the committee of 23. It stated that "the financial integrity of the railroads as a whole is so menaced in the present unprecedented depression and that a continuation of adequate railway service without some governmental assistance is clearly impossible."

Cause of Troubles.

Speaking for the 542 class 2 and class 3 railroads throughout the United States the association in its resolution declared that such roads, due to their shorter mileage, were suffering more acutely from both the depression and competition from motor transportation agencies than the larger roads. It further declared that the stocks and bonds of the short lines were generally owned by persons local to the territory served by the road "who are most seriously affected by the decline in business of these short lines."

Among the remedial measures requested was creation by congress of a revolving fund from which cash loans could be made to carriers in need of assistance to be administered by the interstate commerce commission. Specifically, it was requested that congress enact a law similar to section 210 of the transportation act, which provided for a fund of 300 million dollars to be loaned to the railroads at the direction of the commission when they were being returned to their owners in 1920 following the period of government operation.

Urge Recapture Clause Repeal.

The resolution also requested congressional legislation bringing under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission all interstate motor transportation companies, the Inland Waterways corporation, and other carriers by water in interstate commerce, and the repeal of the recapture provisions of the transportation act authorizing the government to recover from carriers one-half of their incomes in excess of a 6 per cent return on the value of property investments. It was suggested that the repeal be made retroactive and that funds already recovered by the commission be returned to those from whom collected.

Repeal of the recapture law has been repeatedly recommended by the interstate commerce commission and it is now preparing a report to congress expected to result in recommendations for federal regulation of interstate buses and trucks.

FINANCIAL AD MEN ORGANIZE SENIOR COUNCIL

Announcement of the organization of a senior advisory council of the Financial Advertisers' association was made yesterday by Charles H. McMahon, president. Mr. McMahon, who was chosen to head the association at the annual convention in Boston in September, is assistant vice president and advertising director of the First National bank of Detroit.

The new senior advisory council is composed of fifteen members, nearly all of whom are past presidents of the association. The others also distinguished themselves in the service of the organization.

Four Chicagoans are included on the council. They are Carl A. Gode, Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company; A. E. Bryson, Halsey, Stuart & Co.; Guy W. Cooke, First National bank, and Gaylord S. Morse, Central Manufacturing District bank.

South Africa Passes Bill to Keep Gold Standard

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Nov. 25.—(AP)—An emergency finance bill to enable South Africa to remain on the gold standard was carried in the house assembly today by a vote of 78 to 53.

The government is planning to introduce a new gold coin of 113 grains of fine metal to replace the British pound. The new coin will probably be known as the "rand," after the famous district which is the center of the Transvaal gold fields.

AVERY HEADS BOARD OF MAIL ORDER CONCERN

Montgomery Ward Announce Changes.

Sewell L. Avery, president of the United States Gypsum company, was elected chairman of the board of Montgomery Ward & Co. at a meeting of directors yesterday. Mr. Avery succeeds Silas H. Strawn, who was named chairman of the executive committee, a newly created position. George B. Everitt continues as president of the mail order and chain store company.

SEWELL AVERY. [Moffett Photo.]

The election confirmed reports current for several days in financial circles that a realignment in executive personnel would be effected. No other changes were announced after the meeting yesterday, which lasted for four hours.

Pays Class A Dividend.

A brief statement issued following the meeting said that the company is in excellent financial condition with a ratio of current assets to current liabilities of 15 to 1. Declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the class A stock was also announced. The dividend is payable Jan. 1 to holders of record Dec. 30. No dividend has been paid since late in 1930 on the common stock.

It is expected that Mr. Avery's election will be followed by other changes in personnel. It is understood that the new chairman will devote a considerable part of his time to the affairs of Montgomery Ward. According to those in touch with the company's affairs, one of the jobs of the new official will be to effect a closer coördination between the mail order and chain store divisions of the company.

Joins U. S. Steel Board.

The Ward chairmanship is the second important post to which Mr. Avery has been named this year. In July he was elected a director of the United States Steel corporation. His reputation as a successful executive was heightened by the favorable earnings showing made by United States Gypsum company during the present depression period.

PHELPS DODGE QUITS COPPER SALES AGENCY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 25.—The Phelps Dodge corporation announced today that it had withdrawn from Copper Exporters, Inc., the cooperative selling agency outside of the United States for copper producing companies representing about 90 per cent of the copper output of the world.

No reason was given for the withdrawal, but it was assumed in the trade that the failure of the recent copper conference to reach an agreement for further curtailment of production was responsible in part.

The probable effect of the withdrawal of Phelps Dodge from Copper Exporters could not be determined fully, although it was the opinion of some persons in the industry that it ultimately would mean the break up of the selling organization.

Fresh weakness in copper today resulted in the establishment of a new historic low in the price of the metal.

The metal was sold in the domestic market at 6¼ cents a pound, a quarter of a cent below the previous price and three-quarters of a cent below the export price of 7 cents c. i. f. European base ports.

Marked weakness has been displayed by the copper price structure since failure nearly two weeks ago of world copper producers to reach an agreement on further curtailment of production of the metal. The producers discussed the situation for about a month behind closed doors.

Favors N. Y. Barge Canal Over Deeper St. Lawrence

BY SCRUTATOR.

To the laymen the word "canal" may conjure up a picture of a dingy little wooden barge drawn by a mule along a reedy ditch. Aboard, in addition to a few tons of cheap freight, will be the skipper, his wife, and numerous children and dogs.

That conception is based on the old order of things. But times have changed. The steadily mounting tonnage on the New York state barge canal, for example, is due to the fact that new and improved methods of water transportation have superseded the old skipper with his irresponsible ways.

The change dates from the time a few years ago when some new motorships were put on the canal to haul grain from Buffalo down to Albany and New York. They went down loaded and returned empty until it was discovered that shippers were glad to send goods back in them.

Haul More Each Year.

Now there are several enterprising water lines plying back and forth through the canal, hauling a bigger volume of tonnage each year.

Arthur C. Schier, general traffic manager for the Seaboard-Great Lakes corporation, says his concern this year is handling more than a million tons, compared with 490,000 tons last year.

The Federal Motorship corporation operates not only through the canal but across the lakes as well. It has two motorships, the "Empire State" and the "Buckeye State," each with a capacity as great as that of the steamboat canallers in the St. Lawrence river trade. The keel of a third is to be laid this winter.

George D. MacDonald, president of this company, whose family has been engaged in shipping on the lakes for three generations, believes that the New York state barge canal is the logical water route to the east.

Nine Round Trips.

This year his motorships have each made nine round trips from Chicago, Milwaukee, or Sheboygan to the eastern seaboard by way of the lakes, the barge canal, and the Hudson river. Cargoes have included tooth pasts, magazines, canned meats, bathroom fixtures, and sugar. A total of 60,000 tons has been handled this year by these two boats.

Each of the vessels carries a crew of seventeen and make the run from Chicago to New York in seven days and sixteen hours. Running time from Milwaukee to Norfolk, Va., is ten and a half days. They were originally constructed so that they could operate in either the New York barge canal or the St. Lawrence, but they have never been run on the St. Lawrence because of the difficulty in getting return westbound cargoes.

"I believe that a deeper St. Lawrence would mean little to the United States from a transportation standpoint," says Mr. MacDonald. "It could be used only for the grain export business. The little money saved on transportation would not cover interest on the money spent to improve the river. Cargoes would have to be transshipped at Montreal, anyway.

"The New York state barge canal lies in the path of trade between the middle west and its big markets in the east. Twenty-five millions spent to deepen the barge canal to twelve feet would yield bigger returns than two hundred millions spent on the St. Lawrence.

Only Dredging Needed.

"The locks would not have to be changed. They are large enough and have twelve feet of water over the sills. Only the intermediate stretches would have to be dredged.

"A twelve foot depth would mean that motorships like ours could carry 1,000 additional tons per trip. In that event we could charge the shipper 25 per cent less for transporting freight and still make the same profit."

The motorships make the canal run between Oswego and Albany in 46 hours. From New York City they reach Philadelphia or Boston in a day, and Norfolk in a day and a half. Baltimore is reached in 36 hours by using the Chesapeake and Delaware sea level canal.

Aggressive figures showing an increase in the amount of tonnage handled on the barge canal do not tell the whole story of the revival of water transportation on that link. There has been a decided falling off in heavy bulk freight such as grain and a large increase in higher paying shipments such as manufactured goods.

OCTOBER OPERATING REVENUE OF 20 ROADS IS ABOVE SEPTEMBER

The first twenty railroads to report October results showed net operating income of $23,295,000, an increase over the $18,400,000 reported by the same roads for the preceding month. In October last year they reported net operating income of $32,356,000.

F. E. Taplin, president of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia railway, said the road should cover its fixed charges this year with a small margin to spare. He said November results will be disappointing, due to the unseasonably warm weather, which has curtailed the movement of coal.

Additional earning reports for October, disclosed shrinkage of more than 25 per cent in revenues, as compared with last year.

Railroads reporting yesterday net operating income for October, with comparisons with last year, include:

Northern Pacific	$1,333,706	$2,007,598

Lehigh Valley	1,170,785	1,506,123
Pitts & West Va.	62,044	119,863

Missouri-Kansas-Texas reported for October net income of $924,276 after charges, including adjustment bond interest, compared with $274,652 in September and $1,446,732 in October of last year. Gross amounted to $3,425,987, against $2,948,496 a month previous and $4,577,769 a year previous.

Northern Pacific Railway company's monthly report, filed with the interstate commerce commission, also said net income in the first ten months this year was $5,007,306, which was a decrease of $6,493,603 from the same period of 1930.

Electric Power and Light.

I own some Electric Power and Light company preferred stock which I bought at $192. Will you please give me some information on it?—W. F. S.

Electric Power and Light corporation was formed in 1925 to group a number of public utility companies in which Electric Bond and Share was interested.

Electric Power and Light, through subsidiaries, serves 1,061 communities in ten western and southern states. About 55 per cent of gross revenues is from the sale of electricity, about 23 per cent from the sale of gas and about 16 per cent from transportation, mostly in New Orleans. The company has important natural gas holdings in Texas and Louisiana through its subsidiary, United Gas company.

Consolidated gross for 1930 was $75,000,000, against $60,000,000 in 1929 and $55,000,000 in 1928.

Net income for 1930 was $10,247,685, which was 2.01 times $7 preferred dividend requirements, 3.01 times second preferred dividend requirements and equal to $2.86 per common share. For 1929 net income was $9,708,274, which was 2.72 times $7 preferred dividend requirements, 3.01 times second preferred dividends, and equal to $2.98 per common share. Net income for 1928 was $8,382,522 and for 1927 $7,728,653.

For the twelve months to June 30, 1931, operating revenues were $83,597,850 and net income was $10,995,256, or $2.79 per common share.

On Dec. 31, 1930, funded debt of subsidiaries was $235,758,460 and funded debt of the parent company itself was $31,000,000.

On June 30, 1931, there were outstanding 512,324 shares of $7 preferred, 255,424 shares of $6 preferred, 109,226 shares of second preferred, and 1,876,838 common shares, all with no stated par value.

Holders of common stock and option warrants received rights to purchase thirteen twenty-thirds of one share of common stock at $15 per share for each share held. The rights will expire Dec. 4, 1931.

Electric Bond and Share corporation is underwriting the sale of these shares. Should it find it necessary to purchase 60 per cent of the stock offered it would have 51½ per cent of the total common stock outstanding.

The common is on an annual $1 dividend basis.

All classes of preferred deserve a fairly good rating.

The common is medium grade and somewhat speculative.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 25.—The bears of the New York Stock Exchange will eat turkey again tomorrow. It will be the third successive Thanksgiving day that they have been able to enjoy the festal board in such regal fashion. The bulls, as usual, will have to make out on crow.

Fate, or whatever it is that rings down the changes on the big board, saw to it all today by ordering a break of 1 to 4 points in the whole active stock list. Various high grade shares, including United States Steel, American Can, New York Central, and Westinghouse, were sent clattering to the lowest mark of the entire bear market. Railroad shares were sharply depressed as a group. Pennsylvania, in closing at 24¾, sold at the lowest price in the history of its trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Chemicals, usually wide rangers, dropped abruptly, the utilities put on one of the sorriest performances in weeks and the mining issues could muster no resistance at all.

Bears More Active.

From the constructive viewpoint the day was a total loss. The press of offerings in several important directions convinced brokers that the extent of operations of the bear element has become much more extensive than is generally realized and warnings were sounded all around against overzealous commitments until conditions have become more settled.

While short sales can be made only on the basis of the last price, under the exchange's anti-short selling ban traders committed to the downside may fill standing bids by offering short stock in such consistent fashion as to influence offerings of long stock at a lower figure, according to the wise ones. The result is to modify the effectiveness of the restrictions invoked by the exchange in an effort to protect the market against sales for short account. In accordance with this new wrinkle brokers assert that short sales are contributing the bulk of the small daily turnover here of late.

News Is Pessimistic.

Wheat gave the market its cue for the pre-holiday recession by selling off 2 cents a bushel. The dividend news contributed somewhat to the discouragement and a growing belief that the market is destined to break through its October lows before it can register much improvement in the nature of things stimulated offerings by tired holders.

U. S. Steel showed the way down, focusing speculative interest throughout the session as it dribbled away to one new low after another. The minimum was 57¾ as against the closing price of 57⅝, off 2¾ points on the day. Estimates placing the current rate of mill operations for the corporation at 28 per cent as against 31 per cent last week weighed heavily on the old leader.

Westinghouse Sells Off.

Selling in Westinghouse was blamed in part on a mistaken impression that the directors of the company would meet today and either omit or defer dividend payments. There was a meeting of the board today, but it developed that action on the dividend was not due until late in December. At its bottom price of 53 today the stock was selling at the lowest levels touched since 1917.

American Locomotive sold off 2 points on omission of its dividend, but later recovered about half its early loss.

The wheat slump cost Case Threshing Machine a loss of more than 3 points and International Harvester fell back with it.

Transactions were around 1,200,000 shares.

$150,000,000 Canadian Loan at 70 Million Mark

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Applications for bonds of the $150,000,000 national service loan of the Canadian government were reported officially to have passed the $70,000,000 mark. The bonds bear 5 per cent interest. The issue was offered Monday.

An Outstanding Investment Opportunity

A highly successful Illinois corporation is desirous of obtaining $40,000 for expansion purposes. The business has shown a healthy growth and conservative expansion since its organization in 1922. It is an enterprise whose earnings have more than carried forward operations.

The expansion program, already under way and requiring additional capital, is proving successful, increasing earnings and earning possibilities

Top yesterday, $6.85; average, $6.00.

Estimated receipts at Chicago Friday: Cattle, 8,000; hogs, 48,000; sheep, 20,000.

The expected happened in the live stock trade yesterday when the cold wave stimulated demand for pork and lamb and the country simultaneously cut the supply at all leading centers. The result was a sharp gain in both classes. Hogs were near a $3 year low Tuesday and most interests were eager for stock when strength appeared yesterday.

A recovery was scored in the wholesale market for fresh pork, which has been extremely dull for some time, due to the unseasonably warm weather during the last few weeks. Eastern demand added zest to the trade and lightest weight hogs scored the biggest gains. The top jumped 20c to $4.65, while the general average recovered 10c of the recent sharp loss, both prices being highest since late last week.

Sell May Hog Contracts.

Two contracts for May mediums were sold early yesterday at $5.75, and another contract at the close brought $5.50. March mediums were offered lower at $6.15, but the highest bid for them stopped at $5.25. December heavy grades were offered as low as $4.75 and most January bids were unchanged at $4.50.

Colder weather had a favorable effect on the cattle trade, too, yesterday. Prices held firm against large Wednesday receipts, and some of the top grades sold to slightly better advantage. Heavy grades which have been slow sellers lately shared in the action. Prime 1,163 lb steers sold at $12.75, only 25c under the highest price paid for cattle since last January. A shipment of steers culled from show stock reached $13.00.

As a rule demand in the cattle trade swings to yearling stock a few days prior to the live stock show. Last year during "show week" yearlings were outselling weighty cattle by about $1.00, and around the Christmas holiday in 1930 top light yearlings reached $14.75, while $12.00 was the highest paid for steers exceeding 1,500 lbs in weight. Usually during the closing week of the year the scarcity of fancy yearling stock puts 700@1,000 lb averages in the specialty class.

Lambs Reach $6.85.

Lambs scored an advance of 25c in all weights and top fed westerns advanced to $6.85, the highest paid for lambs since the middle of last month. At the high point in October, lambs were sold up to $7.90.

Receipts yesterday were smallest for Wednesday since Oct. 7, and with the weather much colder and the influence of poultry less significant, the trade looks for a good demand for lamb cuts the remainder of the week. Large local packers took most of the $6@$7 lb native and fed western lambs at $6.35@6.60. Prices have recovered fully 75c since the middle of last week.

Today being a holiday all stock arriving will be counted in with Friday's receipts, which are estimated at 2,000 cattle, 45,000 hogs and 20,000 sheep, against 1,907 cattle, 29,656 hogs and 13,967 sheep the previous Friday, and 7,253 cattle, 37,696 hogs and 29,430 sheep a year ago.

First State Pawners Earn $179,530 in Fiscal Year

The First State Pawners' society yesterday reported a net profit of $179,530 after all charges for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30. This is equal to $10.65 a share on the average number of shares outstanding and compares with $197,070, or $13.14 a share, on a smaller number of shares in the preceding fiscal year.

The total number of loans last year increased over the preceding year, but the total amount loaned was less because of the many small loans and comparatively few larger ones, according to John V. Farwell, president. Total loans at this time aggregate $2,933,505, as compared with $3,999,194 a year ago, Mr. Farwell said.

OMIT PAYMENT.

Directors of the Warner company have omitted the dividend on common due at this time. Three months ago a disbursement of 50c was made on common.

GRAIN PRICES WEAK AGAIN ON BOARD OF TRADE

Farm Board's Holdings Influence Selling.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation was on again in the grain markets yesterday with prices dropping to a new low on the current downturn, wheat at the inside showing 14¼@16¼c under the high on Nov. 9 and the lowest since Oct. 23, while corn was off 3¾@5¾c.

Pronounced weakness in Liverpool wheat, as the result of the official statement on the amount of grain held by the federal farm board and on a revision in the French milling regulations which now permit the use of only 3 per cent of imported grain against 10 per cent previously, was responsible for selling early.

It was understood that some of the long wheat sold out during the day was by local professionals who were getting out in anticipation of a new attack on the grain exchanges when congress convenes early in December.

At no time were wheat prices as high as the finish of the previous day with May dropping to 87½c and the July to 87c, with a moderate rally from the inside figure later on evening up for the Thanksgiving holiday, but net losses were 1¾@2¼c with December, 54¾@54½c; March, 56¼@55½c; May, 59@53½c, and July, 57⅛@57¾c.

Foreign News Bearish.

Cables from abroad claimed Germany was about to follow the policy of the American farm board and announcement was expected within a few days that German manufactured commodities would be bartered for Russian wheat, rye, and barley. An English miller was reported as having taken around 1,000,000 bu cash Russian wheat in store at various ports, selecting the best quality grain.

Speculation as to how much money the farm board had lost due to its stabilization operations were rife yesterday, and ranged upward to $140,000,000, but a statement made by Chairman J. C. Stone late in the day placed the loss at $102,000,000. Since Nov. 1 the price of the December wheat future at Chicago has declined 6¼c per bu, which would indicate a loss of nearly $12,000,000 since that time, making the total $115,000,000 based on the prevailing market. Losses on cotton are officially placed at $75,00,000.

Winnipeg Wheat Weak.

Buying against bids was a factor in checking the decline in wheat, but the rallies were feeble. Winnipeg was weak and off 2¼@3¾c in Canadian currency, the December being quoted at 80¾c in Canadian funds, or about 83¼c on a gold basis, being 1c above the close on Sept. 19, the day before England announced it would abandon the gold standard. Liverpool December closed at 58¾c yesterday on the basis of $3.67 for sterling, or 1¾c lower than the day before England went off the gold standard, futures there being 1¾@2d lower yesterday. Chicago December has advanced about 8¾c per bu since Sept. 19, which is taken as explaining to a considerable extent why there has been little or no export business in hard winter wheat of late. Buenos Aires closed 1¾@2c lower with December at 44c, or 4¼c higher than the finish on Sept. 19.

May wheat went to ¼c over the July yesterday, compared with ⅝c discount a short while ago, and the early delivery was inclined to act a little tight at times.

Corn Market Weakens.

Corn dropped sharply yesterday at the start, selling down into the bids and buying against the latter furnished the support the greater part of the day, but the close was within a fraction of the bottom with net losses of 1¾@1¼c with December, 39¾@39⅝c; March, 43½c; May, 44⅜c, and July, 46@46¼c.

Country offerings of corn to arrive were again very small, but this was offset by a limited shipping demand and a slight easing was reported in the basis in the sample market. Buenos Aires closed 1¾@1¾c lower with December at 30¾c.

EASY CLOSE IN LARD

Lard futures closed easy, with net losses of 2¼@6c on the principal trading futures yesterday. Business was light, yet the market was firmer early. A little liquidation and changing in trades from near to distant months was on. Pork loins were said to be higher, with an improved demand. Dry salted bellies also met a better call from distributors, while futures were 5@7½c lower. Hog prices were higher, with receipts smaller than a week ago but larger than last year. Liverpool was 3d lower to 6d higher. Prices follow:

NORTH AMERICAN EXPORTS

North American exports of wheat and flour, as compiled by Bradstreets, increased 649,000 bu, as compared with the previous week. Details follow:

	Wheat and flour, bu.	Corn, bu.
This week	9,575,000	2,000
Last week	8,926,000	4,000
Last year	3,135,000	9,000

COTTON ADVANCE LOST

Cotton markets had an easy tone and closed around the bottom yesterday, with losses of 15@27 points on futures in Chicago and 14@28 points in other markets. Spots in New York lost 15 points, with a drop to 6.30c, with New Orleans off 22 points to 6.05c; Galveston who also 6.05c, and Houston, 5.95c. Liverpool closed 2@3 points net lower. Hedging sales was a factor in carrying prices down, enabling shorts and the trade to cover. There was a general evening up for the Thanksgiving holiday. Weakness in grains and stocks had a depressing influence, offsetting the effect of rains and colder weather over the south and west.

The weekly weather crop report says the late gathering of cotton was delayed by unfavorable weather in north-western parts of the belt, also in parts of the middle west, with some damage reported on cotton still standing.

Clevenburg says that never before have Japanese interests bought cotton as extensively as at present. Prices follow:

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The Nationally known Household Plan offers cash loans of $50 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the usual low. We voluntarily reduced this low rate in 1928 and borrowers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same for the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

FOR EXAMPLE:
The average monthly cost of a $900 loan, repaid in 20 equal monthly payments, is $2.62. This is the lowest cost in Chicago.

For the Cost DOLLARS Before You Borrow.

Loans confidential. Husband and wife need sign. No endorsers. If auto is repair. Quick service.

A WORD ABOUT PACKARD'S PRICES!

Not for many years—not in the lifetime of most men and women who read this paper has there ever been the opportunity to purchase a Packard for as low a price as at this time. Sweeping price reductions have been made. Because of this, a Packard is now within the reach of everybody. Wouldn't you rather own a Packard than any other car. Check this list, see for yourself how cheap you can now buy one.

LAS

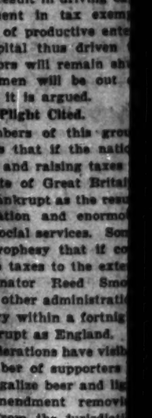
Fight Further Levy on Industry.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—A program of legislation for wiping out the prospective two billion dollar federal treasury deficit this fiscal year without increasing income taxes is to be submitted to congress by a group of congressmen, chiefly from industrial states east of the Mississippi, of whom Representative James M. Beck [Rep., Pa.], former solicitor general of the United States is the acknowledged leader.



JAMES M. BECK.

The program proposes the legalization of beer and light wines and the restoration of excise taxes thereon; the postponement during the depression of further retirement of the public debt, and the elimination of unessential and other superfluous undertakings of the federal government.

Congressman Beck and his associates will take sharp issue with the administration leaders in congress who are proposing to double the surtaxes of the income tax and impose a sales tax on numerous articles. They promise a fight in which will be exposed the colossal cost to the taxpayers of the prohibition regime and of the paternalistic and other departures from the original conception of the scope of the federal government.

Beck Group Program.

Under the program of the Beck group the two billion dollar deficit would be wiped out in this manner:

Reduction of expenses of the government by curtailment of superfluous federal activities—one billion 100 million dollars.

Legalization of beer and light wines, excise taxes on which would produce 500 millions.

Suspension of the sinking fund for the retirement of the public debt—400 millions.

Representative Beck and those who share his views are proceeding on the theory that taxation is the economic straw which broke the back of prosperity, and that to increase the tax burden will only result in driving capital into investment in tax exempt securities instead of productive enterprises. With capital thus driven underground, factory doors will remain shut and millions of men will be out of work indefinitely, it is argued.

Britain's Plight Cited.

From the members of this group emanate warnings that if the nation does not stop spending and raising taxes it will court the fate of Great Britain, which has gone bankrupt as the result of excessive taxation and enormous expenditures on social services. Some there are who prophesy that if congress should raise taxes to the extent proposed by Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah] and other administration leaders the country within a fortnight would be as bankrupt as England.

Economic considerations have vitally enlarged the number of supporters of the proposal to legalize beer and light wines by an amendment removing these beverages from the jurisdiction of the Volstead act on the ground that they are nonintoxicating. It is contended that the resumption of manufacture of beer and wine would greatly contribute to agricultural, industrial, and unemployment relief by, and would furnish the government an enormous revenue.

The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment estimates that if wine and beer were legalized there would be an annual consumption of about 34 million gallons of wine and 30 million barrels of beer, which, at the last pre-prohibition excise rates, would yield a revenue of about [illegible] millions of dollars. Mr. Beck favors higher excise tax rates, which would yield 500 millions. Repeal of prohibition, according to the association's estimate, would make possible a federal revenue from spirits, beer, and wine exceeding 900 millions at the present rates.

Eliminate Appropriations.

The saving of one billion 100 million dollars of annual government expenditures would be accomplished by the elimination of scaling down of literally hundreds of appropriations for activities, which it is asserted might well be suspended temporarily or abolished entirely.

There is, for example, the fa
